REQUIRED ELEMENTS

LADIES/MEN

SHORT PROGRAM | The short program consists of seven required elements: three jumps, three spins and one step sequence to music selected by the skater.

Duration: 2:40 (+/- 10 seconds)

Jumps: A double or triple Axel; a solo jump that must be a triple; a combination jump consisting of either a triple-triple or triple-double

Spins: A flying spin with a minimum of eight revolutions; a combination spin with only one change of foot, at least two different basic positions and a minimum of six revolutions on each foot; a layback/ sideways leaning, camel or sit spin with a minimum of eight revolutions; the landing position of the flying spin must be different from the layback/sideways leaning, camel or sit spin.

Steps: Any step sequence

FREE SKATE | The well-balanced free skate includes a maximum number of elements but has no minimum. The skater should pay attention to interesting transitions, connecting steps and movements between elements.

Duration: 4 minutes (+/- 10 Seconds)

Jumps: Can include a maximum of seven jump elements; one must be an Axel-type jump; only two triple jumps or one triple and one quad jump can be repeated, and, if repeated, at least one attempt must be part of a jump combination or jump sequence; there may be up to three jump combinations or sequences; no more than one jump combination may consist of three jumps.

Spins: A max. of three spins of a different nature, one of which must be a spin combination; one must have a flying entry; and one must have only one position

Steps: A maximum of one step sequence; and a maximum of one choreographic sequence.

PAIRS

SHORT PROGRAM | The short program consists of seven required elements, which include an overhead lift, side-by-side solo jumps done in unison, a throw jump, a twist lift, a spin, a step sequence and a death spiral.

Duration: 2:40 (+/- 10 seconds)

Lift: Any lasso lift take off (from Group 5)

Twist Lift: A double or triple twist lift (take off must be either a flip or a Lutz)

Throw: Any double or triple throw jump

Jump: Any double or triple solo jump

Spin: Any solo spin combination with only one change of foot, at least two different basic positions and a minimum of five revolutions on each foot.

Death Spiral: A backward inside death spiral

Steps: Any step sequence

FREE SKATE | The well-balanced free skate consists of technical and artistic moves choreographed to best display the skaters' individual strengths, skills and ability to perform as a team. Shadow skating (in which partners perform identical maneuvers some distance apart) and mirror skating (in which the pair's moves are in opposite directions and mirror each other) are aspects of pairs skating.

Duration: 4:00 minutes (+/- 10 seconds)

Lifts: Maximum of three different lifts, not all from the same group.

Twist Lift: Maximum of one twist lift (take off must be a toe loop, flip, Lutz or Axel)

Throw: Maximum of two different throw jumps

Jumps: Maximum of one solo jump and one jump combination or sequence. Maximum of three jumps in combination or two in sequence.

Spin: Maximum of one pair spin combination with at least one change of foot and one change of position by each partner, and a minimum of eight revolutions total.

Death Spiral: Maximum of one death spiral, which cannot be the same as the death spiral performed in the short program (backward inside).

Steps: Maximum of one choreographic sequence.

ICE DANCE

RHYTHM DANCE | The rhythm dance consists of required elements, including dance lifts, spins, twizzles, step sequences and sections of pattern dances.

Duration: 2:50 (+/- 10 seconds)

Music: For the 2019-20 season, the rhythm dance must be to music from musicals with any number of the following rhythms: quickstep, blues, march, polka, foxtrot, swing, Charleston, or waltz.

Lift: One short lift

Step Sequence: One step sequence in hold or not touching or a combination.

Twizzles: One set of sequential twizzles

Pattern Dance Requirements: One section of Finnstep (steps 1-33) and one pattern dance type step sequence

FREE DANCE | A free dance (FD) should display a full range of technical skills, interpretation and inventiveness to music. Music is the couple's choice.

Duration: 4:00 (+/- 10 seconds)

Music: Must have an audible rhythmic beat

Lifts: One short lift and one combination lift, or three different types of short lifts

Dance Spins: One dance spin selected from spin or spin combination

Twizzles: One set of synchronized twizzles

Step Sequences: One step sequence in hold and one one-foot step sequence

Choreographic Elements: Three different elements, one of which must be a choreographic character step sequence with the other two chosen from one choreographic dance lift, one choreographic spinning movement, one choreographic twizzling movement or one choreographic sliding movement. Choreographic dance lift and choreographic twizzling movement must be performed after respective required element(s); other choreographic elements may be performed at any time.

ON THE FAST TRACK

FUTURE STARS TO SHOWCASE THEIR TALENTS AT NATIONAL DEVELOPMENT CAMP

BY TROY SCHWINDT

The country's premier developmental-level skaters will take another step in their journey to realize their potential as top senior athletes when they arrive in North Carolina for the inaugural National High Performance Development Team Camp near Charlotte, Jan. 26-28.

More than 180 athletes at the juvenile, intermediate and novice levels made the National Development Team and earned the right to attend the camp based on their placements at the U.S. Sectional Singles Finals, U.S. Pairs Final and U.S. Ice Dance Final in November.

"They'll be exposed to the highest level of off-ice faculty and get a preview of what the top level of skating is like, but at the same time remembering that they are this age and this is what they are needing to learn," Justin Dillon, director of high performance development at U.S. Figure Skating, said. "In the jump classes, for example, they will work on their triple jumps and combinations — that's their development piece — while we offer them the best possible resources to help them along."

"These high-potential athletes should essentially come to the camp one or two years; we want to accelerate them through the system and get them to the junior and senior levels," Kelly Vogtner, senior director of special projects at U.S. Figure Skating, said. "We'll help them build a solid foundation and accelerate their exposure to Team USA and high-performance programming."

National Development Team athletes will start by watching their senior counterparts practice and compete at the 2020 TOYOTA U.S. Figure Skating Championships in Greensboro, January 21-26. Skaters will observe their specific discipline alongside a team leader from U.S. Figure Skating.

An inspiring athlete welcome and keynote presentation is planned in Greensboro prior to the team being transported to the Extreme Ice Center in Indian Trail, about 90 minutes away.

The camp features competitive group training, both on and off the ice, which rotates between instruction sessions and sessions where athletes showcase their best skills. On-ice sessions will feature skating skills, step sequences, performance, jumps, spins, etc., and are unique for each discipline.

Off-ice sessions will include specialty dance sessions, lifts, sports science, learning from officials, preparation for Team USA and unique performance sessions. Presenters will include top U.S. specialty coaches, performers from "Cirque du Soleil" and "So You Think You Can Dance International," sports psychologists, biomechanics experts and former Olympians. Staff from the United States Olympic & Paralympic Committee will be there to conduct off-ice testing.

The training camp will conclude each night with singles and pairs athletes observing the World Junior Team Selection Camp — a simulated competition from which the team to represent the U.S. at the 2020 ISU World Junior Figure Skating Championships will be selected. Simultaneously, ice dance athletes will participate in a competitive show emceed by Olympic silver medalist Paul Wylie.

"U.S. Figure Skating's International Committee is going to be looking at all of the skaters at the camp and assess their potential," Vogtner said. "They'll provide feedback and offer suggestions.

"This is a great opportunity for them and is a significant step in their skating journey."

Meryl Davis and Charlie White

A MAGICAL JOURNEY

DAVIS AND WHITE, MEISSNER, CASEY
EARN HALL OF FAME INDUCTION

BY BARB REICHERT

The most accomplished ice dance team in U.S. history headlines the U.S. Figure Skating Hall of Fame Class of 2020. Meryl Davis and Charlie White, the first American ice dance team to win an Olympic gold medal and a World title, will be formally inducted into the Hall of Fame during an on-ice ceremony at the 2020 Toyota U.S. Figure Skating Championships in Greensboro, North Carolina.

The six-time U.S. champions will share the spotlight with World and U.S. champion Kimmie Meissner, who was only the second U.S. lady to land a triple Axel in competition, and coaching great Kathy Casey, whose technical expertise provided the pathway to excellence for many top skaters around the world.

MERYL DAVIS AND CHARLIE WHITE

By their own account, Meryl Davis and Charlie White have taken each other's hand "tens of thousands of times." Now they will walk hand in hand into the U.S. Figure Skating Hall of Fame.

From the first time the 8-year-old White and 9-year-old Davis were paired on the ice in Michigan to when they stood together on the Olympic podium as champions in Sochi, Russia, Davis and White have shared a remarkable journey.

Growing up just minutes from each other in metro Detroit, Davis and White had the good fortune to stay close to home for their entire 17-year competitive career. With "The Moms" at their side and elite coaches such as Marina Zoueva and Igor Shpilband, and fine facilities nearby, Davis and White put together a magical journey.

They are the longest-tenured ice dance team (1997–2014) in American history, winning 30 titles in eight senior seasons. In their run-up to the 2014 Olympics, they were undefeated for two seasons.

Davis and White are the first American ice dance team to capture Olympic gold (2014) and the first to become World champions, having earned that title twice, in 2011 and 2013.

They remain the only ice dance team in the world to win five consecutive Grand Prix Finals (2009–13), and their six consecutive U.S. titles (2009–14) are a record. Davis and White are also the first ice dance team to receive all Level 4s for each of their nine elements of the free dance, at 2006 NHK Trophy.

But it was the 2014 Olympics that truly set the team apart.

Coming in as the defending Olympic silver medalists, Davis and White wanted more. In the inaugural Olympic Team Event — with White elected team captain — they chose to skate both segments of the competition instead of resting to focus on their individual event. True to form, Davis and White posted record scores to lift Team USA to a bronze medal.

Just days later in their individual event,

Davis and White again shattered Olympic records, defeating training mates and defending Olympic champions Tessa Virtue and Scott Moir of Canada.

Longtime role models and supporters of underserved youth, Davis and White were among the first to volunteer for "Classroom Champions" and continue to support the Ronald McDonald House, the Make-A-Wish Foundation, the Scott Hamilton CARES Foundation, Kristi Yamaguchi's Always Dream Foundation, Figure Skating in Harlem, Figure Skating in Detroit and the Special Olympics. They also played a key role in U.S. Figure Skating's "Your Voice" athlete safety campaign.

Today, you can find them performing in shows around the world or reporting and giving commentary during skating competitions.

KIMMIE MEISSNER

World champion Kimmie Meissner's tenacity and toughness remain the hallmarks of her career.

As a young athlete coming up the ranks, Meissner kept her eyes on the prize, becoming one of only a handful of skaters to win the U.S. novice (2003), junior (2004) and senior (2007) titles.

Competing against the likes of Michelle Kwan and Sasha Cohen at the end of their careers and with coach Pam Gregory by her side, Meissner helped usher in the era of big jumps. At the 2005 U.S. Championships, at age 15, Meissner's rare triple

Kimmie Meissner

Axel earned her the third step on the podium alongside Kwan (gold) and Cohen (silver) and a note in U.S. Figure Skating history: The feat was only the second time an American woman landed a triple Axel.

In 2006, Meissner joined Cohen and Emily Hughes to form the U.S. Olympic Team. It was a unique experience for the youngest athlete on the U.S. team. Meissner finished sixth at the Games but was determined to do more.

On the flight back home to Baltimore, both of her eardrums were ruptured, making it challenging to train for the 2006 World Championships. But tenacity and grit again won out, as Meissner landed seven triple jumps — including two triple-triple combinations — in the free skate to earn the World title.

Now holding the mantle of favorite, the Towson, Maryland, native also won the 2007 U.S. title and 2007 Four Continents Championships, but injuries prompted her to end her competitive career in 2008.

Today, Meissner returns to the U.S. Championships as a coach. Her student Mia Eckels is competing in the junior competition in Greensboro.

KATHY CASEY

Olympic and World coach Kathy Casey was as beloved for her exacting nature on the ice as for her playful personality off it. And her natural curiosity fed both.

Casey's career spanned more than 50 years, advancing the biomechanical studies of jumps and helping skaters correct technical aspects of their performances. She was so instrumental in this study that the U.S. Olympic Committee named her its Sports Science Coach of the Year in 2005.

Casey's first coaching job was in 1962 at the Lakewood Winter Club in Tacoma, Washington. While there, she began training Scott Davis, a boy from her hometown of Great Falls, Montana.

In 1990, Casey replaced the legendary Carlo Fassi as the director of skating for the Broadmoor Skating Club in Colorado Springs, Colorado, where she led the program until 2000. Davis followed Casey to Colorado Springs and went on to win two U.S. titles (1993-94) and compete at three World Championships (1993-95) and the 1994 Olympic Winter Games. Among Casey's other students were Rosalynn Sumners, Scott Hamilton, Paul Wylie and Jill Trenary.

Casey was the official U.S. coach at three Olympics and was well known for her "Kathy Casey Seminars," held across the world. In 2006, she joined U.S. Figure Skating as director of performance enhancement and later sat on its board of directors.

But at heart, Casey was always a coach, serving as PSA president from 1989 to 1994 and sitting on the USOC Coaches Committee. The PSA gave her numerous awards and inducted Casey into its Hall of Fame in 2008.

Casey died in Colorado Springs on Sept. 16, 2019, at age 79. More than 140 friends and family came from across the United States to attend her "celebration of life," fittingly held at the World Figure Skating Museum and Hall of Fame, where her U.S. Hall of Fame banner will hang.

2020 TOYOTA U.S. FIGURE SKATING CHAMPIONSHIPS

DAVIS AND WHITE GLOBAL EXCELLENCE AWARD

The Meryl Davis and Charlie White Global Excellence Award will be presented during the Skating Spectacular on the final day of the 2020 TOYOTA U.S. Figure Skating Championships in Greensboro, North Carolina.

Michigan natives Davis and White, the first U.S. Olympic ice dance champions, presented the inaugural Global Excellence Award to two-time U.S. ice dance champions Madison Hubbell and Zachary Donohue at the 2019 U.S. Championships in Detroit.

The most-recent inductees into the U.S. Figure Skating Hall of Fame, Davis and White will again present the coveted bronze sculpture during a break in the action.

The Davis and White Global Excellence Award is presented based upon a formula that includes placements/points at the U.S. Championships and world ranking points from designated international championship events. Teams must qualify for the Grand Prix Final to be considered. The senior dance team with the highest combined point total receives the trophy.

The original bronze sculpture portrays the starting pose of Davis and White's free dance at the 2014 Olympic Games. Harold Linke is the sculptor. The trophy will reside at the U.S. Figure Skating Hall of Fame in Colorado Springs, Colorado. Names will be engraved and added to the wood base each year.

A silver pin created by John Abeita of Skate Art in the likeness of the trophy will be given to each skater from the couple who earns the trophy.

READERS' CHOICE AWARD

Nathan Chen, the 2019 U.S. and World champion, will be presented the Michelle Kwan Trophy as the winner of SKATING magazine's 2019 Readers' Choice Award. The presentation will take place during the Skating Spectacular on Jan. 26.

Chen became the first skater since Michelle Kwan (2001-03) to win three consecutive SKATING magazine Readers' Choice Awards.

Each year, figure skating fans are asked to vote for the eligible skater(s) whom they believe is most deserving of the award based on the accomplishments of the past season. A total of 4,259 votes were cast during the weeklong period, which started June 27 and ended July 5. He received 63.8 percent of the vote.

Chen continued his worldwide dominance, winning every competition he competed in during the 2018-19 season. The freshman at Yale University in New Haven, Connecticut, kicked things off by prevailing at Skate America and Internationaux de France. Those victories propelled him to the Grand Prix Final in Vancouver, Canada, where he repeated as champion.

From there, Chen secured his third consecutive U.S. title in Detroit. He finished with a record margin of victory — 58.21 points. He cleanly landed four quads, two triple-triple combinations and a triple Axel in his free skate; his overall score of 342.22 included perfect 10s for his performance and interpretation of music.

Chen rolled into spring, repeating as World champion in Saitama, Japan. He finished nearly 23 points ahead of two-time and reigning Olympic champion Yuzuru Hanyu of Japan, who claimed silver. He wrapped up his season by leading Team USA to victory at the World Team Trophy in Japan.

"Nathan is a once-in-a-generation skater," SKATING magazine Editor Troy Schwindt said. "This past season is a testament to his greatness. Not only did he win every event, he did so in dominating fashion. Nathan is also a role model off the ice. Being able to excel at an Ivy League school while maintaining his perch atop the skating world speaks to his character and work ethic."

SCHOLASTIC HONORS TEAM

RAISING THE BAR

GIFTED STUDENT-ATHLETES TO BE RECOGNIZED IN GREENSBORO

U.S. Figure Skating is once again honored to name 10 of the brightest and most talented skaters to the 2020 U.S. Figure Skating Scholastic Honors Team. An additional seven athletes received honorable mention. Established in 1996 by U.S. Figure Skating, the Scholastic Honors Team recognizes student-athletes who have excelled in their academic pursuits and community involvement, as well as in the sport of figure skating. This year's winners join more than 270 former Scholastic Honors Team winners in earning the prestigious scholarship.

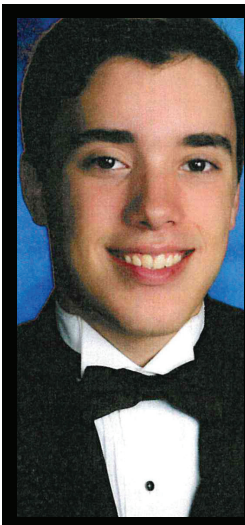

A committee reviewed more than 120 applications for this year's awards. Each member of the Scholastic Honors Team receives a $3,000 scholarship, a Scholastic Honors Team jacket, a certificate and $1,000 to donate to the charity of their choice, given by the Denver Foundation.

Criteria:

- Are eligible skaters and current members of U.S. Figure Skating
- Are full-time students entering their junior or senior year of high school
- Are enrolled in a fully accredited secondary school, attend classes and carry the minimum credit hours necessary to be a full-time student
- Have maintained at least a 3.4 GPA (based on 4.0 scale) or 93 percent (based on a 100 percent scale) over the past two academic years
- Must have competed in a U.S. Figure Skating qualifying competition at the novice, junior or senior level during the past two years

JILLIAN BELLUCK of Weston, Connecticut, is a synchronized skater on Skyliners junior team. She is on the Principal's Honor Roll at Weston High School, has twice won the school's Mathematics Scholar Award, and has received a Connecticut Secretary of State Award. She's studied college-level genetics the past two summers. Belluck plays piano and oboe and won first place in the Elite International Music Competition, earning the prize of performing in a Carnegie Hall recital. She volunteers teaching music to underprivileged children from the city of Bridgeport, mentors and tutors students in Weston, and is VP of her school's Save the Children Club.

GORDON GREEN hails from Rockville, Maryland, and is a student at Richard Montgomery High School. He, with his sister, Caroline, won the U.S. junior ice dance title in 2019. Green also played on the varsity baseball team and interned with the Montgomery County Police Department this past year. He makes sure he is well-rounded, playing the trumpet as a member of the school's symphonic band. Skating has taught Green many lessons, he said, including that you learn more from your bad performances than your successful ones.

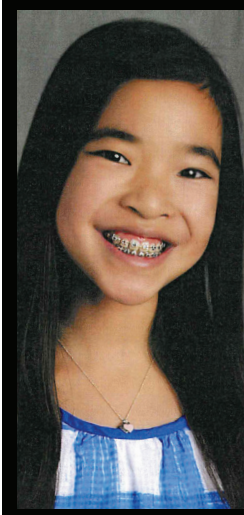

POOJA KALYAN, a junior at The New School in Fayetteville, Arkansas, is a senior-level skater. She is also a member of the National Honor Society, a school ambassador and winner of the U.S. Figure Skating Athlete Alumni Ambassador (3A) award in 2017. Kalyan worked with Roller Weight Loss & Advanced Surgery in her hometown, analyzing data for patients as part of a research study on the effects of gastric bypass operations. Kalyan volunteers at Life Source, a local nonprofit that aims to give all children an equal education, as well as at Ozark FSC's competitions. She calls any failures she faces "my motivation to train harder."

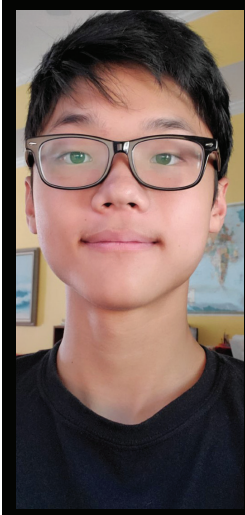

JOSEPH KANG is from Chadds Ford, Pennsylvania, and is a junior at Garnet Valley High School. Kang competes as a junior-level skater; he placed sixth as a junior at the 2019 U.S. Championships. Kang teaches Learn to Skate USA classes at his local rink and volunteers at Everest Urgent Care and Silvercare Adult Daycare Center, where he assists seniors by organizing activities for them. Kang has played the piano for 11 years and was the winner of the 2019 Summer Piano Institute Competition at the Music School of Delaware. He was awarded the President's Education Award in 2017 and is a member of the Garnet Valley High School STEM Club.

SCHOLASTIC HONORS TEAM

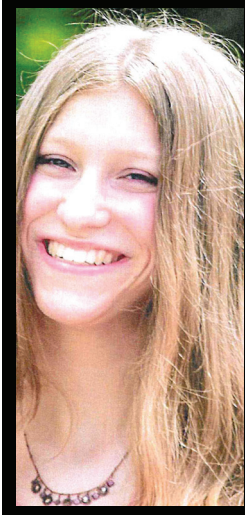

ETHNE LAUDE, a junior at Millburn High School in Short Hills, New Jersey, is a junior synchronized skater. She enjoys science and participated in the VEX Robotics World Championships, where she designed a robot that helped her qualify for the event. She was also a regional champion in the New Jersey Science Olympiad. Laude is the founder and president of her local Habitat for Humanity club and participates in the Millburn lacrosse program. She is the vice president of her school's FBLA chapter and qualified for nationals. Laude plays viola in her church's music group, and she organized a STEM expo with hands-on workshops for young children.

CHARLES LIU of Marietta, Georgia, is a senior at Wheeler High School. Liu describes himself as a loyal, driven, reliable, honest and creative person. He is a member of the varsity debate team, vice president of the LaunchX Club, which involves students creating their own start-ups; a National AP Scholar and a member of Helping Hands, a charity that assists lower-income communities. Liu volunteers as a tutor in biology, math and computer science, and recently won an award with Magnet Honors for outstanding achievement in AP Physics.

SAMIR MALLYA of Culver City, California, is a high school senior and a novice-level skater. Mallya is a National AP Scholar, 2019 U.S. Figure Skating Athlete Alumni Ambassador and 2020 National Merit semifinalist. He's been part of the principal's Honor Roll since sixth grade. He's a member of the Debate Club, Theatre on Ice team, a staff writer for The Monitor, a nationwide school newspaper; and a member of the Robotics Club. Mallya volunteers with the Los Angeles FSC, the UCLA Los Angeles Math Circle and he runs the Math Enrichment and Olympiad Preparation programs at Farragut Elementary School.

HANNAH MCDUGALL of Buffalo Grove, Illinois, is a synchronized skater who will graduate this year. McDougall spent last summer working with the University of Illinois on a computational biology research project, writing code to gather data on endangered species. She was connected to this program through her work in SPARK, a career exploration and self-discovery program in which she worked on a media-bias investigation project. McDougall mentors freshmen and helps them acclimate to high school to foster school community and inclusivity. She also works with Kiva Club, an international nonprofit organization that micro finances loans to entrepreneurs in periphery countries.

AKARI NAKAHARA is a senior at Learning Post High School in Santa Clarita, California. A senior-level skater, Nakahara is also a two-time National Showcase Parade of Junior Champions winner. She won the 2015 U.S. Figure Skating Athlete Alumni Ambassador Award. Nakahara is passionate about her academic and skating goals, and she donates handmade crafts to local hospitals and orphanages. Nakahara is a straight-A student and a gold member of the California Scholarship Federation for nine consecutive semesters. She received the President's Award for Education Excellence in 2014 and the Cassini scientist award from NASA while serving as treasurer on the junior board of the All Year FSC.

HANNAH OO of Battle Creek, Michigan, is a senior at Lakeview High School. Oo is a junior-level skater and a Learn to Skate USA instructor. Oo is a National Merit Scholarship semifinalist; she received a Yale Science and Engineering Research Award, and earned a perfect 1,600 on the SAT. In addition to attending a magnet STEM institution for half of her school day, she is a National Honor Society officer, class VP and founder/president of the Model United Nations Club at Lakeview, through which she has won multiple best delegate awards. Oo was elected to the executive board of Youth Alliance Committee, a community grant-making organization aimed at bettering the lives of local youth.

HONORABLE MENTION:

The following skaters have received the distinction of honorable mention for the 2020 Scholastic Honors Team: Grace Chen, Jeffrey Chen, Anna Nicklaus, Alexandra Popolescu, Jocelyn Song, Carly Wholihan and Katherine Xing.

IN THE BEGINNING

Carrow's efforts to bring championship-level figure skating to Greensboro actually started in 1987 when he secured the Olympic Festival for the Research Triangle (Raleigh-Cary and Durham-Chapel Hill). It took eight years, but Carrow was finally able to land the Olympic Festival, which included 4,000 athletes competing in 34 different sports. Nearly 500,000 spectators turned out for the event, which preceded the 1988 Olympic Winter Games in Calgary and the 1988 Olympic Summer Games in Seoul.

More than 9,000 volunteers worked the 183 ticketed sessions to make the Olympic Festival one of the most successful sporting events in state history. Figure skating events were held at the Greensboro Coliseum and received rave reviews.

"We spent several years after that pursuing U.S. Figure Skating and the U.S. Championships," Carrow said. "The policy back then had been for the local skating clubs to host the event. Being a small market, the numbers were not there."

Carrow remained dauntless.

After successful leadership roles at a major Atlanta Olympic Games sponsor and the U.S. Olympic Committee, he was encouraged to form his own company, which would promote sports tourism, build the local sports economy, produce sponsorship events and secure naming rights.

Successful U.S. Championships in 2007 and 2010 in Spokane, Washington, a mid-sized sports market like Greensboro, helped Carrow's cause as U.S. Figure Skating expanded its scope to attract bids from other cities.

In February 2009, North Carolina was awarded the championships, a first for the state.

'UNBELIEVABLE'

Carrow, who maintains his UNC Chapel Hill law degree license, admits he's become a major fan of figure skating after watching the sport's best athletes compete over the last decade.

"To watch what these athletes can do in person is unbelievable," he said. "It's so much different than what you see on TV, and even on the big screen above the arena."

Carrow, who is a lifelong athlete and participates in the U.S. Masters Swimming program, said he marvels over the things that three-time and reigning U.S. champion Nathan Chen can do on the ice. Chen won his second consecutive U.S. novice title in Greensboro in 2011, at age 11.

"Nathan Chen is the best athlete in the world," Carrow said. "He's the Tiger Woods of our sport."

When asked which skater he would be if he could be any skater, he quickly replied, "A mash-up of Jason Brown and Paul Wylie — Jason, with his energy and crowd-winning personality, and Paul with his eloquence and highly respected reputation."

With the success of the 2011 and 2015 events, expectations are high for the 2020 U.S. Championships. There's a new format, with the top junior and senior skaters competing for titles at the Greensboro Coliseum Complex. The top novice, intermediate and juvenile skaters will take part in the inaugural U.S. Figure Skating National Team High Performance Camp, which will be held Jan. 26-29 at the Extreme Ice Center in Indian Trail, North Carolina. The camp will include more than 180 skaters and won't be open to the public.

"We will be working to top our excellent ratings as a previous host," Carrow said. "In particular, we will be focused on attracting large and enthusiastic crowds of spectators to support the outstanding U.S. Figure Skating athletes who are among the best figure skaters in the world."

SAN JOSE, NASHVILLE TO HOST UPCOMING U.S. CHAMPIONSHIPS

The 2021 and 2022 TOYOTA U.S. Figure Skating Championships will take place in San Jose, California; and Nashville, Tennessee, U.S. Figure Skating announced on Oct. 30.

"The Bay Area has a strong figure skating tradition and has been a great host in recent years, while Nashville has one of the fastest-growing skating markets in the country, and its energetic downtown venue is ready to welcome us back for the first time in many years," U.S. Figure Skating President Anne Cammett said.

The 2021 U.S. Championships, set for Jan. 11-17, returns to San Jose for the fourth time (1996, 2012, 2018). The 2022 U.S. Championships, scheduled for Jan. 3-9, will serve as the final qualifying event prior to selecting and announcing the U.S. Olympic Figure Skating Team that will represent Team USA at the 2022 Olympic Winter Games in Beijing. Nashville last hosted the U.S. Championships in 1997.

"Both events will have great community support and will be exciting destinations for competitors, coaches, their families and fans," Cammett said.

In San Jose, the event will take place at the SAP Center at San Jose, with Solar4America at San Jose serving as the official practice venue and host of U.S. Figure Skating's newly established National High Performance Development Team Camp.

Bay Area skating greats such as Brian Boitano, Kristi Yamaguchi, Peggy Fleming, Charlie Tickner, Debi Thomas and Rudy Galindo have served as ambassadors for the event in past years; some of them are expected to be on hand for the event, which will serve as a kickoff to U.S. Figure Skating's 100-year anniversary celebration.

"With two state-of-the-art ice venues in SAP Center and Solar4America Ice, and two great partners in the City of San Jose and the San Jose Sports Authority, we look forward to making the 2021 U.S. Championships another high-profile national event," Sharks Sports & Entertainment President John Tortora said.

The Bridgestone Arena, which opened just prior to the 1997 U.S. Championships in Nashville, will again serve as the host venue. Nashville is home to Olympic champion Scott Hamilton, who founded the Scott Hamilton Skating Academy in Music City.

"From my first days working with the Nashville Predators through the Scott Hamilton Skating Academy, I knew we were going to build something unique and special," Hamilton said. "I also knew there were no limits to the ways we could benefit the skating community at large.

"I always knew we would someday host the U.S. Figure Skating Championships and I'm so excited that it's happening in 2022 and that we'll get to send off the U.S. Olympic Figure Skating Team to Beijing. I couldn't be more excited for the city of Nashville and also for the skating community, as together we will all witness a U.S. Championships like no other."
