

The Microcosm

1910

SIMMONS COLLEGE
LIBRARY

The Gift of

Digitized by the Internet Archive in 2012 with funding from

Federally funded with LSTA funds through the Massachusetts Board of Library Commissioners

THE MICROCOSM

THE SIMMONS COLLEGE ANNUAL
PUBLISHED BY THE STUDENTS OF
SIMMONS COLLEGE
BOSTON MASSACHUSETTS

V O L U M E O N E

SIMMONS COLLEGE
BOSTON MASSACHUSETTS
1910

The Simmons girl herewith submits
Her book to your inspection.
She fears that you will find it sadly full of imperfection:
But though you should see it thus
In need of your correction,
Condone we pray its many faults
And grant it your protection:
It's new, you see, and very weak,
But true without exception:
And it's SIMMONS: may this fact
Gain it your kind reception.

ALUMNAE ASSOCIATION	26
ATHLETICS	104
1910 Basketball Squad	105
1911 Basketball Squad	106
1912 Basketball Squad	107
1913 Basketball Squad	108
CALENDAR 1909-1910	7
CLASSES
1910	27
1911	53
1912	63
1913	72
Specials	79
COLLEGE ORGANIZATIONS
The Student Guild	82
The Student Government Association	84
Vespers	86
Editorial Board, 1910 Micocosm	88
Glee Club	90

CORPORATION	8
FACULTY	9
GRINDS: "THE SIMMONS DUMP"	109
HISTORY OF THE COLLEGE	25
INSTRUCTORS	17
PROLOGUE	4
SOCIAL EVENTS
Social Calendar 1909-1910	95
Japanese Tea	96
Dartmouth Concert	97
Junior Dance	98
1910 Junior Dance Committee	99
1910 Senior Dance Committee	100
Commencement Week	101

THE ANDOVER PRESS
ANDOVER, MASSACHUSETTS

CALENDAR

1909-1910.

1909

Sept. 13-18	Entrance examinations.
Sept. 20, 21	Registration and condition examinations.
Sept. 22	Opening of the college year.
Nov. 24-Nov. 29	Thanksgiving recess.
Dec. 21	College closes at noon.

CHRISTMAS VACATION

1910

Jan. 4	College opens at 9 A.M.
Feb. 5	End of the first term.
Feb. 7	Opening of second term.
Feb. 22	Washington's birthday, a holiday.
Mar. 24	College closes at noon.

SPRING VACATION

April 5	College opens at 9 A.M.
April 19	Patriots' Day, a holiday.
May 30	Memorial Day, a holiday.
May 31-June 10	Final Examinations.
June 15	Commencement Day.
June 20-25	College Entrance Board Examinations.
July 15 Aug. 13	Summer Library class.

Corporation

HENRY LEFAVOUR, PH.D., LL.D., Boston, President.

HORATIO APPLETON LAMB, A.B., Milton, Treasurer

JOHN WASHBURN BARTOL, A.B., M.D., Boston, Clerk.

FRANCES BAKER AMES, Boston.

FRANCES ROLLINS MORSE, Boston.

EDGAR HAMILTON NICHOLS, A.B., Cambridge.

WILLIAM THOMPSON SEDGWICK, PH.D., SC.D., Brookline.

JOSEPH BANGS WARNER, A.M., LL.B., Cambridge.

MARY MORTON KEHEW, Boston.

GEORGE HENRY ELLIS, West Newton.

MARION MCGREGOR NOYES, A.M., Winchester.

GUY LOWELL, A.B., S.B., Brookline.

ROBERT TREAT PAINE, 2D, A.B., Brookline.

MARY ELEANOR WILLIAMS, Brookline.

The Faculty

HENRY LEFAVOUR, Ph.D., LL.D.,
President. Williams, '86; LL.D., Williams,
'02, Tufts, '05.

Additional course, University of Berlin.

Instructor in Williston Seminary; Professor and Dean of Williams College; President of Simmons College from 1902.

Phi Beta Kappa, Trustee Williams College,
Trustee Boston State Hospital, Colonial Society of Massachusetts, American Academy of Arts and Sciences, New England Historic Genealogical Society, American Association for the Advancement of Science, American Sociological Society, American Political Science Association, American Academy of Political and Social Science. Director Hale
House Association, Executive Committee
North Bennet Street Industrial School, St.
Botolph Club, Boston City Club, City Club of
New York.

SARAH LOUISE ARNOLD, A.M., Dean
and Director of the School of Household Economics. State Normal School, Bridgewater, Mass.; A.M., Tufts, '02.

Principal of High School, Lisbon, N. H.;
Principal of Schools, St. Johnsbury, Vt., Principal of Training School, Saratoga Springs,
N. Y.; Supervisor of Schools, Boston, Mass.;
Dean of Simmons College from 1902.

Author of Stepping Stones to Literature with Supt. C. B. Gilbert, St. Paul, Minn.,
1897; The Mother Tongue with Professor
George L. Kittredge, Harvard University,
1900; Manual of Composition with Professor
Kittredge and Professor Gardiner, Harvard University, 1902; Waymarks for Teachers, 1894; With Pencil and Pen; Reading; How
To Teach It, 1889.

Member of Massachusetts State Board of Education; National Council of Education,
N. E. A.; Chairman New England Association of Home Economics.

JAMES F. NORRIS, A.B., Ph.D., Professor of Chemistry and Director of the School of Science. A.B., Johns Hopkins University, '92; Ph.D., Johns Hopkins University, '95.

Assistant Professor of Organic Chemistry, M. I. T.; Professor Chemistry from 1904.

Author of about thirty papers on Inorganic Chemistry and Organic Chemistry in American and German Chemical Journals.

Phi Beta Kappa, Technology Club, American Academy of Arts and Sciences, American Chemical Society, Die Deutsche Chemische Gesellschaft.

ALFRED BULL NICHOLS, A.B., Professor of German. A.B., Yale, '80.

FRANK EDGAR FARLEY, A.B., A.M., Ph.D., Professor of English. A.B., Harvard University, '93; A.M., Harvard University, '94; Ph.D., Harvard University, '97.

Assistant in English, Harvard University; Assistant in English, Radcliffe; Instructor in English, Haverford; Professor of English, Syracuse University; Professor of English Simmons from 1903.

Author of Scandinavian influences in the English Romantic Movement, 1903; editor of Milton's Paradise Lost, 1898.

JEFFREY A. BRACKETT, A.B., Ph.D.,
Associate Professor of the Theory and Practice of Philanthropic Work, and Director of the School for Social Workers.
 A.B., Harvard University, '83; Ph.D.,
 Johns Hopkins University, '89.

President Department Charities of Baltimore, Md.; President National Conference of Charities and Correction; Director of School for Social Workers, Boston, from 1904.

Author of Supervision and Education in Charity, 1901.

Massachusetts State Board of Charity.

REGINALD RUSDEN GOODELL, A.B.,
 A.M., Associate Professor of Romance Languages. Bowdoin.

Additional courses, Johns Hopkins University, The Sorbonne, Grenoble, L'Alliance Française.

Instructor at Bowdoin; Instructor at M. I.
 T.; Associate Professor from 1902.

Editor of L'Enfant Espion and Other Stories.

Delta Kappa Epsilon, Phi Kappa Phi,
 Technology Club, Modern Language Association, Salon Français de Boston.

EDWARD H. ELDRIDGE, A.M., Ph.D.,
Associate Professor of Secretarial Studies and Director of the School of Secretarial Studies. Temple University, Philadelphia;
 A.M., '03; Ph.D., '08.

Additional courses, Amherst, Chicago University, University of Pennsylvania.

Secretary to College President; Professor of Psychology, Temple College (now University); Director School of Commerce, Temple College; Director School of Secretarial Studies, Simmons, from 1902.

Author of Hypnotism, 1902; *Dictation
 Exercises*, 1910.

MARY ESTHER ROBBINS, Assistant Professor of Library Science, Director of the School of Library Science, and Librarian. New York State Library School, 1892.

Librarian New Britain Institute, New Britain, Conn.; Head Cataloguer, University of Nebraska, Lincoln, Neb.; Library Organizer for five years in various libraries; Director of Library School, Simmons, from 1902.

Author of articles in technical magazines.

Member of the Council of the American Library Association, Fellow of the American Library Institute, Treasurer Mass. Library Club.

MARIA WILLET HOWARD, Assistant Professor of Household Economics. Thayer Academy, Braintree, Mass.

KENNETH L. MARK, A.B., A.M., Ph.D., Assistant Professor of Chemistry. Harvard, A.B., '98; A.M., '00; Ph.D., '03.

Assistant in Chemistry, Harvard University; Instructor in Chemistry, Simmons; Assistant Professor from 1906.

Author of Thermal Expansion of Gases.

Delta Upsilon, American Chemical Society.

LESLIE LYLE CAMPBELL, A.M., Ph.D.,
Assistant Professor of Physics. Washington and Lee; Harvard University.

Professor of Physics, Westminster College; Assistant Professor, Simmons, from 1905.

Author of Thermal and Electrical Properties of Metals in Proceedings of American Academy of Arts and Sciences; Thermomagnetic Effect in Soft Iron, Physical Review.

Member of American Physical Society, Fellow of American Association for the Advancement of Science, Member National Geographical Society, Member Mathematical and Physical Club, Associate Member Eastern Association of Physics Teachers.

SUSAN M. KINGSBURY, A.B., A.M., Ph.D.,
Assistant Professor of History and Economics. University of the Pacific, California, '90; A.M., Leland Stanford Junior University, '99; Ph.D., Columbia University, '05.

Teacher of History, San Francisco Lowell High School; Instructor in History, Vassar College; Director of Investigation for Commission on Industrial Education.

Author of Introduction to the Records of the Virginia Company; Relation of Children to Industry in Report of Massachusetts Commission on Industrial Education.

Kappa Alpha Theta, General Committee of American Historical Association, Council of New England History Teachers Association.

MARY E. PARKER, A.B., A.M., Assistant Professor of the Principles and Practice of Teaching. Wellesley College, '88; A.M., University of Pennsylvania, '98; A.M., Radcliffe, '99.

Assistant, Gardner, Mass., High School; Supervisor in public schools of Altoona, Pa., and Syracuse, N. Y.; Assistant Professor from 1905.

National Education Association, Association of Collegiate Alumnae, New England College Teachers of Education, Social Education Club, Harvard Teachers Association, Twentieth Century Club.

PERCY GOLDTHWAIT STILES, S.B.,
Ph.D., Assistant Professor of Physiology.
Massachusetts Institute of Technology, '97;
Ph.D., Johns Hopkins University, '02.

Instructor Bellevue Medical College; Instructor, M. I. T., from 1903; Assistant Professor, Simmons, from 1907.

Author of sundry scientific papers.
Society of Experimental Biology and Medicine, American Physiological Society.

ERNST HERMANN PAUL GROSSMAN,
A.B., Assistant Professor of German.
Berlin Normal College; A.B., Harvard '02.

Instructor at Harvard University; Assistant Professor, Simmons.

ORLANDO C. MOYER, B.C.S., Assistant
Professor of Secretarial Studies. New York University, School of Commerce,
Accounts and Finance.

Additional course, University of Pennsylvania.

Instructor New York University, School of Commerce, Accounts and Finance; Secretary to Dean of New York University, School of Commerce, Accounts, and Finance; Assistant Professor, Simmons, from 1905.

Profession, Certified Public Accountant of Massachusetts.

Fellow, Incorporated Public Accountants of Massachusetts; Fellow, American Association of Public Accountants.

CHARLES MARSHALL UNDERWOOD, JR., A.B., A.M., Ph.D., Assistant Professor of Romance Languages. Harvard, '00; A.M., Harvard, '01; Ph.D., Harvard, '05.

Additional courses, University of Paris, University of Grenoble.

Instructor, Harvard University, Dartmouth College, University of Cincinnati; Instructor, Simmons, 1907; Assistant Professor, Simmons, from 1908.

ARTHUR IRVING ANDREWS, A.B., Ph.D., Assistant Professor of History. Brown University, '01; Ph.D., Harvard, '05.

Assistant in History, Harvard University; Instructor in History, Simmons, 1906; Assistant Professor from 1909.

Delta Upsilon, American Historical Association, American Political Science Association, Institute de Carthage.

FREDERIC AUSTIN OGG, A.M., Ph.D., Assistant Professor of History. DePauw University; A.M., University of Indiana, '00; A.M., Harvard University, '04; Ph.D., Harvard University, '08.

Instructor in History, University of Indiana; Assistant in History, Harvard University; Instructor in History, Simmons, 1905; Assistant Professor from 1909.

Author of The Opening of the Mississippi, 1904; Editor of Fordham's Personal Narrative of Travels in the West, 1906; A Source Book of Mediaeval History, 1908.

Beta Theta Pi, Phi Beta Kappa, Boston City Club, Authors' Club (London), American Historical Association, American Economic Association.

JAMES HOLLY HANFORD, A.B., Ph.D.,
Assistant Professor in English. University of Rochester, '04; Ph.D., Harvard, '09.

Instructor in High School, Rochester, N.
Y.; Assistant in English, Harvard; Assistant Professor, Simmons, from 1909.

Psi Upsilon.

HESTER CUNNINGHAM, A.B., Secretary.
Radcliffe College, '99.

Private Secretary; Teacher in Private School; Secretary of the Faculty and Instructor in English, Simmons, from 1906.

Instructors

S. MARIA ELLIOTT, Instructor in Household Economics.

Courses at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Harvard Summer Schools, Teachers' School of Science.

Instructor in public schools of Providence and Boston, in summer schools, in School of Housekeeping; Instructor, Simmons, from 1902.

Author of Household Bacteriology, Household Hygiene, Chemistry of Cooking and Cleaning (with Mrs. Ellen H. Richards); pamphlets and articles in various magazines on Household Economics.

American Home Economics Association, New England Home Economics Association, Teachers' School of Science, Health Education League, M. I. T. Women's Association.

SAMUEL CATE PRESCOTT, S.B., Instructor in Bacteriology.
Massachusetts Institute of Technology, '94.

Associate Professor, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Director, Boston Bio-Chemical Laboratory; Instructor, Simmons.

Enzymes and Their Application; Elements of Water Bacteriology.

Technology Club, Society of American Bacteriologists, American Chemical Society, Associate Editor, Centralblatt fur Bakteriologie.

ALICE FRANCES BLOOD, S.B., Instructor in Chemistry. Massachusetts Institute of Technology, '03.

Additional courses at Yale University.

Assistant at Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Instructor, Simmons, 1904-1908.

American Chemical Society, Association of Collegiate Alumnae, American Association of Home Economics.

ALICE NORTON DIKE, B.L., Instructor in Household Economics. Smith, '96.

Additional courses, Harvard Summer School, M. I. T., School of Housekeeping.

Instructor, Robinson Seminary, Exeter, N. H.; Instructor, School of Housekeeping; Instructor, Simmons, from 1902.

MARGARETA ELWINA MITZLAFF, Instructor in German.

Teachers' College in Germany.

Additional course, Radcliffe College.

Instructor, Wellesley; Instructor, Simmons.

CAROLINE JEWELL COOK, A.B., LL.B., Instructor in Commercial Law.

EVA LOUISE MARGUERITE MOTTET (Brevet Supérieur),
Instructor in French. College of Montbéliard, France.

Additional course, Romance Philology.

Instructor, Wellesley; Instructor, Simmons, from 1903.

ZILPHA DREW SMITH, Instructor in Philanthropic Work. Boston Normal School.

General Secretary Associated Charities of Boston; Instructor, Simmons, from 1904.

Occasional papers in proceedings of National Conference of Charities. "A study of deserted wives and deserting husbands."

Monday Evening Club, Conference Case Committee of Day Nurseries.

FRANCES SEDGWICK WIGGIN, B.L., Instructor in Library Science. University of Wisconsin.

Additional courses at Pratt Institute Library School.

Librarian of Colorado College; Instructor, Simmons, from 1904.

EDITH ARTHUR BECKLER, S.B., Instructor in Biology. Massachusetts Institute of Technology, '02.

Instructor, Simmons, from 1904.

JUNE RICHARDSON DONNELLY, S.B., B.L.S., Instructor in Library Science. University of Cincinnati, '95; N. Y. State Library School, '07.

Cataloguer, Cincinnati Public Library; Instructor, Simmons, 1905-1910; Director Library School, Drexel Institute, from 1910.

Phi Beta Kappa, American Library Association, Penn. Library Club, Keystone State Library Association, Executive Committee Keystone State Library Association, N. Y. State Library School Association.

MYRA COFFIN HOLBROOK, A.B., A.M., Instructor in English.
Vassar, '94; A.M., Wesleyan University, '99.

Instructor, Simmons, from 1905.

ALICE MAY KIRKPATRICK, A.B., Instructor in Chemistry.
Wellesley, '99.

Additional courses, University of Missouri, Harvard Summer School.

Instructor in private schools; Christian College, Columbia, Mo.;
Instructor, Simmons, from 1903.

College Club, Association Collegiate Alumnae, Boston Wellesley Club.

HELEN JACKSON, A.B., S.B., Instructor in Secretarial Studies.
Mt. Holyoke, '00; S.B., Simmons, '07.

Additional course in University of Pennsylvania.

Instructor, Simmons, from 1904.

JANE BOIT PATTEN, S.B., Instructor in Biology. Massachusetts
Institute of Technology, '06.

Additional courses at Hochschule, Dresden, Germany; Marine Biological Laboratory, Woods Hole.

Instructor, Simmons, from 1906.

ELIZABETH ALLISON STARK, A.B., S.B., Instructor in Secretarial Studies. Wellesley, '95; S.B., Simmons, '07.

Assistant Registrar, Wellesley College; Instructor, Simmons, from 1906.

GERTRUDE WILLISTON CRAIG, Instructor in Typewriting.
Pratt Institute.

Secretary to President National Biscuit Co.; Secretary to Advertising Manager, Review of Reviews; Instructor, Simmons, from 1907.

HARRY WORTHINGTON HASTINGS, A.B., A.M., Instructor in English.
Brown, '04; A.M., Harvard, '06.

Instructor, Williamsport High School; Assistant, Brown University;
Instructor, Simmons, from 1907.

Chi Phi.

ARTHUR STONE DEWING, A.B., A.M., Ph.D., Instructor in Psychology and Ethics. Harvard, '02; A.M., Harvard, '03; Ph.D., Harvard, '05.

Assistant in Philosophy, Harvard College; Instructor, Simmons, from 1907.

Papers in Journal of Philosophy; Introduction to History of Modern Philosophy; Laboratory note-books in Chemistry, Botany, Zoology, Physiology; Life as Reality.

LAURA FISHER, Instructor in the Psychology of Child Life. St. Louis Kindergarten Training School.

Additional courses, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Columbia University.

Supervisor St. Louis Kindergartens; Principal, Training School for Kindergartners, Boston; Director of Public Kindergartens, Boston, Mass.; Instructor, Simmons, from 1907.

Essays on kindergarten in various magazines; The Kindergarten in America; The Kindergarten and the Primary Schools.

Women's Educational Association, Eastern Kindergarten Association.

ISADORE GILBERT MUDGE, Ph.B., B.L.S., Instructor in Library Science. Cornell University, '97; B.L.S., N. Y. State Library School, '00.

Reference Librarian and Assistant Professor of Library Economy, University of Illinois; Librarian, Bryn Mawr College; Instructor, Simmons, from 1910.

A Thackeray Dictionary, joint author with M. E. Sears.

Kappa Alpha Theta, Phi Beta Kappa, American Library Association, American Bibliographical Society, N. Y. Library Club.

AMY M. SACKER, Instructor in Decoration and Design.

CLARA DELLA CAMPBELL, A.B., A.M., Ph.D., Instructor in Romance Languages. Allegheny College.

Instructor, Simmons, from 1908.

Kappa Alpha Theta, Phi Beta Kappa.

EDGAR GROVE EVANS, S.B., Ph.D., Instructor in Chemistry.
Colgate University, '05; Ph.D., University of Gottingen, '08.

Instructor, Simmons, from 1908.

Papers in the "Annalen der Chemie."

Phi Kappa Psi, Theta Nu Epsilon, Phi Beta Kappa, Beta Delta Beta.

GRACE FLETCHER, Instructor in Sewing. Pratt Institute.

Instructor in public schools, Allegheny, Penn., and in Y. W. C. A. evening school, Pittsburgh.

Instructor, Simmons, from 1908.

SARAH ELIZABETH JUDSON, A.B., Instructor in Chemistry
Vassar College, '03.

Additional courses in Boston University, Barnard College, Simmons College.

Chemist in physician's laboratory, N.Y.

Instructor, Simmons, from 1908.

BERTHA MARION PILLSBURY, A.B., A.M., Instructor in English. University of Illinois, '95; A.M., Radcliffe, '98.

Instructor at University of Illinois, at Bryn Mawr; Instructor, Simmons, from 1908.

Phi Beta Kappa.

HESTER RIDLON, S.B., Instructor in Household Economics.
University of Chicago; S.B., Columbia University.

Instructor, Simmons, from 1908.

Articles in American Home Economics Journal.

Alpha Epsilon Iota, Delta Epsilon, Woman's University Club, N.Y. City. American Home Economics Association, New England Home Economics Association.

ELLA JOSEPHINE SPOONER, Instructor in Sewing. Framingham Normal School, '96.

Additional courses at Harvard Summer School, Simmons College, Columbia University Summer School.

Instructor at Perkins Institute, Boston Trade School for Girls; Instructor, Simmons, from 1907.

JENNIE HINMAN WELD, Instructor in Institutional Management.

FRANCES GERTRUDE WICK, A.B., A.M., Ph.D., Instructor in Physics. Wilson College, '97; A.M., and Ph.D., Cornell University, '06 and '08.

Instructor, Butler High School; Instructor, Simmons, from 1908.
Papers in Physical Reviews.
Sigma Xi.

MIRIAM BIRDSEYE, A.B., Instructor in Household Economics. Smith College.

Additional courses at Pratt Institute.

Instructor, Hebrew Technical School for Girls, N. Y. City; Instructor, Simmons, from 1909.

BESSIE MARION BROWN, S.B., Instructor in Chemistry. Simmons, '07.

Instructor, Simmons, from 1907.

FLORENCE SOPHRONIA DIALL, Instructor in Physical Training. Sargent Normal School of Physical Training, '01.

Additional courses at De Pauw University, Harvard Summer School, Woods Hole Biological Laboratory.

Instructor, Vassar College, Physical Director, Y. W. C. A. Terre Haute, Ind.; Instructor, Simmons, from 1909.

Kappa Alpha Theta.

CHARLOTTE PENNIMAN EBBETS, Instructor in Household Economics. Pratt Institute.

Additional courses, University of Pacific.

Dietitian, New York City; Instructor, Simmons, from 1909.

BEULAH CLARK HATCH, S.B., Instructor in Household Economics. Simmons, '08.

Instructor, Simmons, from 1909.

JOHN VAN LIEW MORRIS, A.B., Instructor in Physics and Mathematics. Harvard, '09.

Instructor, Simmons, from 1909.

MARIE THAYER, Instructor in Millinery.

ABBY L. SARGENT, Lecturer on Cutter Classification. Salem Normal School.

Librarian, Wilmington, N. C., Middlesex Mechanics' Association, Medford Public Library.

Appalachian Mountain Club, Massachusetts Library Club.

WILLIAM THOMPSON SEDGWICK, Ph.B., Ph.D., Lecturer on Sanitary Science. Yale, '77; Ph.D., Johns Hopkins, '81.

Professor of Biology, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Biologist to Massachusetts Board of Health; Curator Lowell Institute, Boston; Trustee, Simmons College; Lecturer, Simmons, from 1902.

General Biology; Principles of Sanitary Science and Public Health.

St. Botolph Club, Warren Farm Golf Club, Board Directors Sharon Sanitorium.

CHARLES KNOWLES BOLTON, A.B., Lecturer on History of Libraries. Harvard, '90.

Assistant, Harvard Library; Librarian, Brookline; Librarian, Boston Athenaeum; Lecturer, Simmons, from 1907.

Saskia, the Wife of Rembrandt; The Private Soldier under Washington; Editor, Letters of Hugh, Earl Percy, from Boston and New York, Scotch Irish Pioneers.

Massachusetts Historical Society, Colonial Society of Massachusetts, Maine Historical Society, Chairman Visiting Committee of Museum of Fine Arts.

ELIOT THWING PUTNAM, A.B., Lecturer on Architecture.

STANLEY BRAMPTON PARKER, Lecturer on Architecture.

BLANCHE LEONARD MORSE, A.B., Assistant in Drawing and Design.

GERTRUDE LEE ALLISON, S.B., Assistant in the Library. Simmons, '07.

Assistant, Simmons, from 1907.

ETHEL POWYS STURTEVANT, A.B., S.B., Assistant in Secretarial Studies. Tufts, '07; S.B., Simmons, '09.

Assistant, Simmons, from 1908.

Alpha Omicron Pi, Tufts College Alumnae Association.

RUTH BRYANT, S.B., Assistant in Biology. Simmons, '09.

Assistant, Simmons, from 1909.

AGNES CHRISTINE EARLY, S.B., Assistant in Household Economics. Simmons, '09.

Assistant, Simmons, from 1909.

MARGERY HUGHES, Assistant in Sewing.

Instructor, Lima Kindergarten, Santer Mission School; Assistant, Simmons, from 1909.

Tau Kappa Pi.

BERTHA MAY REED, Assistant in Household Economics.

MARION SHEPHERD, Assistant in Sewing. Stockbridge Summer School, '08 and '09.

Assistant, Simmons, from 1909.

Lend-a-Hand Club.

MARY BOSWORTH STOCKING, Assistant in Household Economics.

MABEL WILLIAMS, S.B., Assistant in the Library. Simmons, '09.

JANE COMEY WILLIAMS, Ph.B., S.B., Assistant in Secretarial Studies. Boston University, '02; S.B., Simmons, '03.

Instructor in Holliston High School; Assistant, Simmons, from 1910.

History

- 1870 Death of John Simmons.
1899 November 2. Incorporation.
1902 October 9. Opened for instruction with ——students.
1902 Simmons Hall, 38 St. Botolph Street, opened.
1904 Main college building in Fenway opened.
1904 East, West and Students' Houses opened.
1905 March 14. Authorized to confer degree of B.S.
1905 South Hall, Refectory built.
1907 North Hall built.
1907 Peterborough House opened.
1909 West wing of college built.
1909 Bellevue House opened.

Alumnae Association

OFFICERS

MARTHA WENTWORTH SUFFREN, Pres.
Brooklyn, N. Y.
RUTH BLANCHARD GIBSON, Vice-Pres.
Roxbury, Mass.
EVA WHITING WHITE, Secretary
Roxbury, Mass.
THEODORA KIMBALL, Treasurer
Dorchester, Mass.

DIRECTORS

ALICE HIGGINS
Worcester, Mass.
JESSIE MOORE
Boston, Mass.
LOUISE ANDREWS,
Brookline, Mass.
MARION BURRAGE, Rec. Sec.
Cambridge, Mass.

Most persons come to the close of their four years of college life with a very genuine feeling of regret. There are those who have brought to their work no very serious purpose save that of getting their measure of pleasure and profit from the companionship which such a life offers, and there are those who, in seeking to drink to the full of the opportunities offered, give in return the very best that is in them. To both of these the ending is sad, and it is to them that the Alumnae would send their welcome.

Our interest in our college must not die, because we have turned in one day from students into graduates, but rather it should increase, because it is then more within our power to be of use to our Alma Mater. Many of our number are going out to posts of responsibility; they will be then be able to gauge more accurately the true worth of the work they have just completed, and in retrospect commend what they could not value as they passed along. As graduates our responsibility is even greater than as students, for in the years to come the reputation of the college will depend largely upon our accomplishment, and by it will public opinion be swayed.

And so the object of the Alumnae Association is twofold. It must carry on the feeling of comradeship created and become a part of us during our college life, and it must serve as a means whereby our interest and loyalty and responsibility to the college may not be a mere desire in our own minds, but an actual working force.

To the class of 1910, which is this year to be added to our ranks, we extend a most cordial welcome.

MARTHA WENTWORTH SUFFREN

19

10

Class of 1910

Officers

MARJORIE C. ELMES
PRESIDENT

ANNIE C. PERRY
VICE-PRESIDENT

ELIZABETH H. EMERSON
SECRETARY

MARY I. HASKELL
TREASURER

Recollections of a Senior

Do you remember the first day you came to Simmons? My, wasn't it hot? You asked the motorman in a very timid, quavering voice to "stop at Simmons College, please," and he did, and you got off with some other girls and looked around, but you didn't see it anywhere. Nevertheless, you followed them, and when you came to a big gray building with dogs looking out of little cubby-holes 'round the top, you wondered if it was going to be the place. However, as nobody else paid any attention, but walked right by, you stopped paying attention and tried to act as if you really knew it wasn't, all the time. In a minute or two you came to what you knew must be Simmons, and you boldly followed the others up the steps and in the door. Of course, if the principal of the high school where you went hadn't perjured himself by certifying that you had a "knowledge of arithmetic sufficient for the application of the fundamental principles," you would have come in several days before and been quite familiar with your surroundings, or if you had been "a dormitory girl" you would have been impressively ushered over by patronizing upperclassmen. Neither of these estates fell to your lot, however, and you stood just inside the door by yourself, very lonesome and very scared. Suddenly a person with a badge dashed forward from a group and laid hands upon you. "Wanna register—Household Ec, Libr'y, Secretarial, Science? C' mon." "Er—Secretarial," you faltered and blindly you followed her impetuous lead, trusting implicitly in her seeming unbounded knowledge of "everything." She led the way into a very hot room which was full of people writing or walking about. Seizing three sheets of printed paper, she thrust them into your hands. "There," she sighed in the tone of "one more over," "write down what it says there, 'n' have the division all right, and fix your hour plan to match it, and take it and have them certify it," and she vanished. You groaned inwardly and cast a longing, beseeching glance toward the door through which her official person had disappeared, but evidently she had gone irrevocably. You learned afterwards that you had been "welcomed" and that was all any ordinary Freshman had any right to expect. You heaved a heartfelt sigh and sat down to write, though you had not the slightest idea what. Feverishly catching up a pen you sought to unravel the intricacies of those pages and do as you were told, but you simply became more and more confused and began idly to trace the edges of the sunbeams that fell warmly across the desk. Whew, but it was hot! The room grew more crowded and it seemed stifling. What was German Ia, and if you took History I-VI, they came together, and, Oh dear, why didn't someone come and explain? And then you gathered yourself together and went and asked someone at a desk, who did explain, and you sat confidently down and did it all wrong. And then it was twelve o'clock and they told you that registration was over for that day and that you were to come in tomorrow. And when you got home, hot, tired, hungry, they asked you if you liked it and you said "Ye-e-es" and wondered inwardly if it was all going to be as hard as that.

We will draw a veil over the ensuing few days with the hundreds of disasters attendant upon "getting a locker," procuring a fountain pen which upheld its name by action at all times. When you got home, you told "them" you had climbed millions of flights of stairs and you hoped you would sprain your ankle so you could ride in the elevator, and "they" said "You needn't complain, you know how you teased to go there," so then you kept still.

Will you ever forget that first recitation, when the instructor called your name and you blushing rose to recite? The girls on each side of you jerked you down abruptly and whispered disdainfully that "you don't stand up to recite in college"; and then you got redder and redder in a perfect agony of embarrassment, while everybody laughed. But then the next day, in another class, someone else did the same thing, so you didn't care and laughed very hard with all the others.

You used to run everywhere those first few weeks. You ran for cars and for trains and you always got to college before quarter of nine at the latest. You were very conscientious. Do you remember that time in English I, when they told you to go down to the "B. P. L." and read "Greene's Short History of England"? Of course you never thought of not going! You hurried importantly in and fell down flat about half way up those white marble stairs because they were so kind of dazzy you couldn't see where one ended and the next began. Someone handed you your umbrella and someone else picked up your lunch box which had rolled down the whole length and left a trail of crumbs behind it, and after that, you slowed up. After dutifully "browsing" around Bates Hall as recommended by all departments until three men had come up and asked you what you wanted and did you know it was for reading only and why didn't you sit down, you finally did sit down at number 29 and awaited the coming of Greene's Short History which you had ordered. After a long, long, long time a spindle-legged anæmic-looking little boy reeled in, staggering under the weight of an armful of gigantic volumes; behind him came a smaller boy pushing a dray effect also heavily laden. They approached your table and began to unload; they piled them up around you in tiers and you watched them idly wondering who could be going to attack that formidable looking fortress; surely not that draggled old man at the other end, bent over a cobwebby little manuscript. Finally your curiosity got the better of you and you leaned over and glanced at the title of one. You saw "Greene's"; a sickening feeling crept over you and you rapidly surveyed them all. So this was Greene's Short History of England! As the gasping boy with a heartfelt sigh dis-emburdened himself of the last volume you rose determinedly, drew on your woolen gloves with a decided jerk, and stalked out. And thereafter, you were a changed being; you had found that after all, even at college, one did not do all that was asked of one. As you look back now, you see that it was really quite a crisis in your career. There have always been a few gullible, unsuspecting souls who would let you take their reading slips "just a jiff so" you could "remember what we had," and strange to say, the eagle-eyed recipients have never, not even in Economics I, seemed to perceive the startling uniformity. Funny, isn't it, how it will take fifty-six girls each just thirty-one minutes to read nine pages in Coman's Industrial History of the United States?

For a while after the Greene's History episode, things went along quite smoothly. You complained a good deal, it is true, but that was just on general principles to give an impression of martyrdom at home, which had certain desirable, practical results, i. e., immunity from doing the dishes on Thursday nights, permission to go to walk Sunday mornings instead of attending church, and the like. Incidentally you did more work than you have ever done since; novelty lured you on to endeavor till of a sudden you pulled up with a telling jerk. Do you remember Hygiene I and the Nervous Mechanism? You used to go into that course and stay for centuries it seemed; you looked to see if your hair hadn't turned gray when you emerged from an interminable session. Well, one day you had to draw a "diagram of the mechanism of the eye during an involuntary wink" and that was not a drawing in which your imagination could aid you materially.

It had to be from the "inside looking out" and not from the "outside looking in."

The following Friday when you ran down the hall to ransack the compartment drawer to see what everyone got, you found a sad surprise awaiting you. When you extracted your artistic production from a sorry looking pile, you found you had an F and you were paralyzed with fear. There was obviously but one thing to do! You went straight to Miss Arnold and asked if you couldn't drop History! And of course she said you couldn't, but somehow while you were in there you got the impression that she was saying that you could. It is funny about these appointments with the Dean; during the four years you haven't noticed that, though you have grown older and, it is to be hoped, wiser, there is any appreciable difference in either scene or result. You cry a little, you don't know just why, and she smiles a great deal, and though you entered determined and defiant, you emerge wilted and penitent, and you have never been quite able to decide why.

Do you remember that time the spring of Junior year just before the Dance when you got to cutting so much, and finally as you came in one morning your eyes were greeted by one of those dreaded billet-doux? Then when you got in the office your knees were all shivery and you sat on the tip edge of the chair. My, weren't your hands cold, and yet your head was all hot and throbbing. Miss Arnold didn't seem a bit nervous, but took up a pile of white papers and said, "March 27, shorthand, typewriting—why were you unable to be present?" And you scrooched down and tried to look through the back of the sheet to see whether you had written a long or a short one, but you couldn't see anything and you hadn't an idea what you'd written—and—well, you were sure you'd never be absent again, and then He asked you to go to the Harvard Brown game that came Wednesday afternoon, and you really did need the air, and— Ah, well, the most striking thing about that affair was that He remembered your once saying, "If anything should happen, just call me up on the telephone and they'll leave a note on the board for me," and something did happen, so he called up and the Dean's secretary answered, and he said, "Will you please tell Miss — not to meet me in Harvard Square at three this afternoon; the game has been postponed." Naturally you didn't get the message and there were certain complications when you tried to explain why you had cut.

Then there were those examinations! Remember Freshman Mid-years when you could hear the beef-tea cups bump, clatter, rattle, bump on the elevator and then finally land with a crash? After a breathless suspense Mary and Joe would come in with trays and pass it around. You never took an eye off them till at last you were rewarded—Joe dropped one, the tension broke, and everybody laughed. They told you afterward that the beef-tea was provided by "a friend of the college." You have often wondered since what became of that friend of the college—there have been several little suggestions you would fain have made to such a one. But whether the results attendant on beef-tea-nourished victims were not sufficiently above those ordinarily obtained, you do not know, but you have never heard of him since. Anyhow, he always seemed more or less mythical.

After all, the years have passed quickly. You have thought no doubt that you were horribly abused, but Time has interspersed a kindly veil through which only the sunshine gleams. They were pretty nice years after all, weren't they?

HELEN MURRAY ADAMS

Vergennes, Vermont
Middlebury High School, Middlebury, Vt.
Secretarial School
Honor Com. (2)

GERTRUDE FRANCES BARBOUR

Wollaston, Massachusetts
Quincy High School, Quincy, Mass.
School of Household Economics
Basketball 1910

VIOLA HAZEL BURNHAM

Montague, Massachusetts
Turners Falls High School, Turner's Falls, Mass.
Secretarial School

CATHERINE M. CASASSA

Dorchester, Massachusetts
Girls High School, Boston, Mass.
Secretarial School
Glee Club (2) (3)
Basketball 1910

GRACE MAY CHURCH

East Pembroke, Massachusetts
Rockland High School, Rockland, Mass.
Secretarial School
Honor Com. (4)

MARGUERITE BUXTON COBB

Washington, D. C.
Central High School, Washington, D. C.
School of Library Science
President 1910 (1)
Vice-President Guild (3)
Sec. Student Government (3)
Pres. Student Government (4)

MARY RUSSELL CURTIS

North Tonawanda, New York
 Felton High School, No. Tonawanda, N. Y.
 School of Library Science
 Honor Com. (3)
 Class Day Com.

OLIVE INEZ DUNNICAN

Dorchester, Massachusetts
 Dorchester High School, Dorchester, Mass.
 School of Science
 Vicè-President Guild (3)
 Senior Dance Com.
 Associate Editor 1910 Microcosm

FLORA E. DUTTON

East Craftsbury, Vermont
 St. Johnsbury Academy, St. Johnsbury, Vt.
 School of Household Economics
 Junior Dance Com.
 Honor Com. (3) (4)
 Sec. Guild 1910
 Ways and Means Com. (4)
 Class Day Com.

MARJORIE CARTER ELMES

Stoughton, Massachusetts
Miss Brown's Preparatory School, Boston, Mass.
School of Library Science
Vice-President 1910 (2)
Tennis Champion (2)
President 1910 (3) (4)

ELIZABETH HOMER EMERSON

Milton, Massachusetts
Milton High School, Milton, Mass.
Secretarial School
Secretary 1910 (4)

BERTHA METCALF EMERSON

Stoneham, Massachusetts
Stoneham High School, Stoneham, Mass.
Secretarial School
Honor Com. (4)

DOROTHY LOIS ENGELHARD

Evanston, Illinois
Evanston High School, Evanston, Ill.
Bryn Mawr College (1) (2)
School of Household Economics

HARRIET LOZETTE FARRELL

Batavia, New York
Putnam Hall, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.
School of Household Economics

ALINE FRAZER

Brookline, Massachusetts
Portsmouth High School, Portsmouth, N. H.
Secretarial School

MILDRED VICTORIA FULLER

East Milton, Massachusetts
Milton High School, Milton, Mass.
School of Library Science
Senior Dance Com.

ABBIE FRANCES GAMMONS

Bridgewater, Massachusetts
Bridgewater High School, Bridgewater, Mass.
School of Library Science

BESSIE EMMA GOFF

Rehoboth, Massachusetts
English High School, Providence, R. I.
School of Household Economics

EDITH MILLS GORDON

Milton, Massachusetts
Milton High School, Milton, Mass.
School of Household Economics
Cap and Gown Com.

RUTH ALMA HARRINGTON

Brighton, Massachusetts
Wellesley High School, Wellesley, Mass.
Secretarial School
Glee Club (2) (3) (4)
Junior Dance Com.
Senior Dance Com.
Vice-President Guild (3)

MARY HASKELL

Bridgton, Maine
Bridgton High School, Bridgton, Me.
School of Library Science
Secretary 1910 (3)
Treasurer 1910 (4)
Junior Dance Com.
Program Com. 1910
Basketball 1910
Editor-in-Chief 1910 Microcosm

HELEN ESTELLE HORNE

Milton, Massachusetts
Milton High School, Milton, Mass.
Secretarial School

MARY STANDIN IRISH

Utica, New York
Utica Free Academy, Utica, N. Y.
School of Library Science

SUSIE HELEN JAMES

Boston, Massachusetts
Girls High School, New Orleans, La.
School of Library Science
Honor Com. (4)
Bulletin Com. (4)
Commencement Com.
Glee Club (4)

GERTRUDE TUCKER JONES

Wollaston, Massachusetts
 Quincy High School, Quincy, Mass.
 School of Household Economics
 Commencement Com.

ANNISE BOYD KANE

Spencer, Massachusetts
 David Prouty High School, Spencer, Mass.
 School of Library Science
 Sec. and Treas. Glee Club (3)

ALICE GERTRUDE KENDALL

Andover, Massachusetts
 Punchard High School, Andover, Mass.
 School of Library Science
 Honor Com. (2)
 Basketball 1910
 Commencement Com.
 Associate Editor 1910 Microcosm
 Glee Club (4)

ALICE WINIFRED KENDALL

Concord, New Hampshire
Concord High School, Concord, N. H.
School of Library Science
Commencement Com.

GRACE AGNES KNIGHT

Boston, Massachusetts
Dorchester High School, Dorchester, Mass.
School of Household Economics
Vice-President 1910 (3)
Class Day Com.
Commencement Com

MAY C. MARTIN

Weymouth, Massachusetts
Dorchester High School, Dorchester, Mass.
School of Household Economics
Senior Dance Com.
Glee Club Mgr. (4)
Alumnae Music Com.

DAISY LEONARD MILLER

West Brattleboro, Vermont
Brattleboro High School, Brattleboro, Vt.
School of Library Science
Glee Club (4)
Basketball 1910

BLANCHE D. MILLS

Brockton, Massachusetts
Brockton High School, Brockton, Mass.
Secretarial School
Basketball 1910

HELEN LOCKWOOD MYRICK

Springfield, Massachusetts
Miss Low's Preparatory School, Stamford, Ct.
School of Household Economics
Junior Dance Com.

ELIZABETH KATHERINE NAGLE

Dorchester, Massachusetts
Gloucester High School, Gloucester, Mass.
Secretarial School

RUTH PALMER

South Framingham, Massachusetts
Cushing Academy, Ashburnham, Mass.
Secretarial School
Treasurer 1910 (2) (3)
Treasurer Guild 1910
Ways and Means Com. (4)
Glee Club (3) (4)
Class Day Com.

ANNIE CHISHOLM PERRY

Brookline, Massachusetts
Brookline High School, Brookline, Mass.
Vice-President 1910 (4)
Basketball 1910
Associate Editor 1910 Microcosm

BESSIE MARION PINKHAM

Haverhill, Massachusetts
 Bradford Academy, Bradford, Mass.
 School of Household Economics

LAURA EVELYN RAMSEY

Gloucester, Massachusetts
 Gloucester High School, Gloucester, Mass.
 Secretarial School
 Honor Com. (3)

LOUISE JOHN RANDALL

Wollaston, Massachusetts
 Cohasset High School 1905, Cohasset, Mass.
 Dedham High School 1906, Dedham, Mass.
 Secretarial School
 Junior Dance Com.
 Glee Club (1) (2) (3) (4)
 Basketball 1910
 College News Correspondent 1909-10
 Business Mgr. 1910 Microcosm

MARY GERTRUDE ROCK

Marlborough, Massachusetts
Marlborough High School, Marlborough, Mass.
School of Household Economics
Vice-President 1910 (1)
President 1910 (2)
Commencement Com.
President Guild 1910
Associate Editor 1910 Microcosm

META RUSTE

Charles City, Iowa
Milwaukee-Donner College (1) (2) Milwaukee, Wis.
School of Household Economics

ELLA CLAIRE RITCHIE

Philmont, New York
Centenary Collegiate Institute, Hacktettstown, N. Y.
School of Library Science

ALICE JOSEPHINE DENNETT SANBORN

Hampton Falls, New Hampshire
Robinson Seminary, Exeter, N. H.
Secretarial School
Senior Dance Com.

OLGA FLORENCE SCHROEDER

North Tonawanda, New York
Felton High School, No. Tonawanda, N. Y.
School of Household Economics
Basketball 1910

RUTH SHATTUCK

Swampscott, Mass.
Swampscott High School, Swampscott, Mass.
School of Library Science

JUDITH WINSOR SMITH

Roslindale, Massachusetts
West Roxbury High School, Jamaica Plain, Mass.
Secretarial School
Commencement Com.
Glee Club (4)

DOROTHY ETHEL WAKEFIELD

Andover, Massachusetts
Punchard High School, Andover, Mass.
Secretarial School
Senior Dance Com.
Associate Editor 1910 Microcosm

MILDRED HAYNES WALKER

Maynard, Massachusetts
Maynard High School, Maynard, Mass.
School of Household Economics

LILA A. PATTEN

Sullivan, Maine
Sullivan High School, Sullivan, Me.
School of Library Science

ALICE BLANCHE WEBSTER

Augusta, Maine
Cony High School, Augusta, Me.
School of Household Economics
Basketball 1910

ELSIE WELLS

Dorchester, Massachusetts
Oliver Ames High School, North Easton, Mass.
School of Library Science

FRANCES MARIA WHITCOMB

Holbrook, Massachusetts
Thayer Academy, Braintree, Mass.
School of Household Economics
Vice-President Guild (3)
Cap and Gown Com.

ANNABEL MARY YOUNG

Greensboro, Vermont
Craftsbury Academy, Craftsbury, Vt.
School of Household Economics

CHEMICAL LABORATORY

PHYSICAL LABORATORY

1 9 1 1

Class of 1911

Officers

MARGARET ARMSBY

PRESIDENT

MARGARET WITHEY

VICE-PRESIDENT

MARGARET S. DAVIS

SECRETARY

CHARLOTTE G. NOYES

TREASURER

1911—The Why and the Wherefore

LOST my way in the forest and wandered lonely until the late moon rising over the trees showed me a narrow path, seemingly but little used. It made its way over hillocks, around fern-covered boulders; then suddenly descending, led me downward over giant roots and creepers until at last I felt beneath my feet the treacherous ooze and pull of marshy land. It was very dark there in the woods. The air was damp, hot, and filled with the heavy, penetrating odor of swamp flowers and decaying vegetation. The tree trunks were covered with slime which clung to my hands. I took one step forward, another, a third, and then sprang back with a little cry; for before me there stretched a great expanse of water, black, inky black in the moonlight, and I stood on the very edge. Had I taken another step—it was well I had gone slowly. I turned to retrace my steps. Ah! Too late, too late! I cried out in alarm. A cloud of mist and fire rose from the water, shutting me in on all sides. Flames curled about me. Strange odors filled the air. “Help! Help!” I shrieked. There was no answer, not a sound—only this awful stillness, and through it all the rush and swirl of hurrying hosts whose forms I could not see. Out of the smoke and the darkness came hands which grasped me, sinewy arms enfolding me; hot, panting breath across my neck, and then I fainted.

“But,” said I, “I don’t understand why you brought me here. That was an awful fright you gave me. I’ll never get over it, and I don’t see what you gained by it anyway. Tell me—why—” I stopped and looked at her beseechingly. She was seated in her usual place beneath the magic oak tree, her instruments on the moss beside her and her eyes intent on the crystal globe which hung suspended over the fire. It must have been cut from the heart of some gigantic diamond, and was all of black, with jagged points and spurs which caught the light so that I never tired of gazing at it from a distance, for I dared not come too near. All day long the woman of the woods sat watching, watching the secrets of that strange globe; now moaning as if in bitter pain, now reckoning with various instruments, then breathless, intent, on something I could not see, and sometimes, very rarely, smiling as though well pleased.

She was gazing into it now as if she had not heard my question; but even as I was about to ask again, she turned and, pushing back her long, dark hair, beckoned me to her side. "Child," she began, "my Child, it has been hard waiting, I know. I must send you back into the world again. You must go by the way you came, through fire and smoke and darkness, but you will not fear it now. You must carry word to the others who are toiling, who are weary because they do not know."

I sank down upon the moss beside her. She laid her hand upon my head and I felt strangely happy at her touch. There was a long silence, and then, "I must tell you a story," she whispered. "It is many, many years since I found the magic diamond, the great black diamond with the glowing heart. Dreary years—sad years—filled with misery and pain. I learned the sorrow of the world and I could not find the remedy."

"But what does it show?" I asked wonderingly. "What is the secret of the sphere?"

Low and clear came the answer. "In its black depths are shown the stories of mankind—the wicked laws—the awful crimes. More bitter than the hearts of all my fiends are the lives of many men! Oh, horrid world!" She sprang out into the clearing, flinging her arms aloft in wild entreaty. "How long," she cried, "before the earth is cleansed of its awful load of sin and crime? How long before my daughters set it free? How long, how long?" She paused. The rocks around took up the cry and echoed, "long—long—long—" There was no other answer.

It was some time before she took the story up again, but when she at last spoke it was in a serene and almost cheerful tone. "You must know, Child," she began, "that the world in which you live is a world for men, with man-made laws and institutions. They have striven hard to bring about reforms, to make all things pure and true, but they have lacked the one essential thing, the guiding power of a woman's hand. Without that, all things must fail. Clear shining in my crystal sphere, I saw their struggles; and I pitied them, but it was years before I formed my plan to help. At last one night, my spirits brought me word of a new enterprise, a daring scheme, which planned to give a training in those arts and sciences which would help women earn a living wage; a college, that is, which was to combine the beautiful with the practical; intellectual activities with business sense. Why, Child, Child, when that news came, my whole great work stood out clearly before me. I would regenerate the world, and Simmons College should prove the instrument. You ask me why I brought you to my home. Can you not understand? I wished to tell my plan, to send back word. My message you shall carry, for you are one of those whom I have chosen for the work. One thousand were they all at first, one thousand of the finest children on earth—all girls. I found them here, I found them there, I travelled through the countries of the world, and everywhere there grew a child, beautiful, strong, and wise, I chose her for my own. One thousand children were they all, but soon the number lessened. Many died—they were not strong enough to bear the load. Then others proved unfit. I watched them carefully, I trained them well, and when I found the slightest flaw in mind or heart I put that child aside. When at last their course of preparation was complete, when I had guided them through childhood, and led them upwards through the years until they stood upon the threshold of young womanhood, then I spent long days and nights watching, studying carefully each one of those remaining in my care. Some were less kind of heart than others, some were less wise. Each day I separated one or two, until at last on that fair morning, the 19th of September, 1907, I gathered all my little band and brought them to the doors of Simmons College. A noble sight they made. Six score and two, selected from the highest types of girlhood—the finest of my thousand finest of the world. And you were one of them, my Child, you know the truth of what I say. The memory of that College Opening day will long be with you. Great thoughts filled your heart, lofty ambition, noble sentiments were written on your brow. And so with all the rest. It was the fairest class that ever entered through those doors, nor has it changed except to grow in charm. For one long year they struggled with new tasks. I would not have their path made easy, rather did I plan to give them sorrows and adversity. It is by this that character is formed. At night I haunted the Instructors' homes. I whispered in their ears new schemes. I made them try experiments upon you. I told them that you needed extra work. They listened and obeyed. What happened then? One-fifth of all my chosen maids succumbed beneath the load. One-fifth departed for their various homes, or gave up thought of earning a degree. Four-fifths remained. The following year they entered once again; took up the fight with even greater foes. What History had been in Freshman year, Physics or Chemistry became—but worse, far worse, and with it other tasks which filled each day with horror and each night with dread. And through it all, I sat beside the sphere and saw therein the progress of my own, my chosen class. I also saw the weary-hearted world awaiting in hope the help so soon to come.

This year was marked with one bright spot through all the clouds of gloom. That was the Sophomore Luncheon. You, my Child, with a mistaken sense of duty, stayed at home and studied French; but nearly all the rest gathered together and speedily devoured chicken and cakes. That made them happy. As they ate, they talked. Their laughter rang out loudly, peal on peal of silvery notes, until the whole wide world was gladdened by their joy. But soon it hushed. The Luncheon came upon the sixth of March; the following weeks were dark and strenuous. 'Twas study, study, study, hour by hour, preparing for the awful, final days. A dreadful time, my Child, a fearful time! I dared not make it easy for my girls—I knew that they must struggle for the prize. I knew that some must fail. Final examinations are the magic rod which separates the silver from the gold. My class must be all gold. I sent my demons—clever imps!—to watch the hearts of all the faculty. Each entered there as to his natural home, and slyly, here a word and there a touch, he bent the mighty mind to work his will. Those questions all were formed by demons' hands. With what result? A glorious result! Three-fourths of all my class survived. One-fourth were lost. I wept, but let them go."

There was a long, long silence. The dying fire glowed faintly in the center of the clearing. The moon had set, the stars were growing dim. But the crystal sphere hung like a ball of flame, clear flashes darting from its coal-black heart. Trembling, afraid, I crept up closer to her knee and whispered, "But what will happen now? How many of our Class will still remain? This is our Junior year. Shall we survive? Can we outlast the awful toil to come? And after that—what then?"

Her face grew radiant, and in her eyes there glowed the light of high resolve. "Only the highest, the bravest, the wisest, only the purest gold of all my band will win the prize. They will struggle—persevere—succeed. There is happiness before them. They will be famous for their beauty, wit, and grace; and I shall send a comet to watch over them, to shine upon them as a sign of their superior excellence. They will make glad the hearts of Dean and President; they will rejoice the souls of their Instructors. The Corporation shall come to look upon them as on something rare and very precious. They will be graduated with high honors and then—then shall come the mighty triumph of my life. I have chosen them, I have trained them, I shall have sent them forth into the world. There shall they overcome all wickedness. They shall reign at the head of one vast movement of reform. Their names shall be shouted from the house-tops; they shall be heralded as those who come to regenerate the world. Thousands will flock to their standards, and we shall see the newly awakened force of womanhood sweeping onward, irresistibly; and in advance, strong, brave, indomitable, will march the little group which I have chosen. This is your history—this is your future. Return—return to the others who are striving and tell them of the destiny awaiting them. Work on—toil on—be not discouraged—for the Class of 1911 cannot fail!"

Class of 1911

Ackerman, D. Mildred	Giddings, Ernestine	Quimby, Ruth E.
Allen, Abbie L.	Guilder, Ruth P.	Ramsey, L. Evelyn
Amery, Elisabeth L.	Haskell, Alice G.	Reese, Cornelia
Armsby, Margaret	Hawkes, Abigail T.	Rhodes, Miriam A.
Atkinson, Leona B.	Hawley, Marguerite	Richardson, Leonora
Ayres, May	Hayford, Ruth	Robertson, Annie I.
Barker, Muriel	Hobbs, Elisabeth	Sander, Margaret J.
Barnes, Ruth W.	Hopkins, Dorothy	Sargent, Florence C.
Barrows, Harriet E.	Hopkins, Hilda	Scott, Madelaine L.
Beverly, Effie R.	Howe, Natalie F.	Slack, Nellie M.
Blanchard, Jessie	Hunt, Edith B.	Smith, Miriam
Burke, Minnie E.	Johnson, Ethel M.	Springfield, Elizabeth L.
Caryl, Anne F.	Judkins, Marion L.	Stebbins, Margaret B.
Chamberlain, Harriet L.	Leonard, Fannie G.	Studley, Lucy A.
Cummins, Catherine R.	Lyman, Eleanor	Sutcliffe, Marjorie F.
Davis, Dora E.	McPherson, Grace E.	Towle, Lucy I.
Davis, Grace G.	Mason, Maud L.	Trimmer, Florence
DeCosta, H. Estelle	Morrison, Ivanetta M.	Webster, Alice B.
DeLima, Edith	Morse, Elsie E.	Weeks, Eva F.
Dunbar, Mary E.	Mumford, Gertrude L.	Welch, Grace
Dusossoit, Delphine J.	Noyes, Charlotte G.	Wentworth, Alzira C.
Eliot, Alice	Nunn, Dorothy C.	Wilkinson, Jennie B.
Farrall, Harriet L.	Plant, Margaret M.	Williams, Lillian M.
Flagg, Carolyn	Platts, Catharine N.	Withéy, Margaret
Frizzell, Mildred C.	Putnam, Elizabeth G.	Woodward, Helen

1912

Class of 1912

Officers

GLENN A. TRUE
PRESIDENT

HILDA HOUGH
VICE-PRESIDENT

HARRIET M. BOSWORTH
SECRETARY

VIOLA J. ANDERSON
TREASURER

History of 1912

IN the general category of college classifications the Sophomores are, I believe, as a rule, slighted, and considered if not nonentities, as dull necessities, not amusing like the Freshman, not romantic like the Juniors, not grandiose like the Seniors. Poor deluded classifiers, they know not what a glorious thing it is to be a Sophomore. He is a being above the common herd, on a pedestal, as it were, where he has the time and pleasure to observe below him the seething mass of his fellows,—the Freshmen, trembling for fear of the sudden termination of their college career; the Juniors, in agony from the third refusal to their prom.; the Seniors, looking madly for a job. Oh, it is almost magical to be a Sophomore. The second year is a sort of oasis in the college desert, a fresh air farm for the college slums. At least, the Sophomore breathes free and easy. Even studies do not bother him much. Oh, people, look upon us, Simmons 1912, and see true Sophomores. We are a model and an object lesson.

Not of reflected light,
Not of refracted light,
But of ourselves a light!
Oh, you young Freshmen,
Take an example,
Call your companions,
Behold Perfection;
Then when you enter
Into your second year,
You'll ever be thankful
You followed our gleam.

In 1908, we, the class of 1912, entered Simmons. That was the first event of our history—our entrance—and then nothing happened. We fluttered about at the Guild reception knowing no one, but nevertheless busy in finding faint resemblances between certain upper class girls and certain other girls at home. Let us not now in irreverence smile as we think of the lumps that arose in our throats at that time.

The weeks, however, rolled by after a very slow fashion of their own, and our October class elections came. We travelled on rather shaky ground in those days because we did not know our classmates at all well, but some kind angel must have guided us, for we rose in a body and made Elinor Whitney our first president. Caroline Aldrich was elected vice-president, Dorothy Stanton, secretary, and Hazel Turner, treasurer. We took the colors of the class of 1908—yellow and white—and chose the yellow daisy for our flower.

Our first class venture was the decoration of the Chapel for the Christmas assembly. Margaret Becker was chairman of the committee on decoration and was eminently successful. (Here also let it be known that she paid the sexton for his services, even though he now disclaims all knowledge of the fact).

The first social function to which we as a class were invited was the Baby Party, given by the Seniors. In our shortest frocks and our pinkest stockings, with a ridiculous volubility, we undertook to impress our hostesses. Whether we acted our parts with too much naturalness or not, is still a question, yet it remains that we didn't impress them in the least. They were very nice about it, but we knew they weren't particularly enthusiastic about us. The Juniors tried to make up for any faults of the other classes in regard to us, and always stood ready to help us at our need. They pampered us, even to giving us huge boxes of Page and Shaw's. Yet what matter if we were often treated in a kindly, sisterly, poor-thingly way, our day was yet to come when we should show them that we were the equal of any class that had as yet entered Simmons. They little dreamed that a class which had such a remarkable propensity for getting lost and appearing green, had the making of a—circus.

COMING. FRESHMAN CIRCUS. MAY 1st. IT'S YELLOW, YOU'LL LIKE IT. And did we like it! Indeed it meant much more to us than merely a good time for an afternoon. It meant the beginning of our class spirit, the beginning of our class appreciation, and, in fact, the beginning of our class life.

What is more frolicsome than a circus in May?
What more thrilling for a ring-master to say
Than "Down, Venus, down," and see an elephant kneel
While laughter arises peal after peal?
What is more harrowing than a grizzly bear walking
High on a tight rope, and deaf and dumb talking?
What more wonderful than a human-faced bird

And side-splitting clowns who with antics absurd
Play jokes on the people and do such wild feats
That Mrs. Wiggs' family just jump from their seats,
With all kinds of animals and monkeys galore
Who leap-frog in air and hop on the floor?
What is more deafening than the grand serenade,
Of "Don't feed the animals." "Pink lemonade."
"Just hit the nigger and you'll get a cigar!"
"Keep away from the wild men of Madagascar!"
"She eats them alive," and "Keep to the right,"
While cops in full uniform hover in sight.
What but a horse-race in this world is so grand
While the Merry Widow is played by the band?
And what indeed is there that any may say
Can exceed the delights of a real circus day?

After that our social events came in thick and fast. The Sophomores gave us such a grand time, and such a grand lunch at Marblehead. The day, the ocean, everything was perfect. We are sorry not to have been able to do the same by you, 1913, but we couldn't get a date in the springtime for it.

Our crowning event, however, had not come off. It arrived with May fourteenth and the tennis tournament. We, 1912, won. Ruth Symonds was the champion of the day. She brought us to first place in the college athletics. Henceforth our prestige was established.

This year, our second year, is bound to be as glorious. To be sure we started in rather awkwardly by holding an unconstitutional election, which had to be disregarded and a second one held. Let us hope that this argumentative tendency of ours does not lead us to become suffragettes. So far, with Glenna True for president, Hilda Hough for vice-president, Harriet Bosworth for secretary and Viola Anderson for treasurer, the outlook is most satisfactory. As a class we have not as yet done very much. The Seniors entertained us royally on February ninth. We hope they realized our appreciation of their party, for we did our best to win the obstacle, potato, and fat ladies' races. In spite of our good times, the day had its sadness, for we realized that we could have only a few more such good times together. It will be with genuine regret that we lose you this June, Oh, Sister Class.

Class of 1912

Ida E. Adams	Lydia B. Ely	Marion Loring
Faythe M. Akers	Kathleen English	Daisy G. Ludden
Caroline E. Aldrich	Lucy M. Eveleth	Susan A. Lyle
Helen M. Aldrich	Hortensia A. Farrall	Daisy I. McCormick
Elsie R. Allen	Mary S. Fiske	Marjorie McLean
Viola J. Anderson	Carolyn D. Flagg	Mabel A. Magee
Ida D. Antin	Marjorie L. Foster	Miriam Merrick
Ellen D. Atwell	Marjorie W. Fox	Dora W. Moses
Dorothy M. Atkinson	Olive French	Mabel E. Moston
Florence K. Babcock	Lucy Fritch	Katherine M. Murphy
Elsie L. Basset	Aldina A. L. Galarneau	Louise B. Nissen
Alice E. Beale	Vida Gegenheimer	Helen F. Norton
Margaret E. Becker	Florence E. Gillette	Mary L. O'Kane
Gladys H. Blanchard	Rebecca S. Gross	Abby H. Parmenter
Harriet M. Bosworth	Mary P. Halliwell	Clara L. Penney
Mildred R. Bowen	Helen R. Harris	Helen G. Phelps
Eleanor Burnham	Florence M. Hawkes	Bernice L. Philbrick
Dorothy G. Burpee	Grace Heatley	Julia H. Pitman
Alice Charlton	Marie E. Henderson	Ruth H. Plympton
Sarah M. Chryst	D. Margaret Holmes	Catherine Pratt
Jennie P. Clement	Helen K. Horton	Marion H. Pratt
Maria L. Cobb	Mary A. Hosley	Alberta E. Reed
Eleanor Cole	Hilda Hough	Elizabeth F. Rock
Elsie E. Converse	Katherine P. Johnson	Nell Sahler
Sara F. Cotter	Mary A. Jones	Marguerite H. Sayre
Helen M. Curtis	Mabel F. Joslyn	Gladys E. Sharon
Rachel H. Cutter	Margaret C. Lee	Florence E. Smith
Amy E. B. Day	Edna S. Leland	Helen M. Smith
Marion J. Dunn	Viola E. Libby	Mirian S. Smith
Dorothy S. Englehard	Esther M. Lindbloom	Helen C. Spaulding

Emma G. Stearns	Martha S. Thissell	Mary N. Watson
Alice G. Stephens	Marjorie F. Thomas	Elinor Whitney
Gertrude M. Sullivan	Annie F. Thornton	Eugenia Wilson
Eva F. Swett	Glenna M. True	Mabel H. Williams
Ruth Symonds	Hazel M. Turner	Beulah Wood
Mary L. Talbot	Helen G. Usher	Ellen C. Wood
Mildred J. Taylor	Helen F. Watson

7:30

19

HISTORY

13

9:30

7/19/58

Class of 1913

Officers

JEANETTE E. PELLMAN

PRESIDENT

DOROTHY W. HUGHITT

VICE-PRESIDENT

MARION S. DONALDSON

SECRETARY

MARY E. BAKER

TREASURER

Snap-Shots of 1913

OCT. 27, 1910

DEAR RUTH:

As a special favor I refrain from the customary "please excuse me for not writing sooner" phrase. I'm here and college is fine. You just ought to hear the conductors on the Huntington Avenue cars yell, "Cy-mins Collige!" They appreciate it, too.

Now if you won't make rude remarks about my grammatical errors I'll begin again and tell you all about it. I've learned a lot in the few weeks I've been here (I mean common things, you know, not lessons). When the girls said there wasn't any "cut-system" at Simmons, I thought that meant you could cut anything you chose, but I soon found there was system, all right, in what happened to you afterwards. The only chance you get for a legitimate cut here, is when an instructor oversleeps or gets hung up in the subway, or gives you one out of the kindness of his heart. It is wise, in all cases, I have learned, to keep away from his recitation room the whole period, because once, after we waited ten minutes and the instructor didn't come, and we skipped, something prompted us to return five minutes later and peek through the keyhole. He had come, and when he saw our shadows on the door, he opened it with a beaming smile and an inviting expression like the "Spider and the Fly." Probably anyone but a Freshman would have refused to enter, but we were scared.

I think most of the Freshmen have been in a chronic state of terror ever since they came. Those Maclachlan people in the basement began it by charging $2.75 for a Physics text-book. They must have what is called a nit-conscience, because they'll calmly inform you, just after you've given them your last cent, that you "get a rebate at the end of the year." Oh, do you think that shows they have conscience? Well, I don't; I think it is only a bribe—to make you think you get something for nothing, which I've discovered never happens in Boston.

We had a sort of test in History the other day, and when we got our papers back, I had an L. A great many didn't know what the marks stood for, so we asked a Sophomore who was going by. She asked what the majority got and when I said "L's and F's," she said, "Well, L's for Lovely and F's for Fine. Good work, children!" We hunted for her afterwards with rolls from the lunch-room, but we never found her.

Don't wait so long as I did 'fore you write, will you?

DEC. 31, 1910.

DEAR RUTH:

It was Freshman Day at college to-day. We call it that, you know, on account of the lunch, whenever they serve that greenish soup, cheese salad, and pistachio ice cream. The Freshmen are getting recognized everywhere, now. We thought we were quite important when they asked us to decorate the Chapel Christmas, but when we had to pay $13.50 for the privilege we weren't so keen about it. And no one appreciated it, either, except the Children's Hospital, which got all the wreaths. Sometimes you feel sad to be a Freshman, and others, you're hilariously glad. We're starting out well, though, they all say.

Last week—excuse me, but some one just told me there's a Physics test tomorrow. Good-bye and more later. Love to all.

FEB. 10, 1910.

MY DEAR MISS:

May the wrath of Jupiter descend upon thy head! Blamest thou me that I cram—and cram—and cram? I am hurt and grieved that the word "mid-years" produces in your brain not the feeblest image of our sensations at this time. However, you are forgiven for all abuse. Really, I had to study. We all did. And now they're all over, we find that the terrible phrase in the catalogue about students "who do not matriculate during the first term" didn't mean a thing. They say lots of things like that to scare you, I think. You really have to work here, though. But if you did all they expected of you, there wouldn't be a thing at Simmons at all except ghosts floating around the corridors.

Because you were so saucy this is all I shall write—until I receive an apology. Better send it soon if you want to hear about the good times we've had this year.

MAR. 21, 1910.

DEAR RUTH:

Yours received. Apology accepted. Want to hear some great news? The Freshmen can beat all the other classes at Basketball! Why, of course, not all together—you know better. Think of it! A class with PINK for a class color can do this. Even Halley's comet may surprise us by really doing something now, when such a new star as '13 arouses such a commotion.

All the classes had their pictures taken the other day for the "Microscope," or something like that, which is a sort of college book they have every year. When the ugly man took the Freshmen, some horrid Sophs got out in front and made faces at us, and the man's hat kept blowing off all the time, so we laughed and made him mad. Then he took us any old way, without trying to make it nice, and it turned out one of the best of all the pictures. That's Freshman Luck.

Did I tell you about the Card List? It's a new idea of the Dean's—the first horrid idea I've known her to have. If you come a minute late to class, and they don't believe your excuse at the office, they warn you that you'd better be careful. (Of course they're too polite to tell you you lie.) Then if you do it again, they catalogue you in a drawer under A. I. Item etc., like a flower seed advertisement circular. If you really want to see what happens next, you absent yourself unexcused again—and then your people tell you a few thinks. This part is always pleasant, and the next step, too, when you stand on the ragged edge, with nothing to step to, really,—just waiting to be pushed off, or out. Freshmen aren't afraid to travel the way which "leadeth to destruction," though, because they know how to keep off the card-list. I know a Freshman who said, "They told me at the office that I was on the card-list, and desired my presence, but I didn't go to see them, so they wrote again and said they had torn it up"—it meaning the card, not the office.

I've arrived at the conclusion that the Freshies have a great many privileges, not granted other students. The elevator man has offered to take members of 1913 (who have paid class dues and signed the constitution) to the Library for one cent apiece, every day except Sunday. Oh, we get the benefit of everything. Even at the Glee Club concert, hardly anyone brought men except the Freshmen. Some of them had three, but they didn't pass them around outside the class—Oh, no. It was a private dance for us, with the other classes for foliage and mural effects. We enjoyed it immensely.

Vacation begins Thursday, and this is the first case I've ever known of loud rejoicing over "ten days." Ruh!

Class of 1913

Agate, Helen G.	Day, Elizabeth H.	Johnston, Laura E.
Allin, Margaret	Denison, Anne E.	Kaster, Nellie N.
Almy, Helen	Diall, Olive E.	Keeler, Marion
Anderson, Mary W.	Dilman, Mabel A.	Kellaway, Elsie M.
Annis, I. Marjorie	Donaldson, Marion S.	Kelly, Anna T.
Avery, Clara E.	Douglas, Wilifred	Kelly, Helen M.
Ayer, Doris L.	Dutton, Mary C.	Lane, Jean P.
Babcock, Clarissa G.	Fernald, Marion F.	Leonrad, Amy L.
Baker, Mary E.	Forster, Margaret B.	Locke, Louise
Bell, Dorothy	Frederick, Katherine M.	Macardell, Edith C.
Bierman, Ethel I.	Frost, Helen T.	McDuff, Blanche G.
Boehmke, Helene A.	Gallagher, Alice R.	McIntyre, Helen C.
Bowen, Mildred R.	Gibbons, Irene N.	Martin, Ruth M.
Brown, Edith S.	Glessner, Hazel G.	Maudelstein, Gertrude
Buttrick, Marian	Goddard, Marjorie A.	Meggat, Gertrude L.
Carrell, Hope G.	Goldsmith, Anna F.	Mercer, Irene B.
Cashman, Rita	Gurdy, Marie	Moses, Florence
Casteels, Lucy	Hall, Flora E.	Nason, Ruby F.
Caswell, Edna R.	Hamlin, Helen B.	Niles, Margaret H.
Chamberlin, Mary E.	Hawes, Ruth	Norman, Ruth E.
Chapin, Esther S.	Hight, Blanche E.	Page, Mildred W.
Chapman, Margery C.	Hinchliff, Jeannette B.	Parsons, Edith N.
Chryst, Sarah M.	Holden, Evelyn	Payson, Miriam T.
Clarke, Mazelle L.	Holden, Kathryn	Pearson, Mattie E.
Cole, Flora A.	Hubbard, Ruth N.	Pellman, Jeanette E.
Collins, Jeanette M.	Hughitt, Dorothy W.	Pettengill, Mabel D.
Combe, Hilda A.	Ingalls, Ruth E.	Pinks, Vera L.
Crouse, Lucile S.	Irwin, Hazel A.	Platts, Elizabeth F.
Curry, Marcella C.	Jacobs, Flora M.	Poole, Blanche
Curtis, Maud E.	Johnson, Florence P.	Porter, Annabel

Ready, Helen C.	Smith, Helen M.	Thurston, Elizabeth
Reed, Anna H.	Smith, Lois O.	Traver, Ruth M.
Ridlon, Margaret	Spear, Mabel A.	Tyacke, Dorothy
Rine, Rosina E. P.	Starrett, Mildred H.	Walker, Elizabeth M.
Robbins, Esther M.	Steele, Kathryn N.	Watson, F. Helen
Rose, Ella J.	Sterling, Anna M.	Weed, Helen I.
St. Clair, Sadie	Stevens, Julia F.	Wells, Edna A.
Sampson, Annie H.	Sullivan, Helen F.	Wells, Katharyn W.
Scott, Mary S.	Sumner, Lydia W.	Wick, Belle
Shepard, Hannah B.	Sweet, Olive A.	Wilber, Doris E.
Sibley, Helen	Swett, Eva F.	Williams, Marion S.
Silver, Margaret D.	Symonds, Esther M.	Woodward, Emily E.
Sim, Mildred E.	Thayer, Margaret T.	Young, Martha E.

Specials

Allen, Esme F.
Armington, Elisabeth
Ashenden, Constance
Atkinson, Dorothy M.
Barstow, Helen H.
Bartholomew, Amanda E.
Bentley, Margaret L.
Bicknell, Adaline M.
Blatchford, Dorothy L.
Blodgette, Gladys
Bruner, Ada
Bulkeley, Grace L.
Bull, Edith B.
Burdett, Helen R.
Burtch, Eva A.
Cade, Louisa
Carlton, Maud M.
Carpenter, Margaret
Chase, Ethel M.
Chick, Clara M.
Clark, Alice W.
Clark, Evelyn
Clark, Mildred W.
Cobb, Maria L.
Collord, Edith Colvin, Marion L.
Cook, Mary H.
Cotter, Sara F.
Crawford, Ruth M.
Dalrymple, Eva M.
Davies, Ruth
Davis, Madeline A.
Day, Amy E. B.
Dean, Emma P. deBeer, Bessie
Donaldson, Elena H.
Driscoll, Susie G.
Dyer, Orian E.
Farquhar, May F.
Fee, Carolyn B.
Foglesong, Hortense
Fraser, Hortense C.
Freeman, Phoebe H.
Frost, Mabel A.B.
Galt, Grace
Gaskell, Ilabel
George, Alice C.
Gill, Mary F.
Gilliland, Luella G.
Gleason, Marion G.
Greene, Lena R.
Grover, Emma Hall, Lucile deN.
Hamlen, Mary E.
Harris, Harriett E.
Hartness, Anna J.
Hartness, Helen E.
Hartwell, Marjorie
Hatch, Frances E., A.B.
Hayes, Elvah M.
Hegarty, Mary E.
Hillman, Blanche H.
Holbrook, Alice A.
Holman, Edith C.
Horsfall, Elizabeth L.
Hosley, Mary A.
House, Mary S.
Hughes, Mabelle L.
Hunter, Anita D.
James, Laura G., A.M.
Jones, Etta
Kaster, Martha L.
Keeler, Elsie R.
Kelley, Ruth U.
Kennedy, Laura K.
King, Mary H.
Kingman, Helen P., A.B.
Kinnie, Alma M., A.B.
Kneil, Margaret M.
Lane, Florence M.
Lee, Margaret C.
Leonard, Gertrude H.
Levy, Florence
Lewis, Julia S.
Libbey, Martha J.
Litchfield, Clara B.
Little, Julia
Ludden, Daisy G.
Luton, Alice L.
Luton, Lottie C.

McBride, Mary	Ostrander, Bietta	Sheehan, Alice A.
McClellan, Ethel	Palmer, Agnes	Sheldon, Lillian T.
McGrath, M. Elysabeth	Paradise, Dorothea C.	Sherman, Louise R.
McGurk, Katherine L.	Parker, Margaret L.	Sholes, Bertha
McKee, Hallie M.	Parmele, Margaret H.	Shryock, Josephine H.
Macleod, Helen	Patten, Lila A.	Smith, Dorothy E., A.B.
Mandelstam, Gertrude	Phelps, Ethel L.	Smith, Phyllis L.
Mandrill, Lillian	Phelps, Helen G.	Spicer, Susan
Mann, Gertrude E., A.B.	Piper, Ethel R.	Stackpole, Grace
Martin, Ella, S.B.	Plant, Amy E.	Standish, Barbara
Martin, Helen A.	Plummer, Elizabeth C.	Stannard, Emma O.
Masterton, Mildred	Pratt, Marie L.	Sullivan, Katharine C.
Mathews, Harriet	Pratt, Marion H.	Swanburg, Nellie B.
Meehan, Lina	Prime, Elizabeth N.	Tarr, Marion L.
Merrill, Ruth W.	Ramsey, Esther H.	Terrell, Inez J.
Morrison, Myrtle D.	Read, Katharine B., A.B.	Thurston, Grace R.
Myrick, Helen L.	Rogers, Frances H.	Tracy, Angie E.
Nellis, Carlotta S.	Russell, Sarah	Tufts, Henrietta J.
Newhall, Bernice E.	Sahler, Nell	Upham, Dorothy T.
Noyes, Emma I.	Sargent, Jennie M.	Usher, Helen G.
Ober, Alice H.	Sayre, Marguerite H.	Wales, Susan H.
Osborne, Lucy A.	Schwind, Eugenia	Wallace, Julia F.
Osborne, Margaret P.	Shaw, Susan W.	Wallingford, Miriam C.

The Student Guild

The Guild of Simmons College is a student organization made up of the entire student body. It was formed in 1903, choosing for its name "Guild" which signifies now, as in olden times, union for strength and helpfulness. The scope of the work of the Guild has grown, as the college to which its members give allegiance, until now the good which it might do and which it will continue to strive to do has increased manifestly. Fully realizing the difficulties which beset the path of an organization with such a simple and yet deeply significant purpose, we have chosen a small field in which to work and have left for the classes and clubs the more active accomplishments.

Our Welcoming, Visiting, and Student Aid Committees are, as the names indicate, devoted to the earnest work of making college life pleasanter and happier. The Program Committee supervises all lectures, entertainments and social affairs given by the Guild, and arranges the dates of all college events, posting notices of such on the Students' Calendar. The duties of the Bulletin Committee are to superintend the sale of second-hand books at the beginning of the fall term and to keep the student bulletin boards in order.

For five years the Guild has been an active member of the Women's Intercollegiate Association for Student Government, and has sent delegates annually to the conventions of the association. The Guild dues of fifty cents, expected of every student member, meet the expenses of the delegates' trips, as also those incurred by the various committees during the year.

Officers of the Student Guild

	Florence Trimmer	Delphine Dussossoit
Margaret Armsby	Ruth Palmer Treasurer	Mary G. Rock President	Flora E. Dutton Secretary	Margaret S. Davis

The Student Government Association

The experiment of self-government in the Simmons dormitories was first tried in 1905 at Simmons Hall through the efforts of Juliet Patterson. In the following year the dormitories on Brookline Avenue were opened and the association formally organized in May, 1906. The executive authority is vested in a council made up of a president from the Senior class, a vice-president, who is president of the Guild, a secretary from the Junior class, a treasurer from the Sophomore class. The presidents have been Juliet C. Patterson, 1906-7, Theresa C. Stuart, 1907-8, and Elizabeth Spalding, 1908-9. In 1908 the organization was enlarged to include the Peterborough dormitories. In addition to maintaining order, the association assists in the social life of the dormitories and takes charge of the programs of the Sunday vesper services. During the present year the old system of study-hours with permissions has been abandoned for the quiet hour system.

MARGUERITE BUXTON COBB

Council of the Student Government Association

Ruth Palmer	Abbie F. Gammons	Helen G. Phelps	Margaret S. Davis	Harriet Mathews
Lucy A. Studley Secretary	Mary G. Rock Vice-President	Marguerite B. Cobb President	Glenna M. True Treasurer	Elsie R. Allen

Wespers

Under the auspices of the Student Government Association a new committee has been created this year to take charge of vesper services to be held for the dormitory girls every other Sunday at 6.30 in North Hall. The committee includes one girl from each house as follows:

Cornelia Reese, Chairman
Mary Rock
Margaret Withey
Maria Cobb
Charlotte Noyes
Madelaine Scott

The meetings, which consist of singing and a short address, have been well attended and the venture seems to be a popular and successful one. The speakers for the year have been as follows:

Oct. 17. Dean Arnold
Oct. 31. Miss Gloster
Nov. 14. Mr. Charles A. Reese
Dec. 5. Miss Anne Caryl
Jan. 9. President Lefavour
Feb. 13. Miss Cunningham
Feb. 27. Dean Arnold
Mar. 13. Miss Noyes
April 17. Mrs. Merriman
May 1. Mr. Coonst

The Choir

Director—FRANK LYNES

The 1910 Microcosm

Editorial Board

Editor--in-Chief, MARY HASKELL

Business Manager, LOUISE J. RANDALL

Associate Editors

ALICE G. KENDALL, '10

MARY G. ROCK, '10

OLIVE I. DUNNICAN, '10

CAROLINE E. ALDRICK, '12

ANNIE C. PERRY, '10

DOROTHY E. WAKEFIELD, '10

ABIGAIL T. HAWKES, '11

ELIZABETH H. DAY, '13

Editorial Board of the Microcosm, 1910

Dorothy E. Wakefield Annie C. Perry Olive I. Dunnican Caroline E. Aldrick Mary G. Rock Elizabeth H. Day
Louise J. Randall Mary Haskell Alice G. Kendall

Glee Club

The Simmons College Glee Club is fast becoming a prominent factor in the college. From the few enthusiasts who started the Club on its upward journey, the number of members has increased during the last two years and has reached the encouraging fifty mark. These faithful fifty succeeded in arranging and giving before an appreciative audience in the college assembly room on March nineteenth, the following delightful program:

GREETINGS	Mendelssohn
WHO IS SYLVIA?	Schubert
ABSENT	Metcalf
MY SHADOW	Hadley
OVER THE WATER	Hosmer
SOLO: LOVE ME OR LOVE ME NOT	Serchi
A MODEL COLLEGE GIRL	Brozen
BERCEUSE	Gillespie
SOLO: THE DANZA	Chadwick
THE POLICEMAN	Smith
JACK AND JILL	Nezni
BARCAROLLE	Offenbach
THE SWEET BLUE EYES OF SPRINGTIME	Rees
GRINDS	—————
ALMA MATER	Dean Arnold

MUSIC COMMITTEE

Chairman, GLENNA TRUE

Manager, MAY C. MARTIN

PATRONS

PRESIDENT LEFAVOUR

MISS PILLSBURY

DEAN ARNOLD

MRS. TRUMAN

MISS GLOSTER

DANCE COMMITTEE

CORNELIA REESE

ELSIE CONVERSE

GRACE DAVIS

The Glee Club has been practising for the past year with Mr. Frank Lynes and under his competent direction has made excellent progress. The club wishes to extend its hearty appreciation to Mr. Lynes for his work with them; to Mr. Twining Lynes for his able accompaniment; to Miss Alice A. Reese for her charming solo work; and to Miss Jennie Williamson for her violin accompaniment.

copy to Chickering

Glee Club

LIBRARY A

DORMITORY KITCHEN

Social

Events

COLLEGE YEAR

ART

INDUSTRY

TO LIFE

A.G.K.

Social Calendar 1909-10

1909

- Sept. 25 Student Government Dance to Freshmen.
- Oct. 2 Guild Reception to Freshmen.
- Oct. 29 Hallowe'en Party.
- Dec. 4 Senior-Freshman Party.
- Dec. 11 Dartmouth Concert.
- Dec. 18 Christmas Party.

1910

- Jan. 22 Junior-Freshman Party.
- Feb. 12 Senior-Sophomore Party.
- Feb. 22 Washington's Birthday Party.
- March 12 Sophomore-Freshman Party.
- March 19 Glee Club Concert.
- April 15 Junior Dance.
- April 23 Indoor Meet.
- April 30 Sophomore Luncheon.
- April 30 Senior Faculty May Party.
- May 7 Sophomore-Freshman-Senior Picnic.
- May 14 Freshman Frolic.
- May 21 Guild Reception and Tennis Tournament.
- May 27 Student Government Dance.
- June 19-23 Commencement Week.

Japanese Tea

The Japanese Tea given by the Seniors to the Freshmen in the refectory the afternoon of December 4, may be cited as a typical class party. The hall was decorated with chrysanthemums and Japanese screens. The tables, furnished with copper tea-kettles and dainty cups, lacked legs, and tea was served by the Senior hostess sitting cross-legged on the floor in true Japanese style. The guests appeared in Japanese costume. A program of Japanese songs and dances was arranged and executed by the Seniors, after which the assembly indulged in more tea and dancing. Credit for the success of the party is due to May Martin, the chairman of the committee.

Dartmouth Concert

GIVEN BY THE DARTMOUTH GLEE CLUB QUARTET, DEC. 11, 1909

Messrs. Peck, Sherwin, Ingersoll, and Meredith

Williams True to Purple

a) Go Ask Papa

Mighty Lak a Rose

a) Dixie Kid

Jenk's Compound

a) Take me up, up, up

Medley, 1908

Garden of Roses

a) Women

Dartmouth Song

Junior Dance

APRIL 15, 1910

Now it befell on the appointed night, which was a pleasant evening and warm withal, that there came unto South Hall a goodly number of young men. And the porters who stood by the door opened unto them and each spoke a name as he passed by her. Then the fair messengers sped away and returned with the maidens who found everyone her own knight. There arose anon the sound of music, and dancing made the night merry. Full many an undergrad pressed her face against the window pane, eke the Senior sighed that that bright time should return to her no more. So the night passed with feasting and pleasure sans alloy. And at the stroke of twelve, the dance ceased and there were partings in sorrow. But with the morn came much weariness of the flesh and with half a smile and half a tear the Junior murmured "Never again."

1910 Junior Dance Committee

Flora E. Dutton	Marjorie C. Elmes	Mary Haskell	Ruth A. Harrington
Helen Myrick	Louise J. Randall	Annie C. Perry

1910 Senior Dance Committee

Mildred Fuller May C. Martin Alice J. D. Sanborn Frances M. Whitcomb Ruth A. Harrington
Dorothy E. Wakefield Olive J. Dunnican Annise B. Kane

Commencement Week

Sunday, June 13, 3 P.M.	Baccalaureate Sermon
Monday, June 20, 8 P.M.	Senior Dance
Tuesday, June 21, 4.30 P.M.	Class Day Exercises—Spreads
7.30 P.M.	Glee Club Concert
Wednesday, June 22, 11 A.M.	Commencement Exercises
1 P.M.	Luncheon given by Alumni to Class of 1910
8 P.M.	President's Reception
Thursday, June 23, 1 P.M.	Senior Luncheon

Athletics

Athletics at Simmons has, in former years, been represented by an annual class tennis tournament. Although the tournament has every year aroused more and more enthusiasm, the need of an athletic organization, basketball teams, and track practice has been strongly felt. This year the fitting out of a gymnasium in the new west wing of the college building marks the end of such a need. A committee is engaged in drawing up a constitution for the recently-organized Simmons Athletic Association. Class basketball teams have been formed and the first indoor meet held. Tennis courts and an athletic field are in the process of construction behind the west wing. The progress in athletics this year is largely due to the efforts of Miss Florence Dially, the instructor in physical training. Although only a beginning has been made, this has not been faint-hearted and it is easy to foresee the rapid growth of an enthusiastic athletic spirit in the next few years.

1910 Basketball Squad

Charles K. Bolton, Honorary Manager J. Holly Hanford, Honorary Coach
Daisy M. Miller Cornelia Reese Mary Haskell Alice G. Kendall Blanche Webster Blanche D. Mills
Catherine Casassa Olga F. Schroeder Annie C. Perry Gertrude F. Barbour

1911 Basketball Squad

	Effie R. Beverley	Marjorie F. Sutcliffe
Madelaine L. Scott	Margaret S. Davis	Nellie M. Slack	Mary E. Dunbar
Jessie L. Blanchard	Margaret Ridlon	Marguerite F. Hawley	Elizabeth G. Putnam

1912 Basketball Squad

Glenna M. True Lydia B. Ely Olive French

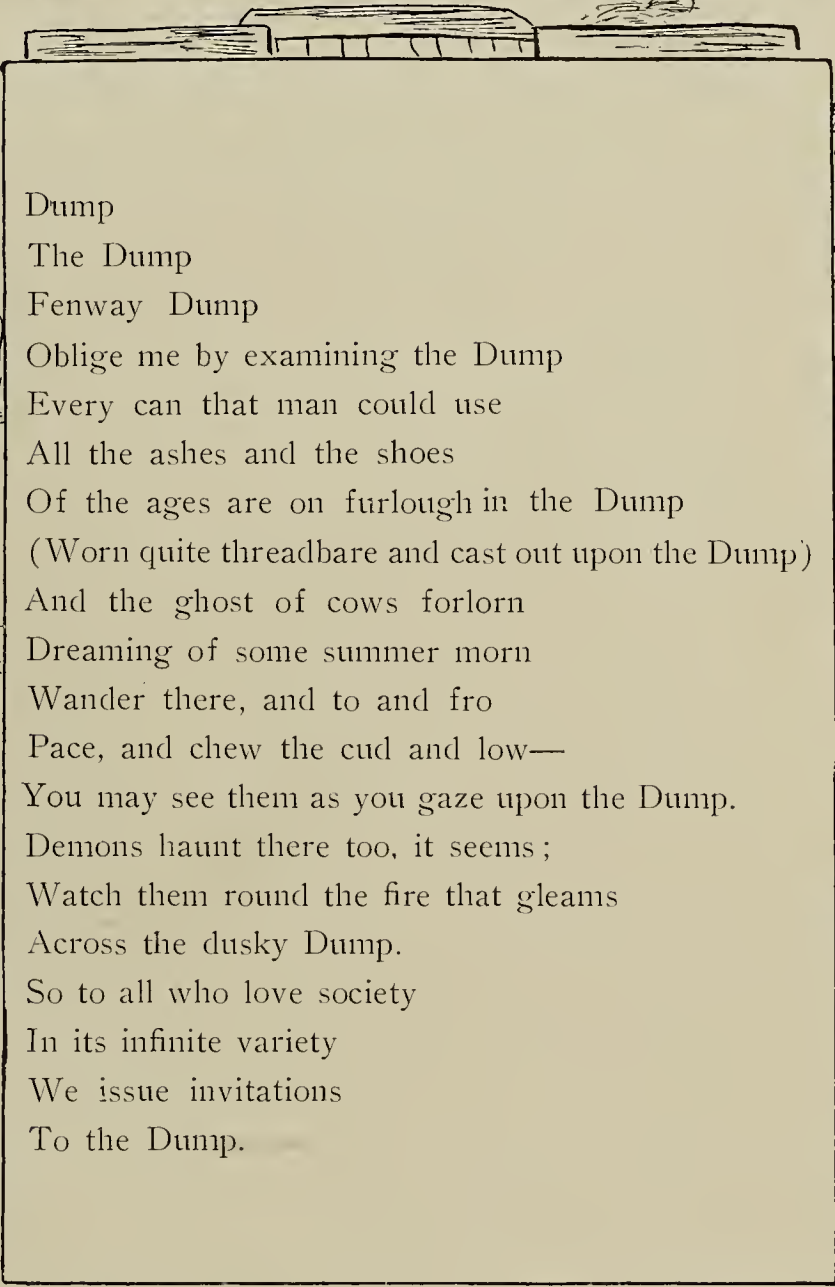

Luise B. Nissen Kathleen English Dora W. Moses Aldina A. L. Galarneau Margaret E. Becker Ida E. Adams Mildred R. Bowen H. Julia Pitt
 Harriet M. Bosworth Daisy J. McCormick Caroline E. Aldrich Alice A. Sheehan Ruth Symonds Elinor Whitney Mabel A. Magee

1913 Basketball Squad

e Gurdy Inez J. Terrall Marjorie C. Chapman Henrietta J. Tufts Esther M. Symonds A. M. Kelly Hazel G. Glessner Clarissa G. Babcock
 Hope G. Carrell Annabel Porter Orian E. Dyer Elizabeth M. Walker Emily E. Woodward Dorothy Tyacke
 Dorothy W. Hughitt Mary W. Anderson Jeanette E. Pellman Marion S. Donaldson

THE SIMMONS DUMP.

Dump
The Dump
Fenway Dump
Oblige me by examining the Dump
Every can that man could use
All the ashes and the shoes
Of the ages are on furlough in the Dump
(Worn quite threadbare and cast out upon the Dump)
And the ghost of cows forlorn
Dreaming of some summer morn
Wander there, and to and fro
Pace, and chew the cud and low—
You may see them as you gaze upon the Dump.
Demons haunt there too, it seems ;
Watch them round the fire that gleams
Across the dusky Dump.
So to all who love society
In its infinite variety
We issue invitations
To the Dump.

The Self-Maintainers

A College Drama of the Day

In Several Acts

TIME: Before and after Midyear.

PLACE: Snommis Female College.

CAST

COLLEGE SPIRIT: a weakling.

MISS NOLARND: a power.

MR. OLDHILL: another power.

MISS SPARROW: still another power.

Faculty, Library Students, Secretarial Students, Household Ec Students, Others who aren't Students, C. G.'s, and College Cut-ups.

ACT ONE

Curtain rises and a scene in the college hall is discovered, the bulletin board at the background. At first there appears to be no one on the stage. In a minute a thin little girl with yellow hair is seen crouching timidly against the bulletin board. A blue flannel dress clings about her spare little figure. (This has the advantage of following the fashion and enhancing the pathos.) She comes forward falteringly and sings the touching child ballad:

Won't somebody be kind to me?

I'm very small, I know,

But the College Grads and Specials

They shove and hurt me so,

They shove and hurt me so,

They shove and hurt me so,

Oh, the College Grads and Specials,

They shove and hurt me so.

(This unique opening is expected to take with the audience. They will probably express their appreciation by wiping their eyes on the back of one hand and clapping enthusiastically with the other.' Just as she finishes, a gay bunch of faculty dashes in, dressed in the conventional business costume. The gentlemen are wearing their favorite neckties. The leader of the chorus approaches the College Spirit and grasping her shoulder roughly, says: "How did you wander in here, my good waif? This is the wrong number. Seek succour elsewhere." C. S. exit, crying bitterly. Leader steps to the front and sings in a haughty baritone.

Basketball with Radcliffe!
A preposterous idea!
It would lead the girls to holler
It's not ladylike to cheer.
Besides they might be recognized—
Their movements might be traced,
And if Snommis girls should spotted be Snommis would be disgraced.

After this they execute a short skirt dance and go off right. Just as the last one disappears with a coquettish kick, a bare-headed girl wearing a dark red sweater (and some other things) peeps around the corner. She comes tip-toeing cautiously on while the orchestra plays startled music; after looking about, she beckons to her companions who come running in, all bare-headed and in sweaters. The first girl sings the solo of "Don't Tell Them That You Saw Us and We Didn't Have a Hat." (As this show is not of the variety generally patronized by "friends of the college," we trust the chorus is safe). Every other line the drums bang and the chorus jump back on their toes alert and listening. As an encore, the girls, having effected lightning changes, come on in gym suits and do a neat fencing dance, very difficult and complicated, which ought to bring down the house with the curtain.

ACT TWO

The curtain rises on a secretarial room in Snommis College. On the stage floor are seen six mammoth typewriters and beside each machine an enormous, powerful-looking eraser. Almost immediately Mr. Oldhill appears at centre, comes down to the front of the stage and strikes an attitude, with right forefinger warningly raised. The orchestra plays a bar and he sings in a hypnotic tenor, "If You Don't Have Forty Hours You Will Never Graduate." At the end of the second stanza commotion is heard from the direction of the typewriter on the extreme right, and the keys begin to jump at a furious rate. Pretty soon the bell rings and a tiny messenger boy enters, takes a telegram (automatically folded and sealed) from the machine and runs across with it to Mr. Oldhill, who stands spellbound with astonishment, finger still in mid-air. He takes the telegram, and forgetting to drop finger, dexterously opens it with his left hand and his teeth. The audience waits tensely until he begins to read in a dazed fashion, "Cut it out. You look like P. Brooks trying to hail the car in front of Trinity." The actor, after a minute, crumples the paper furiously, drops his right hand, fingers opening and shutting with rage, and gives villainous glances at the daring typewriter. He is to be diverted from his wrath, however, by the applause of the audience (This is a precarious moment for the managers. If the audience shouldn't applaud, no one knows what would happen) which serves to produce a bow and a smile and the third stanza. Exit, singing the chorus. As he goes out, the typewriters and erasers arise and come forward and are seen to be the same chorus girls of the last act, got up in clever disguise. An eraser starts a pandemonium by touching a typewriter and squealing "Tag." This is the signal for a rollicking, unconventional dance, which goes on to orchestra accompaniment until one of the Smiths cries, "You can't touch me, I've got my wires crossed." They form for a modernized Virginia Reel to the tune of "Erase Whene'er You Want To, But Be Sure You Don't Get Caught," and the curtain falls on the second act.

ACT THREE

The third act reveals a scene triumphantly laid in a Library Science room. A good deal of cackling is going on. A unique effect is gained by the device of having the chorus seated at desks. Local color is added by a poignant mixed odor of library paste and black ink. Each of the chorus is armed with a size ruler and a volume of the Library Journal. A library Senior enters from the left and approaches a desk occupied by a C. G. The following dialogue ensues:

C. G., keeping on with the task in which she is absorbed: "Am I in your way?"

Senior, giving contortionist exhibition in attempt to open top drawer: "Oh, no! Don't move."

C. G. politely complies with this request.

C. G. waxes communicative: "How much History of Libraries have you read?"

Senior, out of breath: "Eighteen hours."

C. G., tragically: "Heavens, woman, when?"

Senior, taciturnly: "Second period this morning."

Senior gives up attempt to get a book from the drawer, comes to the front and sings with feeling,

When the College Grads have left us, Genevieve,
There'll be nothing here that's really fit to leave.
We'll be dead, I have no doubt
And the front seats all worn out,
When the College Grads have left us, Genevieve.

C. G., petulantly: "This morning I had to waste forty-eight seconds on the front stoop before they opened the college door. And I didn't half finish my egg at breakfast."

Miss Sparrow, strolling in, catches last words, comes sternly to front and sings with force, "Avoid Egg For Breakfast, Or You'll Never Get a Job." Seniors join in the chorus and the act closes spiritedly.

ACT FOUR

The fourth act is short but tense. The scene is the Household Economics Cooking Laboratory. The chorus wear aprons and carry mixing bowls and spoons. All are on one knee (one apiece) in an anxious semi-circle around the stove. A cooking instructor enters, comes down, opens the oven door, takes out a magnificent smelly structure which she bisects. The semi-circle still anxious. The instructor scans the bisected structure and sings,

It's very stylish outside, but it's awful gooey in,
You must have breathed too heavy when you put it in the tin.
If you ate this, you would die,
Have a care next time you try,
For it's very stylish outside, but it's awful gooey in.
The chorus faints in a body and the curtain drops.

ACT FIVE

Scene same as in Act I. Miss Nolarnd, who was among the faculty chorus in the first act, but had no speaking part, appears again as leader of the faculty chorus and comes down the stage singing that famous number in which humor and pathos are so cleverly mixed, "There'll Be Lots of Empty Places When the Marks Come Out." The chorus girls, in quaint, loose robes, besprinkled with birds, flowers, insects and what not, and wearing Turkish towels bound Grecian-wise below their pompadours, approach slowly with spiritless totter from right centre, disport with seeming carelessness opposite faculty chorus and sing with subdued sadness the ballad, "We've Been Boning Forty Minutes But It Aint No Use." During the last stanza they all fall gradually asleep; the singing trails off into humming and finally developes into snoring. Just before the final rendition of the refrain the familiar moving-picture-show commandment is thrown upon a screen, "All join in on the chorus." The scene should close effectively with audience and actors snoring rhythmically to dreamy orchestra music.

[The curtain falls to indicate an elapse of four weeks.]

SCENE II

The curtain rises on the last scene and discovers the faculty chorus and the rejuvenated but meagre student chorus on opposite sides of the stage. The latter sings.

Some say the ranks were high,
And some say the ranks were low,
But anyhow the ranks are rather thin.
Still, we're cheerful now about it
And you surely cannot doubt it,
When you see the college spirit in our grin.

College Spirit comes clambering in with one finger in her timid but friendly smile. She is unaccountably transformed into a healthy Mellins Food specimen. She turns towards the girls and they welcome her with true feminine cordiality and spontaneous outbursts of affection. (The act is marvellous in emotional intensity and deserves highest mention). During this demonstration, the faculty exhibit an expression first of disapproval and then of reluctant assent. Finally one sees in their faces the realization of the fact that the chosen few remaining are worthy to educate and advance the College Spirit. A smile of benign and gracious approbation flits across the countenance of Miss Nolarnd as she raises aloft the child, singing the old-time favorite, "Hail to Thee, Blithe Spirit." The curtain falls on a tableau.

A FRESHMAN FROLIC

The Commuter's Refrain

We have hung on a strap together,
And swayed with the lurching car.
We have run the gamut of weather
In trips from near and far.
On the Fenway, oh, the Fenway,
On a blistering summer day,
When the sun beats down sans pity
And the dust blows thick and gray.

We have started in early morning
And raced for the train we know
Leaves time to escape the warning
That waits for those who are slow.
On the Fenway, oh, the Fenway,
On a blustering winter day
When the snow whirls high in fury
And the tortured bushes sway.

We have felt the old spring longing
On a fragrant April day.
We have heard the autos gonging,
And the fragrance went away.
On the Fenway, oh, the Fenway,
On a near vacation day,
When the birds sing high and gleeful
And the world says "Come and play."

WHY, WHY!

MISS HARRINGTON: "What's the matter with 'yours truly'?"

MRS ELDRIDGE (hastily): "Nothing!"

IDENTIFYING IT

MISS ROBERTS: "What kind of a clock?"

DR. UNDERWOOD: "Oh, like the one on the wall—tame clock—domestic clock, you know."

BARGAINING

MISS JACOBS: "In the exam shall we have to write samples of all the themes we've ever written?"

DR. HANFORD: "Oh, no, only remnants."

Omissions from the Curriculum

BY A WELL-WISHER

We hear from those well qualified to speak from experience, that a new exercise entitled "Two Hours Daily Work with the Burroughs Adding Machine," has recently been introduced into the Secretarial School. Well, it was high time. The pressure on the lever of this machine is something like ten pounds to the square inch, and in operating it steadily for one hundred and twenty minutes without a pause, guarded by one of the vigilant Watch-Dogs of the Secretarial Department, it forms a pleasant little relaxation on a spring afternoon as a climax to a day of strenuous application on the classical and technical end of the course, besides being a nerve and muscle strengthener of no mean dimensions.

As we take our somewhat stubby lead pencil in hand to pen this article, a telegram comes in from the camp of that greatest American of modern times, Mr. James Jeffries, future defender of the supremacy of the white race, to the following effect:

"Can Jeff come back? Well, we guess yes. The Burroughs Adding Machine has done it. Credit where it is due. Two weeks ago, Mr. Jeffries weighed 350 lbs., was weak as an infant, muscles flabby as cotton-batting. The Burroughs Adding Machine was brought into camp on a dray drawn by eight large army mules, and hailed by Jeff and his trainers with buoyant satisfaction. Now see what the B. A. M. has accomplished in a fortnight. To-day, Mr. Jeffries weighs only 105 lbs., is able to read an account of a day's work at Simmons College without visible signs of exhaustion, and his biceps measure, in repose, 24 1-2 inches. Send us another."

All this is interesting and to the point, but why do we stop here? Are there not other equally needed innovations? Let us consider the not at all remote contingency of a Simmons Graduate, having survived the college training table and the rigors of the Back Bay climate, accepting a position with one of the big ship-building concerns. Now, in the matter of pounding rivets on an armored cruiser, would she not be considered deficient in experience? It seems to us that a counterfeit iron deck could easily be planned on the top of Mrs. Gardner's Museum of Fine Arts, from which one of our adaptable and omnipotent faculty could easily toss a white-hot rivet to be caught between large tongs by a pupil of the Secretarial Department, and rapidly pounded into the South end of the building, which for the purpose should have a light staging erected. In the winter, mittens should be worn for this work.

Again, presupposing the unoffending graduate to have taken a position with the city. The question naturally arises: Is her pick-and-shovel work up to the Chautauqua standard? Has better, speedier, more efficient work been done elsewhere? Can she mentally plan and physically execute a trench in less time than the untutored Dago? Has she done it, not once but constantly during her college career? Dear me, no, overlooked completely.

Of course, one poor faculty cannot adequately supply the missing links among all the students' faculties, but will they not consider before another year, the following supplementary Senior subjects:

1. Invention, construction, and application of the cotton-gin, printing-press, and spinning-jenny.
2. Direction and practical demonstration of the use of the steam-roller, sub-divided into three courses:
 - A. Stone-crushing.
 - B. Road-rolling.
 - C. Firing and cleaning engine on aforesaid machine.

We trust these suggestions will not be brushed lightly aside, for when on the high road to perfect efficiency, push on to the goal, heeding not mental fatigue, physical exhaustion, muscular paralysis, dire misfortune, fatal disease, nay, pause not, in danger of being put on the card catalogue, for Death itself.

Slips and Slides

INSTRUCTOG: Why did you close the window?

SECRETARIAL JUNIOR, absent-mindedly: Why, the transcript was open and I felt a draft.

MISS WIGGIN: Whatever you do, girls, don't make trouble for your predecessors.

SENIOR (reading shorthand transcript): Your favor of the 32nd received—

MISS MITZLAFF: In the recent future—

Miss Mitzlaff, telling class the history during Joan of Arc's time is interrupted by wise Junior: Why, Miss Mitzlaff, I thought Richard III came before Richard II.

YOU KNOW WHO

With History One
And History Two
He's almost driven mad.
With Reading slips
And Conferences
No wonder he looks sad.

With carrying books
And lunch for two
And dodging girls in the hall
And Genealogical References
You can see why he yawns at us all.

He has quizzes galore,
Bibliographies too,
And he needs relief from his care,
So along towards night
Down in one-thirty-eight
He secretly plays solitaire.

YES, INDEED

FRESHMAN (opening door of English office and looking in: "Is Mr. Hanford here?")

MISS HOLBROOK: "Well, why don't you look around and then guess?"

PHILOSOPHY

Should you ask me whence these groanings,
Whence these moans and imprecations,
With the wrinkled, anxious forehead,
With the face grown white so sudden,
With the eyes sharp points of color,
Color greatly changed from normal,
With the thin, dilated nostrils,
With the tightening of the red lips,
And the raised and sharpened voices
As of those who cry in anguish,
I should answer, I should tell you
'Tis emotion 'roused by memory,
An emotion I'll allow you
To decide on from the symptoms—
'Roused by memory of a class room
Filled with forty girls or over,
Girls with light hair and with dark hair,
Girls with brains and girls without 'em,
Girls with faculties of bluffing,
Bluffing which determines high marks—
Roused by memory of instructor,
Who, himself, per se, and as such,
Lectured, lectured, lectured, lectured,
Lectured volubly and clearly
With his feet in ten positions,
Ten original positions,
And his eyes upon a point
In that second row of Seniors—
'Roused by memory of a percept,
'Roused by memory of a concept,
'Roused by many vivid memories.
Should you ask me to relate you
Some experiences met there,
I should answer, I should tell you
Of a poor frog near the window—
Frog that hopped when it was prodded,
Hopped and greedily ate sawdust,
Gobbled sawdust with such pathos
That our hearts were wrung to see it,

Tho' 'twas all imagination,
It was only in the mind's eye.
I should answer, I should tell you
Of a heated controversy
'Twixt a student and instructor
All about a common chalk-box
Which he held against his stomach
While exhorting thus the student,
"For example, take this chalk-box—
Is there anything behind it
Does it seem to you, Miss Johnson?"
Courtesy repressed the answer,
Truth compelled her to keep silence,
But the courtesy of the Seniors
Was not equal to such straining,
Burst they into gleeful laughter,
Burst they into shaking giggles,
Well, oh well, they know the answer,
Nothing cryptic to that riddle,
Not a bit of doubt about it.
Later they encountered questions,
Deep and darksome, all-embracing Infinite in chance for thinking—
Questions awesome and terrific,
Problems such as these that follow:
"Is the green wall green or yellow?"
"Do I see a desk before me?"
(Said in agitated manner
Quite as tragic as Macbeth's words)
"Will the chalk fall if I drop it—
Will it fall or stay in mid-air?"
And some others quite as dreadful,
Quite as puzzling and as hopeless.
Then they heard of Aristotle,
Heard of him and read his writings.
('Twas by graft he got 'em printed)
Which impose upon the public,
The long-suffering reading public,
And they jilted him for Plato,
Ten times worse for ten times longer,

Plato, who believed in justice
So he could not help but talk it,
Talked of it from morn till evening,
Didn't stop to eat his dinner ;
Then (most cowardly and disgraceful)
Went and blamed it on another,
Socrates he shoved it onto,
Poor old Soc, all dead and buried,
(Maybe burned—oh, who remembers?)
Gone where he could not deny it,
Gone where he could not refute it,
Passed away and gone forever.
Next (oh, yes, I've almost finished)
Were the Cynics forced upon them,
Questions asked about their theories:
"What, oh what was that great spirit
Which rose up before all men with
'I don't care' as its chief motto?"
Someone answered "Eva Tanguay,"
Someone risked a flunk and answered,
Pained and hurt was the instructor
And 'twas long ere he recovered.
Sadly he went on to lecture,
Soaked it to them worse than ever,
Soaked it to them four times weekly
All about five hundred ninnies—
But I'm going to let you off now
It is time to quit this droning.
Go lie down and think it over
Go lie down and offer praises
That 'tis written by a student
Who has had unusual chances,
Understands the human brain and Recognizes thus its limits
All because she had the course in,
Had the crust to take the course in
That Philosophy and Ethics
Offered by the administrators,
Wise and great administrators,
To the girls who go to Simmons,
Pampered girls who go to Simmons.

THE HARVARD
MAN'S THOUGHTS
IN THE FENWAY

Inconstant star that rules my fate
Through life's most devious way,
Is thy caprice not satiate,
That thou dost tempt me from the straight
And narrow path of faithful state
By such decoy, today,
And makst me linger when I'm late
And should be on my way?

You know to Grace at Wellesley there,
And Clara back at Rad,—
And Eleanor at Smith— (I swear
I never saw such corking hair!)
I said that I'd—

(I wonder where
A knockdown's to be had,—)
O, star, why don't you use me square?
Great guns, I've got it bad!

REST ROOM RULES

1. Kindly make as much noise as possible about entering. Squeaking the door has an especially soothing effect on a sick headache.

1. a. If you can't get time to come in, be sure to look in. That is quite as efficacious.

2. Don't hesitate in the least to use all the pillows. Girls who feel really ill do not realize whether they have one or not.

3. Please throw all your books on the floor, one by one, taking as long as you please about it. It creates an ideal atmosphere for rest.

4. Scrape and haul your chair about often, turn leaves of books loudly, and sigh deeply at intervals of five seconds.

5. If a friend should be present, converse volubly with her across the room over various humorous outside subjects. Those studying are interested and can think better.

6. When ready to leave, excite interest in your actions and arouse commotion by singing, dancing, etc.

7. Always slam the door. Those disobeying final injunction, No. 7, will be fined and forbidden use of rest room during the remainder of the college year.

SPRINGTIME

The cow walks chewing here and there
 While I sit on a rock
 In the wild, wide waste of Fenway,
 Eating Alfred's last year's stock.

I am not jealous of the cow
 Or her placidity,
 For thanks to Alfred's last year's stock
 I chew as long as she.

TIME TELLS

STUDENT (in sewing): "But Miss —, aren't these sleeve patterns rather full?"

TEACHER: "Well, we've been using them for several years and they've been all right."

FOLLOWED IT BY ABOUT THIRTY YEARS

DR. DEWING: "Those of you who followed the discussion in the early sixties, will remember—"

THOSE CONGRESSIONAL RECORDS

Portion of a speech overheard after hours:

The ways of Providence and Miss Jackson are hard. We know that they are right, but in our impotence we cannot understand; we dumbly suffer and trust. But out of our present misery, she will, in her own good time, work us up to a commendable rate of speed and degree of ability.

HORRORS!

DR. DEWING: "Do you have Miss Dunnican in the Science Course, Dr. Stiles?"

DR. STILES: "Yes, she's the one ewe lamb in the class."

DR. DEWING: "The one I lam!"

We Would Like To See

Maclachlan's prices fall

The faculty at Chapel

Copy for the Microcosm

Dr. Hanford in his office chair at scheduled times

A Tech dorm in the Fenway

M. Fuller on time

Miss Arnold without a special invitation

"Doc" Johnson without an answer

Somebody angry—Psych class

Chapel Day without a headache

Herr Grossman in the same suit twice a week

A chance to cut for fun

Dr. Andrews—minus his sidestep chassé gait

Louis Pasteur Avenue

Dr. Ogg contradicting someone flatly

The Library girls at work

Mr. Hastings with his moustache again

J. Van Liew Morris at a Suffragette meeting

First period recitation—with lessons prepared

Dr. Stiles without his little joke

A man—without a chaperone

Final exams—beforehand

We Would Like To Hear

The Choir

"GRADU DIVERSO, UNA VIA"

Hear the tired, weary tapping of a foot upon the stair—
 'Tis a Senior toiling upward and we've caught her unaware,
 Hear her panting, gasping breath,
 She is worked almost to death,
 For it's four years—four flights—
 Climbing mornings—noons—night,
 Work—work—work—it will give you your degree,
 But the Seniors hate the journey to the Li-bra-ry.

Hear the slow, uncertain shuffling of a foot upon the stair,
 'Tis a Junior mounting upward, she has troubles, too, to bear;
 Oh, they do pile up the work,
 But a Junior is no shirk,
 Tho' it's four years—four flights—
 Climbing mornings—noons—nights,
 Toil—toil—toil—if a Senior you would be,
 So the Juniors brave the journey to the Li-bra-ry.

Hear the stealthy, creepy squeaking of a foot upon the stair—
 'Tis a Soph'more stealing upward—for till now this thing was rare;
 But there's something now to do—
 (She's afraid she won't get through)
 And it's four years—four flights—
 Climbing mornings—noons—nights,
 March—march—march—for you need it, all can see,
 So the Sophs endure the journey to the Li-bra-ry.

Hear the mad, hilarious racing of a foot upon the stair—
 'Tis a Freshie prancing upward, and she has no earthly care;
 She's just glad to live and grin,
 And she doesn't care a pin
 For the four years—four—flights
 Climbing mornings—noons—nights,
 Skip—hop—jump—for her dancing heart is free,
 And the Freshies love the journey to the Li-bra-ry.

SO SOON?

DR. HANFORD (reading an Old English song): "Well, that title translated means 'My love's gone to the country.'"

WAFTINGS FROM OLYMPUS

DR. ELDRIDGE: "Ladies, what happened to the Transcript yesterday. Now at Lake George last summer—"

MISS ROBBINS (rapping on the desk): "Young ladies, there are people doing practice work in this room."

MISS COOK: "Don't say 'I don't think.' If you don't think, don't talk."

DR. HANFORD: "That's great stuff. The trick is—"

MISS CRAIG: "Now, girls, the spelling was v-e-r-y bad."

MR. HASTINGS: "A happy phrase, of course, is—"

MISS JACKSON: "The period does not close until twenty minutes of twelve."

DR. DEWING: "In the last analysis, per se, jest sech—Oh, Miss Dunnican, did you smile? Oh, I thought—"

MISS HOLBROOK: "Please clasp the door. Anyhow—"

DR. NORRIS: "Well, when the girl came up and spoke to me, of course I had to—"

DR. ANDREWS: }
DR. OGG: } "You'd better ask Dr. Kingsbury."

DR. UNDERWOOD: "Speaking of policemen, when we were playing ball in Paris—"

DR. KINGSBURY: "Make an outline—"

MISS HOWARD: "Now you know, girls, I never like to scold—"

MISS DIKE: "Someone in my family suffered from—"

MISS PARKER: "When I was in Syracuse—"

DR. CAMPBELL (before making an experiment): "Now, if we are successful—"

MR. MOYER: "Of course you don't understand, but just go ahead—"

SINGULAR!

DR. UNDERWOOD: "Here's an Italian simile, 'The woman was as lonesome as asparagus.' Do you think it refers to the way the plant grows?"

PROFESSOR GOODELL: "No, I think it refers to the way they serve it in American hotels."

A DISCOVERY

What is it that has only the dimensions of length and breadth?

ANSWER: Lunch-room butter.

REMARKABLE EVENTS OF THE YEAR

Dr. Hanford appears in English with his other necktie.
Hot soup is served in the lunch-room.
Student gets a free ride in the elevator.
L. Randall hands in theme on time.
The organ ends with the choir.
A Junior pays her Guild dues.
Twelve of the faculty appear at chapel.
Miss Ridlon forgets to say neyther.
Miss Diall is seen without a retinue of Sophs.
G. Barbour refrains from cutting for a week.
D. Wakefield contributes to Senior candy sale.
Sophomores conduct class meeting according to Parliamentary law.

SOPH ON JUNIOR PROM NIGHT

I never cared before to-night
To roll the years away,
But now I wish a twelve-month
Would turn into a day.

PEN SKETCHES OF POPULAR INSTRUCTORS

Most obviously popular
Of all the powers that be
Is the Living Ink Eradicator, E. R. E.

The Forceful advertisement
Of good humor's due to him.
He makes Chem. Lab. attractive,
And is known as Sunny Jim.

A certain French professor
(We know this joke's not funny—
We blush with shame to say it)
But it's true—they call him Honey.

The embodiment of dignity,
The prince of witty wiles—
We wonder why we love so well
Our Walter Baker Stiles.

A vote for popularity
Would show not far behind
That Napoleonic Lady
With the Economic mind.

Oh, listen to him, Ladies,
His protegées are many.
He bustles 'round with clucking sound,
They call him Eddie Henny.

By some he's thought an Easy Mark.
Unblushingly they're punny.
But anyway to everyone
He's better known as Bunny.

The Infant Prodigy behold.
He writes Philosophy.
All by himself he does it—
The illustrious Per Se.

CAUGHT IT ON THE BOUNCE

MADAME M——: "Give me the verb 'to graze,' Miss G——."

MISS G—— (whose thoughts were elsewhere): "What?"

MADAME M——: "The verb 'to graze,' Miss G—— 'to graze.' In what do horses graze?"

MISS G—— (in sudden enlightenment, with abrupt frankness of knowledge): "Grass!"

GEMS OF WIT FROM GERMAN I

HERR GROSSMAN: "Miss ——, how compares the adjective 'gross?'"

MISS ——: "Gross, grosser, grossman—" and it's nice she "mumbled her words."

STUDENT (translating into German): "Er kam—no—kam er—no—er kam—"

HERR G—— (gracefully fainting against blackboard): "Oh, no, no, no! Ne-f-er must you change—unless I shriek!"

WE WANT TO KNOW

MISS DIALL (to Freshman): "You play second half."

FRESHMAN: "Where's that?"

OBLIGING

SENIOR (to Freshman): "Miss ——, do you play first or second mandolin?"

FRESHMAN (modestly): "It really doesn't matter—I have two."

A LA WORDSWORTH

Author's note: Gazing from the College window, thinking of my English reading, I was much struck by the cheerful industry of the humble junkmen gathering untold treasures from The Dump. At once I thought of the way Wordsworth himself would have treated such a subject, and hence the following, which I consider one of the most spiritual of my compositions.

The day outside is warm and bright,
 Let's leave our studies gloomy,
 And in the sunshine and the light,
 Enjoy the Fenway roomy!

Of Wordsworth's teachings then have done!
 Let's put them into being!
 And in the warm and pleasant sun,
 All nature's joy be seeing.

We'll watch the swans gaily disport
 On Muddy River's breast;
 Their raptures shall our fancy court—
 But, Ah! the Dump is best!

For there the junkman mildly glad,
 Pursues his humble trade.
 And I confess I'm almost sad
 To see what finds he's made.

One lesson, junkman, every day
 You unto us may give—
 If no one threw such junk away,
 How could the junkmen live?

EXAM TIME

Our Honor System faith abounding has.
 Some schools employ the wily proctor's art.
 But, no, they trust us, and to prove this so,
 They place all chairs at least ten feet apart.

WHAT THE TYPEWRITER SAID

A Freshman came to Simmons once
With aspirations high.
They took her to a typewriter
And bade her fingers fly.

They set before her there a chart
With letters green and blue,
And the first letter that she made
They told her must be U.

"Now left, now down," the teacher said,
She did as she was told;
But when she pulled the carriage up
She felt a shudder cold.

For there in black and white she saw
What long she feared was true.
The canny typewriter had writ
U Y U, U J U.

SIMMONS COLLEGE

To the Dean :

I was absent from the following exercises on the days indicated for the reasons given below:
 (Write subjects opposite proper day of week. If absence lasted more than a week, write all dates under day of month.)

	DAY OF MONTH	EXERCISES FROM WHICH ABSENT
MON.
TUES.
WED.	Jan. 16	History
THUR.
FRI.
SAT.

Reason for late:

30 min late
 Didn't get here on time

(Signature)

J. M. N. Everlate

Form 47 C 5000 1 '10

SIMMONS COLLEGE

I was absent from the following exercises on the days indicated for the reasons given below:
 (Write subjects opposite proper day of week. If absence lasted more than a week, write all dates under day of month.)

	DAY OF MONTH	EXERCISES FROM WHICH ABSENT
MON.
TUES.
WED.
THUR.
FRI.
SAT.
SUN.
MON.	Jan. 17	History 1-7
TUES.
WED.
THUR.
FRI.
SAT.

Reason for tardiness:

or Miss Arnold:
 I am so sorry: it will never happen again. This morning, I left home at quarter past five so as to be sure and get here at half past eight. When I got as far as Boylston St at twenty minutes past seven by my watch (Ingersoll), I saw smoke and there evidently was a fire but of course I did not stop to see. Someone said it was the Y. M. C. A., but I ran up to Huntington Ave. but the cars were not running. (Exhibit A) - affidavit of Car Co. that cars did not run so, though I ran out to college, 3 1/2 miles, I was two minutes late. Please excuse me and I hope the Y. M. C. A. will never burn down again.
 J. M. N. Everlate

Form 47 C 5000 1 '10

Before and After the Dean's Meeting

S. A. A.

The above caption, as of course nearly everybody knows now, is abbreviation of Simmons Annual Anthology, the first volume of which, culled from the inedited metrical effusions of the Officers of Instruction and Administration, is shortly to appear. This notice, which is to serve as a preliminary announcement, is an account of part of my Odyssey, as editor-in-chief in quest of material, and it is intended to give an idea of the difficulties and perils attending the endeavor as well as a sample of the contents of the Anthology.

When I went to the President for copy, my speech was all ready. "Dr. Bolton tells me you have a faculty for writing verse," I said. "I have," he acknowledged. "Will you give me something for the Anthology?" "No," he replied, "I haven't time. Why should I write verse, when, as you say, I have a Faculty for it? Go to the Faculty. Next." The President smiled, but the atmosphere was wintry as his answer was summary. It seemed unseasonable to stay longer. I took the proffered advice and went to the Faculty. At the Dean's office I was told I could not have an interview until eighteen minutes past three the following Thursday, and I must be punctual as the Dean had another appointment at 3.19 and a tea at 3.20. I started to drop in on the German department, but music halted me; a trio—soprano, barytone and tenor—was rendering strange words to a familiar air. Blessing Professor Eldridge and the whole German department for my two-edged training, I stopped and took down the words in shorthand. I transcribe here only the refrain:

Liebchen du,
Höre mal zu:
Ich wage nicht nach Hause nachts zu gehen
An allen Tagen
Die Zeitungen sagen:
"DIEBSTAHL IM PARK GESCHEHEN;"
Drum sass ich allein in dem Y. M. C. A.
Singend wie tausend Krähen:
Es giebt kein Platz wie zu Hause,
Aber nachts wag' ich nicht dahin gehen.

Involuntarily I applauded, though the door remained closed. There was a prompt response:

Ringe um die Finger, Schellen an den Zehen,
 Elefanten zur Spazierenfahrt wohin ich auch mag gehen,
 So komm—

“Es sind aber nicht Schellen,” interrupted Herr Professor Grossmann. “Es sind lieber Klingeln, nicht wahr, Fräulein?” “Weder Klingeln noch Schellen,” was the answer. “Glocken sind es; wenn man von hinreichender Grösse ist, Elefanten zum Spazierfahren benutzen zu können, so hat man selbstverständlich Zehen von einer ausserordentlichen——” Professor Nichols interceded: “Die Wahrheit liegt zwischen——” But I was looking for Dichtung, not Wahrheit, so naturally I passed on to the Romance department. Professor Goodell was asking Madame Mottet how many hospitals there were, approximately, in La Ferté-sous Jouarre in 1768. Madame blushed enough to match the wattles of her Chantecler hat. “I really can’t remember,” she said. I said: “Professor Goodell, I want a poem for the Anthology.” “Certainly,” he replied obligingly, “Epic, elegiac or lyric? Sit down at the typewriter; I’ll dictate.” “Make it local,” I said, “but not about the dump.” (You know there’s been literature enough written about the dump to fill it up). “Give us another side of Simmons; Ruggles Street, for instance.” “Very well,” he said, and began dictating:

I know a kind policeman who Patrols on Ruggles Street,
 I call his club a billy doux,
 His round a sugar beat.

He’s friendly from his stubby toe
 Up to his helmet’s brim,
 He never takes me up, although
 I’m taken up with him.

When life at Simmons loses zest,
 I sally forth to see
 My copper make a kind arrest—
 It is a rest for me.

And yet, though curiosity
 Is thought a deadly sin,
 Whenever I run out to see
 He never runs me in.

Sometimes we quaff the foamy cheer
 Before he goes his round;
 One day (alas!) they'll take his bier
 To Copps Hill burying-ground.

I stopped him there. I hold the record for speed from dictation, but it wasn't up to the fine frenzy of Professor Goodell's impromptus; moreover, I was shocked at the implication of the last stanza and I remonstrated. "The beer?" he asked. "Poetic licence." And he explained that unusual latitude might be conceded to one who spends his weeks at Simmons and his week-ends in Maine. I went on. I stopped at the biology office, but it was vacant. In the class-room beyond, however, written on the blackboard in a familiar and legible hand was the following:

POX BOBUSCUM

Of the germs of disease he was warned,
 But he ate of the beef that was corned:
 Don't mock at the plight
 Of the innocent wight—
 He is more to be pitted than scorned.

There are nature-fakers outside of the philosophy courses. I erased this awful thing, but first I made a fair copy.

A quartet from the choir was practicing sotto voce in the corridor near the chemistry department. It's melodious, but then so does the chemistry department, I thought in familiar Holmespun. I listened for the words:

"Ev'ry morn we send him violets—"

I understood. Death loves a shining Mark, you know, but Simmons needs him more. Inside the office I asked for poetry. "Sure," said Professor Norris, "anything you like." "Tell muh, then," I murmured, "the story of your life; we all know that under the deep masque of melancholy you always wear, lies the bitter tragedy of a thwarted career. What are your soulful yearnings? What——" "That'll do," he said, "I see what you mean." And he went on:

I sometimes think I wish I might Have been another man,
 Reputed as a shining light
 And not an also ran:
 But when to one my wish I curb,
 Some snake is lurking in the herb.

I'd like to be a Socrates,
 A lake of lavish lore,
 With pupils prostrate at my knees,
 Disciples by the score:
 But Xantippe! and then I'd hate
 To take my stein of hemlock straight.

Sometimes the fancy strikes me that
 I'll play Napoleon
 And knock down kingdoms with my bat
 To see the kinglets run:
 But Saint Helena is so far
 From Boston where my interests are.

And other times I think that I Should like to be a Nero
 And fiddle at the firelit sky
 Like some Wagnerian hero:
 But though an operatic star
 They say he wasn't popular.

Here the Professor was stopped by a girl with a test-tube and an appealing voice. "Dr. Evans will continue the yearns for you," he said; "the efficiency of our department depends on the adaptibility of each of its members, at any time, to supply the place of any other." Dr. Evans adjusted his carmine cravat and continued:

Sometimes I think I should prefer
 To be like Julius Caesar;
 He fought and wrote and made a stir,
 The versatile old geezer:
 But when "Tu Brute" thought him gay
 His finish wasn't far away.

And then again I cast my vote
For Shakespeare too, at times:
He was a poacher and he wrote
Some very clever rhymes:
But then I might get thirty days,
And maybe Bacon wrote the plays.

Sometimes like Washington I've planned
Such little stunts as these:
To be the father of the land
And cut down cherry-trees:
But Georgie never told a lie,
He must be lonely in the sky.

The more I think of it, the more
I think I'd rather be
No demi-godhead to adore,
But only little me:
There is this argument beside:
I couldn't help it if I tried.

If I consulted only my own feelings, I should suppress what happened to me in the English department. It was there (since candor bids me tell all) that I counted on my masterpiece, and might have got it; but I had now developed a certain confidence which, for once, got the better of my tact, for I said breezily to Dr. Hanford: "I've come to see you, Prof., about some poetry for the Anthology." "That's enough," he said. "If you ever call anyone 'Prof.' again, I hope you may not get off as easily as, by grace of your cosmic ignorance, you are going to get off this time. 'Prof.' may stand for Professor, but I have never known any professor who would stand for 'Prof.' Good afternoon."

I only got over this blow in time to keep my Thursday appointment with the Dean. She received me affably, but regretted that discretion, not to say expediency, prompted her to withhold temporarily certain contributions which under happier auguries and not impossible eventual circumstances she might divert to the uses of the Anthology, which enterprise she emphatically, even enthusiastically, indorsed. Then she saw that I was disappointed and that there were only seven seconds left. "On second thought, though," she beamed, "here is the manuscript of some verses left here by Mr. Walliam Witson, who passed through incognito last month and gave me this impression de voyage. Though not in the ultimate analysis an indigenous product, its inspiration is local—indeed, this office would be grateful if its publicity could throw some light on the identity of the cryptically anonymous protagonists—Miss Blank, I sent for you to ask——" The Dean was keeping her 3.19 appointment and I sidled out to read the manuscript she had handed me:

Professor X., who has a taking way
 (He thinks), was strolling with a somewhat young Blithe Junior, when he heard a Freshman say:
 "There goes the woman with the serpent's tongue."

The soft and smug professor turned his head
 (The only head he'd ever turned, I fear)
 And to his fair companion sweetly said:
 "I note you have a reputation here."

She murmured lightly: "Were your hearing good
 Or if you knew your sobriquet among
 Your loving pupils, you'd have understood:
 'There goes a woman with the serpent. Stung!'"

The question of identification, I leave an open one. The Anthology, shortly to appear, comprises about four hundred poems, including "Ye mariners of England," acknowledged by both Doctors Campbell—when doctors disagree, we don't decide—love sonnets of a stenographer, (edited) by Professor Eldridge; the prologue to a comic opera by Professor Parker; The Call of the Dump, or the Summons to Simmons—joint effort of the committee on admission—and this is but a random selection of average merit. The Anthology will be sold by subscription only and orders may be left with any member of the editorial board of the Microcosm. The price is $10, of which $9.90 is due at the time of subscription and the balance upon delivery of the books, of which the edition will be strictly limited and the copies numbered. Immediately after the issue the plates are to be destroyed by Cooking 1 students of guaranteed competency.

Should old acquaintance be forgot
Then why forget these Ads?
In picking out the spending-place
For the dollars of our Dads?

MICROCOSM ADVERTISEMENTS

ESTABLISHED 1841

A. HATHAWAY Co.

INCORPORATED

Carpenters and Builders

77 RIVER STREET, BOSTON

TELEPHONE HAYMARKET 1279

NEW MODEL 10 VISIBLE

Smith Premier

The only front stroke machine having a complete straight-line keyboard.
The only front stroke machine having a removable platen.
The only front stroke machine having interchangeable carriages.
The only machine having a gear-driven carriage and easy erasing facilities.
The only machine having practically every operation controlled from the keyboard.
The only machine that combines a decimal tabulator and column finder.
These features are so necessary that other typewriters will eventually come to them.
Why not get the machine that has them now—the Smith Premier?

THE SMITH PREMIER TYPEWRITER CO., Inc.

Syracuse, N.Y. Branches everywhere.

15 Milk Street

Boston, Mass.

Write for information.

“CHOISA” CEYLON TEA

PURE

RICH

FRAGRANT

1 lb. Canisters
60 Cents

1-2 lb. Canisters
35 Cents

Packed in Parchment-lined
One pound and half-pound Canisters

*We invite comparison with other
Teas of similar price*

S. S. PIERCE CO.

Tremont and Beacon Sts. }
Copley Square } BOSTON

Coolidge }
Corner . } BROOKLINE

JOHN H. PRAY & SONS CO.

1817

Nearly a Century in the Floor Covering Business

1910

Seven years more and we shall have rounded an even century in Floor Covering Business.

We point with pardonable pride to our long record of success in our chosen field.

We are doing to-day the largest exclusive Floor Covering business in New England. A business acquired and held, not by accident, but by the merit of the goods we sell.

Reliability Largest Assortment Exclusive Styles Reasonable Prices

Our Business Reputation is behind every bill we sell

646-658 Washington St. Opposite Boylston St.

THE Fisk Teachers' Agencies

EVERETT O. FISK & CO.

PROPRIETORS

Send to any of the following addresses for Agency Manual Free

2 A Park Street, BOSTON, MASS.
156 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK, N. Y.
1505 Pennsylvania Ave., WASHINGTON, D.C.
203 Michigan Avenue, CHICAGO, ILL.
414 Century Building, MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.
319 Hyde Building, SPOKANE, WASH.
611 Swetland Building, PORTLAND, ORE.
405 Cooper Building, DENVER, COL.
2142 Shattuck Ave., BERKELEY, CAL
238 Douglas Building, LOS ANGELES, CAL.

BENT & BUSH CO.

Designers and Makers of College Jewelry

Fraternity Emblems

Write or come to 15 SCHOOL STREET

BOSTON, MASS.

Morris Burke Parkinson,
Photographic Portraits.

Tel. Back Bay, No 1807-1.

603 Boylston Street,

Terms Reasonable.

Boston

Dr. Underwood—Sublime tobacco! which from east to west
Cheers the tar's labour or the Turkman's rest.

Compliments of

The National Shawmut Bank

ALBERT P. SMITH

Telephone "Richmond" 1647

SMITH BROTHERS
Butter, Cheese and Eggs

2 and 4 FANEUIL HALL MARKET and BASEMENT NO. 3

Sole Receivers of RANDOLPH CREAMERY

Boston, Mass.

GEORGE A. FULLER COMPANY

Building Construction

BOSTON - - MASSACHUSETTS

M. T. Bird & Co.

FINE STATIONERS, PRINTERS & ENGRAVERS

ORDERS OF DANCE

SPECIAL PRICES ON VISITING CARD

PLATES AND CARDS

5 AND 7 WEST STREET

BOSTON

FOR several years we have made Gymnasium suits for many Public and Private Schools.

We shall be glad to send you samples of materials and quote prices if desired.

R. H. Stearns & Co.

140 TREMONT STREET

BOSTON

WARREN J. CRAWLEY

PLAIN AND ARTISTIC

..Printing..

SPECIAL ATTENTION GIVEN TO COLLEGE WORK

HOOSAC COURT

95 1-2 MAIN ST., NORTH ADAMS, MASS.

TELEPHONES:

Office, 156-2

Residence, 398-15

The Monarch Typewriter Company
12 Milk Street, Boston, Mass.

Executive Offices: The Monarch Typewriter Bldg.,
310 Broadway, New York, N.Y.

Compliments of
Shattuck & Jones

LOWNEY'S CHOCOLATES

We grind our own chocolate and know how choice the materials are that give LOWNEY'S CHOCOLATES that delicious NATURAL flavor. All the Lowney Chocolate products and Lowney's Cook Book are of the same superfine quality.

LOWNEY'S

RETAIL STORE

416 WASHINGTON STREET
NEAR SUMMER

You don't know what fountain drinks are until you know ours.

Compliments

R. H. WHITE COMPANY

Established 1853

In the beginning a "Microcosm" on Hanover Street.

Now a mammoth establishment of 65 separate stores under one roof,
504 to 554 Washington Street.

Marks—The moving finger writes, and having writ Moves on.

A. E. MARTELL COMPANY

Designers and Manufacturers of BUSINESS SYSTEMS

... on the ...

Loose Leaf and Manifold Book Plan

159 Devonshire St.

BOSTON, MASS.

BUY DIRECT—SAVE MONEY

MICROCOSM ADVERTISEMENTS

FRESHMAN PHILOSOPHY

It's a very sneaky trick to put
The most important hint
Of the thing you're trying to understand
In such insignificant print.

So I'm willing to read the history
Of the mediaeval age,
But I'll be hanged if I'm going to learn
The notes at the end of the page.

Boston Safe Deposit Bldg.

Stearns Bldg.

WELLS & NEWTON CO.

PLUMBING AND HEATING CONTRACTORS

LARGE CONTRACTS A SPECIALTY

Boston Office, 183 Essex St.

Boston Buildings Equipped by Us

Board of Trade
Old South Bldg.
Essex Hotel
Riverbank Court
Beacon Bldg.
Easton Bldg.
Lenox Hotel
Paddock Bldg.
Converse Bldg.
Barrister's Hall
Compton Trust Bldg.
Simmons College Dormitory
Puritan Hotel
R. H. Stearns Store

Symphony Hall
Delta Bldg.
Journal Bldg.
Oliver Bldg.
India Bldg.
Massachusetts Bldg.
Hemenway Chambers
Technology Chambers
Merchants' Bldg.
Majestic Theatre
Post Office Square Bldg.
Lawrence Bldg.
Haynes Bldg.
Old Colony Trust Bldg.

John Hancock Annex
Bradley Bldg.
Simmons College
Harvard Union
Commonwealth Hotel
Stillman Infirmary
New England Trust Bldg.
Houghton & Dutton Store
Walker Bldg.
Employers' Liability Bldg.
Gaiety Theatre
Houghton & Dutton Annex
Nurses' Home Newport Hospital
Boston Safe Deposit & Trust Co. Bldg.

Compliments of BOSTON COAL COMPANY

Dealers in

ANTHRACITE and BITUMINOUS COAL

94 Milk Street

Boston, Mass.

Compliments of a Friend

A. J. Wilkinson & Co.

180 to 188 Washington St., Boston

DEALERS IN

HARDWARE
T O O L S
C U T L E R Y

ALSO

Supplies for Brass Candle Shade Work

MICROCOSM ADVERTISEMENTS

D. B. UPDIKE, THE MERRYMOUNT
PRESS, 232 SUMMER ST., BOSTON

THE MERRYMOUNT PRESS
SUPPLIES PRINTING
TO HARVARD UNIVERSITY
SIMMONS COLLEGE
YALE UNIVERSITY PRESS
COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY
BROWN UNIVERSITY
ST. MARK'S SCHOOL
GROTON SCHOOL
CARNEGIE FOUNDATION FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF TEACHING
AND TO MANY OTHER
INSTITUTIONS OF LEARNING

Dr. and Mrs. Hanford—And both were young, and one was beautiful.

Compliments of Independent Ice Co.

Invest $3.50 to Save 70 Dollars a Year

WITH THE

H. S. Automatic Pencil Sharpener

2 Extra Knives Free

When these are dull 3 Sharp Knives may be had for 50 cents. Put in your Pencil—Then let go of it—Don't hold the pencil. Turn the Handle rapidly 'til chips stop flying. Not a needle point which breaks off at first touch to the paper—but a "working" point.

Manufactured
..... by Automatic Pencil Sharpener Co., Inc., N.Y. City

A. D. MACLACHLAN

FINE STATIONERY AND NOVELTIES

502 BOYSTON ST., BOSTON, MASS.

Q. What Constitutes a Good Milk?

- A. Clean, healthy cows, tuberculin tested.
- A. Clean, well lighted, well ventilated cow stables.
- A. Milk quickly cooled to 50 degrees F.
- A. A bacterial count below 100,000 bacteria per c. c.

These requirements are fulfilled in the milk offered by us at ten cents per quart.

D. Whiting & Sons

Boston

TELEPHONE : 245 CHARLESTOWN

NO LIBRARY COMPLETE WITHOUT AN
UNDERWOOD STANDARD TYPEWRITER

"The Machine YOU will EVENTUALLY BUY"

THE UNDERWOOD TYPEWRITER CO. (Incorporated)
214 Devonshire Street, Boston

Themes—Though old the thought and oft exprest,
'Tis his at last who says it best.

Compliments of
The Alden Speare's Sons Company
369 Atlantic Avenue, Boston

MICROCOSM ADVERTISEMENTS

METROPOLITAN COAL COMPANY

COAL

GENERAL OFFICES: 30 Congress Street, cor. Exchange Place

BOSTON - MASS.

BRANCH OFFICES:

144 Charles Street
15 Berkeley Street
126 Boylston Street, Jamaica Plain
78 Warren Street, Roxbury 70 Cottage Street, Dorchester
Broadway, Everett
Morss Avenue, cor. Washington, Brookline
Broadway, cor. Dorchester Street, So. Boston

WHARVES:

228 Causeway Street
Swett Street, cor. Massachusetts Avenue
Winnisimmet Street, Chelsea
Bridge Street, East Cambridge
Congress Street, South Boston
30 Dorchester Avenue, South Boston
256 A. Street, South Boston

Cobb, Bates & Perry Co.

Are thoroughly equipped to supply Colleges, Schools, Institutions and all large users of the best quality of groceries from their wholesale store at

222 SUMMER STREET

(OPP. SOUTH STATION)

LEWANDOS
Americas Greatest Cleansers Dyers Launderers

BOSTON SHOPS

284 Boylston Street
17 Temple Place

TELEPHONES

3900 Back Bay
555 Oxford

New York
Philadelphia
Washington
Providence
Newport
Albany
Hartford
New Haven
Bridgeport
Springfield
Worcester
Lynn
Salem
Cambridge
South Boston
Watertown

Us—With just enough of learning to misquote.
9.00 A.M. When the bell rings—And there was mounting in hot haste.

Telephone 3899-3 Back Bay

Ames & Ginty

GINTY ROOFING SHIELDS SHEET METAL WORK
ROOFING

Cutters Conductors Ventilators Skylights Stoves Heaters
Chimney Caps Automobile Tanks Drip Pans and Guards

Fenway Station, Back Bay

Boston, Mass.

JOHN ANDREW GINTY

Now, there are many stores, but only

ONE HATCH'S

Silks, Crepes and Pongees from Japan and China. Japanese Hand-drawn Linens. Waists and Kimonas made from our Imported Materials. Rugs, China and Bric-a-brac from the Orient. And we have the low price habit.
May we serve you?

Walter M. Hatch & Co.

45 and 47 Summer Street

JUST

PUBLISHED

Is The Best Too Good
For You?

COVER TO COVER

NEW
FROM

WEBSTER'S NEW INTERNATIONAL DICTIONARY

Some of the Men Who Made It.

Dr. W. T. HARRIS former U. S. Com.
of EDUCATION. Prof. KITTREDGE and Prof. SHIELDON of HAR-VARD. Pres. HADLEY of YALE.
Mr. RUSSELL STURGIS.
Prof. TODD of AMHERST.
Prof. NICHOLS of CORNELL.

2700 PAGES, every line of which has been revised and reset. (400 pages in excess of old International and yet the new book is practically the same size and weight.)

400,000 Words and Phrases Defined.
Less than half this number in the old International.

DIVIDED PAGE :
IMPORTANT WORDS ABOVE
less important below.

SYNONYMS more skillfully treated than in any other work.
ENCYCLOPEDIA INFORMATION on thousands of Subjects.
GAZETTEER and BIOGRAPHICAL
DICTIONARY up to date.
GOOD ILLUSTRATIONS,
each selected for the clear explication of the term treated. THE MECHANICAL WORK is a triumph of the bookmakers' art.

The NEW INTERNATIONAL contains more information of interest to more people than any other DICTIONARY.

GET THE BEST in SCHOLARSHIP, CONVENIENCE, AUTHORITY, UTILITY.

WRITE for Specimen Pages and see the new Divided-Page arrangement, Illustrations, Etc., and read what eminent authorities say of the NEW INTERNATIONAL. You will do us a favor to mention this magazine.

G. & C. MERRIAM CO., Publishers, SPRINGFIELD, MASS., U. S. A.

The BEST of EVERYTHING in MEATS, POULTRY and DAIRY PRODUCTS

Our BEEF is from heavy, corn fed cattle,

Our LAMB the choicest the market affords,

Our POULTRY and EGGS come direct from the farm to us,

Our PRICES as reasonable as possible consistent with first class goods.

WESTON-THURSTON COMPANY

STALLS 20, 22 and 24 NEW FANEUIL HALL MARKET

Long Distance Telephone

BOSTON, MASS.

Book, Job and Mercantile Printing of All Kinds

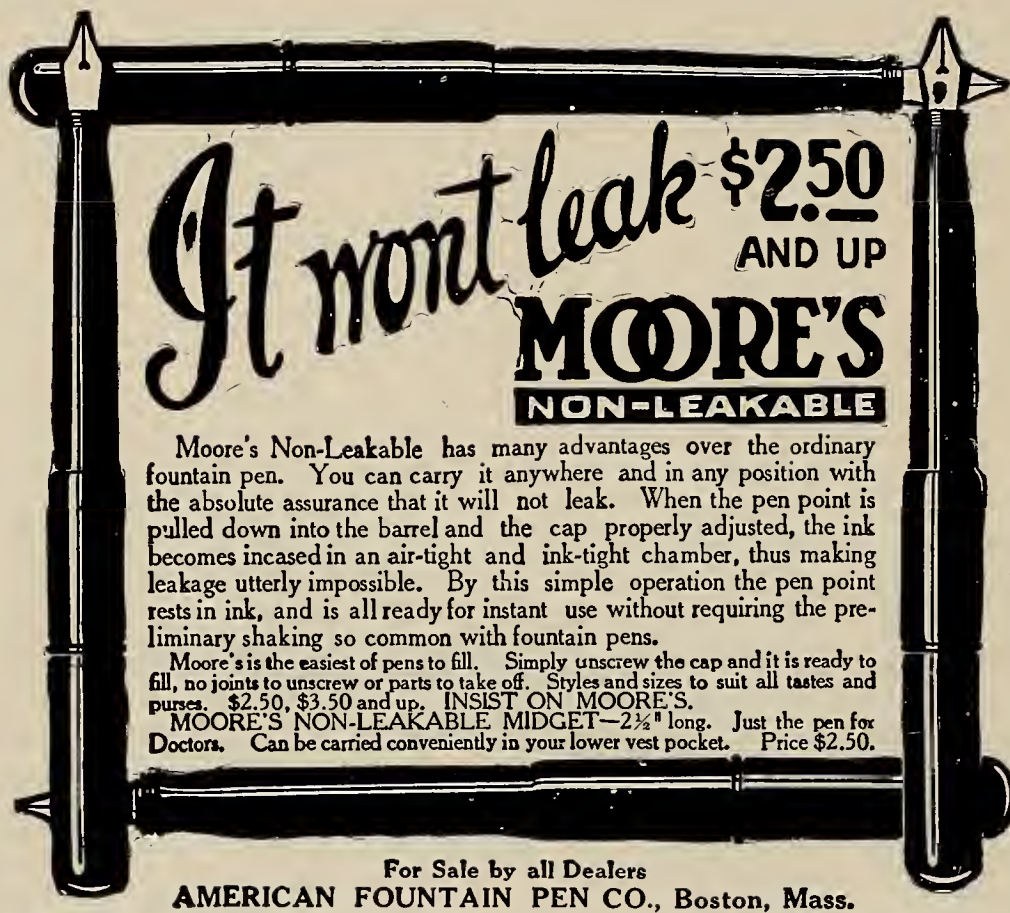

WILLIAM B. LIBBY

...Printer...

Monotype Book Composition

227 Tremont St., Boston, Mass.

Telephone Oxford 2668-1

It won't leak $2.50
AND UP
MOORE'S
NON-LEAKABLE

Moore's Non-Leakable has many advantages over the ordinary fountain pen. You can carry it anywhere and in any position with the absolute assurance that it will not leak. When the pen point is pulled down into the barrel and the cap properly adjusted, the ink becomes incased in an air-tight and ink-tight chamber, thus making leakage utterly impossible. By this simple operation the pen point rests in ink, and is all ready for instant use without requiring the preliminary shaking so common with fountain pens.

Moore's is the easiest of pens to fill. Simply unscrew the cap and it is ready to fill, no joints to unscrew or parts to take off. Styles and sizes to suit all tastes and purses. $2.50, $3.50 and up. INSIST ON MOORE'S.

MOORE'S NON-LEAKABLE MIDGET—2½" long. Just the pen for Doctors. Can be carried conveniently in your lower vest pocket. Price $2.50.

For Sale by all Dealers
AMERICAN FOUNTAIN PEN CO., Boston, Mass.

Editors of the Microcosm—

Fire in each eye, and papers in each hand
They rage, recite, and madden round the land.

Before the Ethics Exam.—“Wretched, un-idea'd girls!”

A moral to be considered by our professors—“A man ought to read just as inclination leads him; for what he reads as a task will do him little good.—Sam Johnson.

1910—Towering in the confidence of twenty-one.

——Gloomy calm of idle vacancy.

?—A mighty hunter and his prey was man.

The Seniors, June 16—Dogs, ye have had your day.

Class meeting—No season now for calm, familiar talks.

Office after Mid-years—And not a man appears to tell their fate.

To Chapel—All, soon or late, are doom'd that path to tread.

EYEGASSES. SPECTACLES, OPERA
GLASSES, LORGNETTES, CAMERAS,
TRIPODS, DEVELOPING ३ ३ ३ ३ ३

Printing and Enlarging of films or plates for Amateurs a specialty. We are headquarters for the Boston Fountain Pen, the only satisfactory safety pen on the market. Our prescription service for eyeglasses and spectacles as prescribed by oculists is unsurpassed in the country.

Ask for Student Discount Card

Pinkham & Smith Company

TWO STORES { 288-290 Boylston St. } BOSTON, { 13½ Bromfield St. } MASS.

Telephone 1819-2 Cambridge

Residence 11 553-4 Somerville

PATTERSON & FOX

1287 Cambridge St., Cambridge, Mass.

Carpenters, Builders

— AND —

General Contractors

Special Attention Given to all Jobbing, Office Partitions and Fixtures and Residences.

Best Work Guaranteed

MICROCOSM ADVERTISEMENTS

TELEPHONE 425 MAIN

ARTHUR E. PERKINS

14 FEDERAL ST., BOSTON

REPRESENTING W. M. L. MCADAMS, MANUFACTURING STATIONER

Advice to Freshmen—

Beware of desperate steps! The darkest day,
Live till tomorrow will have passed away.

Blessed is he who expects nothing, for he shall never be disappointed.—So say we all of us.

Dr. Dewing—He could distinguish and divide

She Disliked DUSTING

She disliked it until she got a HOWARD DUSTLESS DUSTER and then she "didn't mind it a bit" because every article of furniture could be wiped specklessly clean in no time, and not a particle of dust was set afloat in the air to settle somewhere else.

25c

Her Dustless Duster holds the dust as soon as it touches it. Wouldn't you like a duster like this? You can get a full size duster by mail for 25c or a small sample free. There's "No Oil to Soil."

HOWARD DUSTLESS-DUSTER CO.

164H Federal Street, Boston, Mass.

Name

Town

State

HOWARD

Reg. U.S. Patent Office

If you want FREE a free sam- SAMPLE ple of the wonderful Dustless Duster (small size) fill out the above coupon and mail it today.

MEXICAN INDIAN BLANKETS

The newest thing for your College Room, Den, Library or Music Room; for Canoes, Rugs, Couch Covers, Portieres and Wall Decorations.

Gorgeous Color Effects!
Beautiful Designs!

Select your favorite background color:

Crimson, Blue, Red, Green, White, Black.

7ft. 8in. x 3ft. 10in.	$ 5.00
6ft. 8in. x 3ft. 4in.	3.50
5ft. 4in. x 2ft. 8in.	2.50
The set of three (one of each size) for	10.00

SILK SCARFS

The MOST BEAUTIFUL Mexican Hand Drawn Head Scarf!
Made of finest pure silks!

COLORS—White, Blue, Cream, Red, Black, or any special color desired.

The ONLY PROPER THING for Theatre, Opera, Dance or any Evening Wear.

Price $10.00

Sent anywhere, Carriage prepaid, on Receipt of Price.

Order today. Money back if you want it

MEXICAN BLANKET CO.
Aguascalientes, Mexico

MICROCOSM ADVERTISEMENTS

HARRY R. MARSHALL, President

H. NEWTON MARSHALL, Treas. and Mgr.

H. NEWTON MARSHALL COMPANY

[FORMERLY CUTLER-MARSHALL COMPANY]

Members of Master Builders Association

Painting Contractors

Workshop and Warehouse
54 Charles St., Boston

Telephones 4705 and 5211 Main

166 DEVONSHIRE STREET, BOSTON

Prominent School and College Buildings Painted by this Company

Harvard University	Tufts College	Mt. Pleasant School
New Medical Schools	Pres. Hamilton's Res.	Washington, D. C.
New Law School	Prof. Lewis's Res.	High School
Robinson Hall	Prof. Cushman's Res.	Malden, Mass.
Emerson Hall	Prof. Knight's Res.	Jefferson School
Delta Phi Club	Prof. Tousey's Res.	Boston, Mass.
Zeta Psi Club	Delta Tau Delta Club	Lane-Johnson School
Williams College	Delta Upsilon Club	Washington, D. C.
Chi Psi Club	Dartmouth College	Plunkett School
Syracuse University	Tuck Hall	Pittsfield, Mass.
New Gymnasium	Webster Hall	St. Mary's School
Princeton University	Dormitory '05	Melrose, Mass.
Campbell Hall	Andover Academy	Mrs. Sargent's School
St. Lawrence University	Gymnasium	Gymnasium
Canton, N. Y.	Exeter Academy	Matteawan, N. Y.
Science Building	Dunbar Hall	High School
Simmons College	Normal and Latin Schools	Rockland, Mass.
Main Building	Fenway, Boston	Seventh Ward School
West Wing		Malden, Mass.

FOR twenty years the systematic cleaning of residences, stores and offices has been our business.

Estimates cheerfully furnished for floor cleaning and oiling, window and paint cleaning.

Carpet Cleaning
Vacuum Cleaning

The Buildings Care Co.
128 Bedford Street Boston
Tel. Oxford 104

THE
LOMBARD BLOUSE
FOR COLLEGE GIRLS

Made in Serge Flannel
and Wash
Materials

We Have No Agents
—
Send for Illustrated Booklet

HENRY S. LOMBARD
YACHTING UNIFORMS
22-26 Merchants Row, Boston, Mass.

MICROCOSM ADVERTISEMENTS

"A very merry, dancing, drinking, laughing, quaffing, unthinking time."—Summer Vacation.

Ethics Class—He that complies against his will
Is of his own opinion still.

The Athena Pattern.
French China.

Potteries and Glass Factories of England, France, Germany, Austria, China, Japan and America. Patrons will find extensive exhibits in

Dinner Set Department
Glassware Department
Stock Pattern Department

Crockery, China and Glassware

The newest shapes and decorations of
TABLE WARE and ORNAMENTAL
PIECES constantly arriving from the best

Art Pottery Rooms
Lamp Department
Hotel and Club Department

In our KITCHENWARE DEPARTMENT is an extensive variety of Souffle Dishes, Egg Poachers, Cafetierers, Casseroles, Cocottes, Shirred Egg Dishes, etc., in French Porcelain and other wares. Also plain and decorated wares for kitchen and pantry. The Blue Willow pattern in full assortment. Yellow Mixing Bowls and Nappies, Blanc Mange Moulds, Blue Edge Pie Plates, etc.

Students' Requisites

Lamps, Tea Sets, Chocolate Pots and Sets, Candlesticks, Welsh Rarebit Plates, Jardinières, Ferneries, Bureau Sets, Bon Bon Dishes, Plates of all kinds, odd Pitchers in endless variety, as well as Bric-a-Brac suitable for complimentary and wedding gifts. Glassware of all grades. Inspection invited.

Jones, McDuffee & Stratton Co.

China and Glass Merchants

33 Franklin. cor. Hawley Streets

Near Washington and Summer Streets

EIMER & AMEND

205-211 Third Ave., NEW YORK

HEADQUARTERS FOR

Chemical Apparatus and C. H. Chemicals

Laboratory Glass Ware
Balances and Weights
Hammered Platinum Ware
Fuel & Gas Testing Apparatus
Assay Goods, Furnaces, etc.

Complete Laboratory Equipment

Kuyler's

DELICIOUS
CHOCOLATES, BONBONS
ICE CREAM SODA and COLLEGE ICES

146 Tremont St., 414 Boylston St.
139 Summer St.
BOSTON - MASS.

Compliments of a Friend

The Young Bride's Ally

Culinary inexperience is a formidable handicap to the young bride who has started out to make her husband comfortable and keep him happy. At this critical period blessed is she who can cook.

Only when preparing dessert is the housewife with no experience in cooking on the same footing as her more accomplished sister. Both using serve the same delicious desserts, their preparation requiring no greater skill than the ability to "boil water."

JELL-O

They can be made in a minute.

Nothing short of magic could produce dishes so delightful and so beautiful from any other material.

They are so good that they cover up very agreeably the deficiencies of any dinner.

Highest award Gold Medals received at the St. Louis, Portland and Jamestown Expositions are tokens of practical recognition of the superior qualities of JELL-O, but the best evidence is the approval of the millions of American housewives who serve JELL-O desserts.

JELL-O costs 10c. at all grocers.

Illustrated Recipe Book free.

The Genesee Pure Food Co., Le Roy, N. Y. and Bridgeburg, Canada.

376.8

SU

1910 cop. 3

JAN 22 60

NOT FOR CIRCULATION

