TROPHY: Canadian Mixed Championship Trophy

COMPETITION: Fourteen teams (10 provinces plus Northern Ontario, Northwest Territories, Nunavut and Yukon) have been seeded and separated into two pools of seven teams each (see below). They first play a round robin within their pool, beginning Sunday evening, November 3.

At the conclusion of the round robin on Wednesday, the top four teams in each pool advance to the Championship Round, carrying forward their full win-loss records. The teams then play each of the four teams from the opposite pool.

Meanwhile, the bottom three teams in each pool advance to the Seeding Round, where they will compete against the three teams from the opposite pool. Teams will carry forward their full win-loss records. Their final win-loss records determine seeding for next year's event.

At the conclusion of the Championship Round on Friday, two semifinals will take place on Saturday morning at 9:30 a.m., pitting 1 vs 4 and 2 vs 3. The two winners advance to the gold-medal final Saturday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. while the two losing teams meet in the bronze-medal game at the same time.

All games throughout the competition are scheduled for eight ends. All round robin and playoff games at the Canadian Championship shall be a minimum of seven (7) ends or a deficit of seven (7) points or more after 6 ends at which time a team may concede.

Also, no tiebreaker games will be played in either round. Instead, any ties for position will be determined first by head-to-head results, then by accumulated Draw Shot results if an unsolvable tie.

Stone Selection, Practice & Last Stone Advantage – Round Robin

The team throwing red-handled stones will be listed on top of the scoreboard and have first practice.

During the round robin portions of the 2020 Mixed, each team will be assigned both colour of stones equally or +/-1 if an odd number of games are played. The first named team on the draw will deliver red-handled stones and will have pre-game practice for exactly nine (9) minutes, commencing thirty (30) minutes prior to the start of the round robin draw. The team throwing yellow-handled stones will have the same period of practice starting immediately following the red stone draw to the button for last stone advantage.

Last stone advantage in the first end (hammer) will be decided by draws to the button following each team's pre-game practice. At the completion of the nine-minute pre-game practice, two different players from the team will each throw a stone (full sweeping allowed): one clockwise and one counter-clockwise. The better distance of the total of the two draws between the two teams will receive last stone advantage in the first end. During the pool play of the 2020 Mixed, each player on each team will deliver a minimum of two (2) draw shots for last stone advantage. The two (2) draw shots can be taken anytime during the round robin. The draw to the button shall be played towards the home end. During the championship round and seeding round, any two players can deliver the draws to the button for hammer.

In playoff games, last stone advantage and choice of stone handle colour shall be awarded to the team with the best overall win-loss record during the round robin. If the win-loss records are identical, the higher ranked team will have the choice of last stone advantage OR stone handle colour. The team delivering the last stone in the first end will practice first. A team is only allowed to throw its own stones during practice.

Sportsmanship Awards, selected by the players, will be presented to a male and female curler who best combine the ideals of sportsmanship, observance of rules and exemplary conduct on and off the ice.

The winning team will represent Canada at the 2020 World Mixed Curling Championship (dates, location TBA by World Curling Federation).

From 2008-2012, two players from the winning Canadian Mixed team represented Canada at the World Mixed Doubles.

In 2013, the inaugural Canadian Mixed Doubles Trials were contested in Leduc, Alberta, March 13-17, to determine Canada's team for the World Mixed Doubles, which were held April 13-20 in Fredericton, N.B. The four members (two two-person teams) of the 2013 Canadian Mixed champions earned invitations to the 2013 Canadian Mixed Doubles Trials. In 2014, the Mixed winning team was again awarded berths (two two-person teams) into the 2014 Canadian Mixed Doubles Trials in Ottawa.

However, since 2015, winning teams at Canadian Mixed have represented Canada at the World Mixed Curling Championship.

MANITOBA (Colin Kurz of Winnipeg) defeated NOVA SCOTIA (Kendal Thompson of Halifax), 7-4 to win the 2019 Canadian Mixed Curling Championship at Winnipeg.

It was the first Canadian Mixed title for skip Colin Kurz, vice-skip Meghan Walter, second Brendan Bilawka and lead Sara Oliver. It was also the ninth Canadian Mixed Championship title for Manitoba since 1964, but first since 2009, when Sean Grassie won in Iqaluit, Nunavut.

The winning team represented Canada in the 2019 World Mixed Curling Championship, Oct. 12-19 at Aberdeen, Scotland. Canada finished Group A with an undefeated record and claimed the top seed in the 16-team playoffs. Kurz and his team from the Assiniboine Memorial Curling Club in Winnipeg won all four of their playoff games, capping it off with a 6-5 win against Germany's Andy Kapp in the final. With the win, Canada became the first nation to win back-to-back gold medals at the event.

2019 Canadian Mixed Most Valuable Players

Newfoundland & Labrador skip Harold Walters and Ontario vice-skip Kim Tuck were named 2019 Canadian Mixed Most Valuable Players.

The men's and women's MVP awards were decided by event umpires based on leadership, attitude, team spirit, skill and performance.

2019 Canadian Mixed Sportsmanship Awards

Nova Scotia vice-skip Marie Christianson, Nova Scotia lead Karlee Jones, Northern Manitoba second Mike McCarville and Northern Ontario skip Trevor Bonot received the 2019 Canadian Mixed Sportsmanship Awards, recognizing the ideals of sportsmanship and ability, as voted by players.

Manitoba wins Canadian Mixed title in front of hometown crowd

Manitoba's Colin Kurz and his team from the Assiniboine Memorial Curling Club scored early and protected its lead to win the 2019 Canadian Mixed Curling Championship. The 21-year-old skip bested Nova Scotia's Kendal Thompson (Mayflower Curling Club) 7-4 in the final.

Kurz secured the victory in the eighth end with a high-weight shot to remove Nova Scotia's shot stone. While the shooter didn't stick around, Manitoba scored two and picked up the win in front of friends and family at the Fort Rouge Curling Club in Winnipeg.

With the win, the young team becomes the first to win the Canadian Mixed title in their home province since Dean Ross of Alberta did so in 2008. Kurz, third Megan Walter, second Brendan Bilawka and lead Sara Oliver won eight of their last nine games to win the championship.

"After the first round it seemed that every time we were needing to win a game, we'd win that game. And whether it was a pretty win or kind of a grind we still managed to pull it out," said Kurz. "So I think after a couple of those extra end or last rock wins that maybe the home crowd was helping us out."

The crowd was certainly on their side during the final game. While Manitoba missed its opportunity for a deuce in the opening end they contained Nova Scotia to a single in the second. In the second, a Manitoba double to sit three forced Thompson to draw for a piece of the button to score one. In the third, Manitoba played a draw to the four-foot with backing for a point and 2-1 lead. Kurz and his team increased their lead in the fourth end. Nova Scotia needed to hit and stick for one, but Thompson's toss was wide. While it removed one Manitoban stone the shooter rolled out of the house, resulting in a steal of two and 4-1 lead for Manitoba halfway through the game.

"It would have been nicer if I made a couple of more shots, but it worked out in the end. I was a little frustrated in the first four ends. I couldn't seem to finish off ends. You try to look at it as just another game, but obviously it's not just another game, it's a national final so nerves do end up coming to you little bit," Kurz said.

Thompson started the second half of the game well and cut into the lead to trail 5-3 over the following two ends. He slipped his takeout shot by some traffic to score two in the fifth and forced Kurz to make a draw to the button for one in the sixth.

"At that point I was kind of feeling confident with the way I was throwing the rock," Kurz said. Nova Scotia missed out on an opportunity to even the score in the seventh. Kurz missed his final shot, a double attempt, and left Nova Scotia with a draw for two. However Thompson's shot was light, and Nova Scotia settled for one. It also gifted Manitoba a one-point lead with hammer heading into the last end.

Kurz credits his teammates for playing a big part in winning the event. Walter, at age 16, is the youngest athlete in the field at the 2019 Mixed Championship. Bilawka, along with Kurz, represented Manitoba at the 2018 New Holland Canadian Junior Curling Championship and won bronze with JT Ryan at skip. The pair also won the 2015 Canada Games. Oliver has also been the national junior championships twice and earned first-team all star honours on both occasions. But this will be the first time any of them have worn the Maple Leaf on their back.

“I was left with, for the most part, pretty easy shots,” Kurz said. “They just put me in the best position they could have.”

The team will represent Canada at the 2019 World Mixed Curling Championship (location and dates are to be announced by the World Curling Federation).

Kurz follows in his mom’s footsteps. Lynn Fallis-Kurz won the Canadian Mixed championship in 1988 and 1991 with Jeff Stoughton.

In the bronze medal game Quebec’s Félix Asselin and his team from the Glenmore, Laval-sur-le-Lac and Baie d’Urfé Curling Clubs defeated Ontario’s Wayne Tuck of the Ilderton Curling Club 7-6 in an extra end.

It is Manitoba’s ninth Canadian Mixed gold medal; previously, Sean Grassie won in 2009 at Iqaluit, Nunavut; Jeff Stoughton won in 1991 and 1988 in Thunder Bay, Ont., and North Bay, Ont., respectively; in 1980 Jim Dunstone won the championship in St. John’s, N.L.; Harold Tanasichuk won in 1977 at Halifax; Barry Fry was victorious at Charlottetown in 1973; and Ernie Boushy won two titles in Toronto – in 1966 and the inaugural championship in 1964.

ONTARIO (Mike Anderson of Thornhill) defeated QUEBEC (Robert Desjardins of Chicoutimi), 7-3 to win the 2018 Canadian Mixed Curling Championship at Swan River, M.B.

It was the first Canadian Mixed title for skip Mike Anderson, third Danielle Inglis, second Sean Harrison and lead Lauren Harrison. It was also the fourth Canadian Mixed Championship title for Ontario since 1964, but first since 2013, when Cory Heggstad won in Mount Royal, Que.

The winning team represented Canada in the 2018 World Mixed Curling Championship, Oct. 13-20 at Kelowna, B.C. Canada was tied with Norway for the best record in Group D, but Canada's 6-1 record finished second by virtue of it's head-to-head record.

Anderson and his Thornhill Curling Club team won all four playoff games (including a rematch against Norway in the semifinal) to earn Canada gold for the first time in the event's history. Team Canada capped its historic run with a 6-2 victory against Spain's Sergio Vez in seven ends.

Team Ontario captures gold in Swan River

Nov. 18...Ontario's Mike Anderson and his team from Thornhill stole its way to victory Saturday in the championship game of the 2018 Canadian Mixed Curling Championship, presented by Westman Communications Group.

Anderson, playing alongside vice-skip Danielle Inglis, second Sean Harrison and lead Lauren Harrison, stole a go-ahead point in the seventh end and three more in the eighth and final end for a 7-3 win over previously undefeated Robert Desjardins of Quebec.

SEEDING POOL		Games	Wins	Losses
1	Saskatchewan (Korte)	9	6	3
2	British Columbia (Buchy)	9	4	5
3	Manitoba (Dunstone)	9	3	6
4	Yukon (Smallwood)	9	2	7
5	Prince Edward Island (Watts)	9	2	7
6	Nunavut (MacDonald)	9	0	9

Desjardins, a former Canadian Mixed Doubles champion, was left only with a nearly impossible triple takeout with his final shot, but was unsuccessful, leaving three Ontario counters for the victory.

“Awesome would be the first word. Proud would be the second, probably,” said Anderson when asked to describe the feeling of winning a Canadian title. “It’s starting to set in; when we were reading the names of the people who’ve won the trophy in the past, and now to be considered in that class, and nobody can ever take that away from us; it’s pretty special.”

Quebec, which had won 11 consecutive games, couldn’t have asked for a better start, opening the gold-medal game with two points, and took a 3-1 lead after four ends.

But Ontario was able to keep Quebec from its defensive strategy in the final four ends of the game. Ontario blanked the fifth end, and tied the game with a sixth-end deuce. And when Desjardins tried to generate offence in the seventh end instead of going for a blank to take the last-rock advantage into the final end, Ontario made him pay with a series of wonderful shots that left a rock in the four-foot behind protection. Desjardins attempted draw-shot for a single was heavy, and Ontario had its first lead with the stolen point.

And in the eighth, Ontario took advantage of a series of Quebec missed shots to leave Desjardins (his Chicoutimi team was rounded out by vice-skip Amélie Blais, second Thierry Fournier and lead Véronique Bouchard) with the difficult shot at the end.

“When we got to vice-skip rocks in the eighth end, we said, ‘We’ve played three perfect ends. Let’s not outsmart ourselves. Just keep doing what we’re doing,’ ” said Anderson, a 32-year-old management consultant. “They (Quebec) kept it so open all week, but we knew we would get a couple opportunities and it was just going to be a matter of taking them when we got them. I was really proud of the team for sticking with it and staying positive.”

Both Anderson and Inglis have worn the Maple Leaf internationally; both were playing for Team Canada at the 2009 Winter Universiade in Harbin, China, where Anderson skipped Canada to a fifth-place finish, while Inglis won silver throwing third rocks for Hollie Nicol’s team. A year earlier, both had won Canadian university championships representing Wilfrid Laurier University.

And while the husband-and-wife front end of Sean and Lauren Harrison haven’t played internationally, Sean has some family history in that department. His dad, the late Neil Harrison, won two Brier and two world men’s championships playing lead for Ed Werenich’s renowned Ontario team.

The Anderson team will get its chance on the world stage at the 2018 World Mixed Championship next fall (location, dates TBA by the World Curling Federation).

“It’s unbelievable. I can’t wait to get (the Team Canada uniform) back,” said Anderson. “I was in awe the first time, and I feel like Danielle and I will be better prepared this time. You know you’re going to be the No. 1 target when you go anywhere and you’re wearing the Maple Leaf. We accept that and can’t wait to get started with it.”

In the bronze-medal game, Newfoundland/Labrador’s Chris Ford and his St. John’s team — third Brooke Godsland, second Zach Young and lead Kate Murphy — stole a crucial deuce in the fifth end, which made the difference in a 6-3 win over New Brunswick’s Charlie Sullivan.

It was Ontario’s fourth Canadian Mixed gold medal; previously, Cory Heggestad won in 2013 at Mount Royal, Que.; John Epping won in 2006 at Whitehorse; and in 1986 at Kamloops, B.C., it was Dave Van Dine coming out on top.

NORTHERN ONTARIO (Trevor Bonot of Thunder Bay) defeated MANITOBA (Braden Calvert of Gimli), 5-2 to win the 2017 Canadian Mixed Curling Championship at Yarmouth, N.S.

It was the first Canadian Mixed title for skip Trevor Bonot, third Jackie McCormick, second Kory Carr and lead Megan Carr. It was also the fourth Canadian Mixed Championship title for Northern Ontario since 1964, but first since 1997, when Chris Johnson won in Kindersley, Sask.

The winning team represented Canada in the 2017 World Mixed Curling Championship, October 6-14 at Champéry, Switzerland. After winning Group E (one of five groups) with a 6-0 mark, Bonot and his Port Arthur Curling Club team proceeded to win its next three playoff games to advance undefeated to the final against Scotland. However, Canada had to settle for a silver medal, but its first ever at this championship, dropping an extra end decision, 8-5 to Scotland (Grant Hardie), to finish with an overall record of 9-1.

ALBERTA (Mick Lizmore of Edmonton) defeated SASKATCHEWAN (Bruce Korte of Saskatoon), 4-2 to win the 2016 Canadian Mixed Curling Championship in Toronto.

It was the first Canadian Mixed title for skip Mick Lizmore, third Sarah Wilkes, second Brad Thiessen and lead Alison Kotylak. It was also a leading 11th Canadian Mixed Championship title for Alberta since 1964, one more than Saskatchewan. Alberta finished the competition unbeaten with an overall record of 12-0, just the fifth team to do so since 1964. The others were Alberta (10-0 in 1965), Saskatchewan (10-0 in 1968), Alberta (10-0 in 1969) and Saskatchewan (12-0 in 1984).

The winning team represented Canada in the 2016 World Mixed Curling Championship, October 14-22 at Kazan, Russia. After winning Group D, one of five groups in the competition, with a 7-0 mark, then beating Czech Republic in the round of 16, Canada lost its quarter-final match to Scotland, 6-5 and was eliminated from medal contention. Host Russia eventually won the event over Sweden.

Beginning with the 2005 renewal, the Mixed playoff format was changed from the Page System to one whereby the first place finisher advanced directly to the final, while the second and third place teams met in a semifinal.

However, that format was revised beginning with the 2015 edition, with the top four teams in the Championship Pool qualifying for the semifinals - 1 vs 4 and 2 vs 3 – with the winners playing in the gold medal game, the losers in the bronze medal game.

It was also a record-tying (along with Alberta) 10th Canadian Mixed Championship title for Saskatchewan since 1964, but first since the 2012 edition (played in November of 2011), when Jason Ackerman of Regina won.

Saskatchewan finished with an overall record of 8-1.

The winning team represented Canada at the 2015 World Mixed Championship in Berne, Switzerland, September 12-19. The team posted a 6-2 mark in Pool B (there were four Pools), good enough for third place within its Pool, then won a crossover playoff game over Italy. However, Canada was eliminated by Russia in the quarterfinals to finish with an overall record of 7-3.

Saskatchewan claims Canadian Mixed gold

Saskatchewan's Max Kirkpatrick had an answer for Polar Polar on Saturday afternoon at the Granite Club in North Bay, Ont.

Kirkpatrick's team from the Swift Current Curling Club — third Jolene Campbell, second Chris Haichert and lead Teejay Haichert — claimed the gold medal at the 2015 Canadian Mixed Curling Championship with a 7-4 win over Jamie Koe of the Northwest Territories. It ended the Territories' attempt to win a first gold medal in any level at a national curling championship.

For Saskatchewan, it was its 10th gold medal at the Canadian Mixed, tying the province with Alberta for tops in the category.

"Oh, fantastic. Unbelievable, unbelievable," said the 54-year-old grain farmer who calls Cabri, a hamlet 45 minutes northwest of Swift Current, his hometown. "It was just a really well-played game, both teams played really well. My team was playing so well; we kept the pressure on them, but we had to make everything. It was unreal. My team curled fantastic."

Saskatchewan had to withstand some early pressure from Koe's team from Yellowknife (third Kerry Galusha, who is Koe's twin sister, second Robert Borden and lead Megan Cormier). After Saskatchewan took a 3-1 lead with a third-end deuce, Koe made the shot of the championship in the fourth, negotiating a narrow port and hitting into crotch to record a triple takeout and score tying deuce.

But Saskatchewan came back strongly with two more in the fifth, held the Territories to one in the sixth, and put the game away with two in the seventh. Kirkpatrick said following up Koe's stunning shot in the fourth with a deuce in the fifth was crucial for his team.

"If I threw my last shot in the fourth into the boards, he doesn't get a deuce," said Kirkpatrick, whose team reached the final with a 7-4 win over B.C.'s Wes Craig, while the Territories advance with a 7-3 win over Ontario's Chris Gardner. "I kind of put it in the only place I could where he could make the deuce. That was a little unfortunate, but we came right back with the deuce in five, and that was key."

With the win, the Swift Current foursome earns the right to wear Canadian colours at the inaugural World Mixed Championship in next September at a location to be announced by the World Curling Federation.

"It's unbelievable; I can't even fathom that yet," marvelled Kirkpatrick. "There'll be high expectations there, too. Hopefully we can find some ice and get some games in before September. That's actually when I'm harvesting, so I might be getting off my combine and going straight to a world championship."

While Kirkpatrick has never played internationally, all three of his teammates have. Campbell was the alternate on Amber Holland's team that won silver at the 2011 World Women's Championship in Denmark, while the husband-and-wife Haicherts both won gold medals at the 2003 World Junior Championships in Flims, Switzerland. Chris played third for Steve Laycock's men's team, while Teejay (then Teejay Surik) was the third for Marliese Kasner's gold-medal team.

"I'm old enough and I've curled enough that the nerves weren't too bad," said Kirkpatrick, who was making his national championship debut. "But I'm curling with world champions, Brier competitors, Scotties competitors — they're such strong players, and they made my job pretty easy."

In the bronze-medal game, Gardner's team from Ottawa (third Trish Hill, second Jon Beuk and lead Jessica Barcauskas) stole five in the fourth end en route to a 8-2 win over B.C.

ALBERTA (Darren Moulding of Coaldale) defeated defending champion ONTARIO (Cory Heggstad of Orillia), 8-5 to win the 2014 Canadian Mixed Curling Championship in Ottawa.

It was the first Canadian Mixed title for skip Darren Moulding, third Heather Jensen, second Brent Hamilton and lead Anna-Marie Moulding. It was also a record 10th Canadian Mixed Championship title for Alberta, but first since 2008, when Dean Ross of Calgary won. Alberta and Saskatchewan had been tied with nine Mixed wins apiece since the championship began in 1964 in Toronto.

Alberta finished with an overall record of 10-2, after winding up tied for first upon completion of the round robin with a 9-2 mark (tied with Saskatchewan, but placed first for its round robin win over Saskatchewan, thus earning a bye to the final). Ontario qualified for the final by beating New Brunswick, 9-8 in a tiebreaker for third, then defeating Saskatchewan, 6-5 in the semifinal.

The four players from the winning team earned two team (two-person) entries into the 2014 Canadian Mixed Doubles Trials in Ottawa, March 19-23, which determined Canada's representatives for the 2014 World Mixed Doubles Championship, April 22-29 in Dumfries, Scotland.

Beginning with the 2005 renewal, the Mixed playoff format was changed from the Page System to one whereby the first place finisher advances directly to the final, while the second and third place teams meet in a semifinal.

Alberta (Darren Moulding of Coaldale) and Saskatchewan (Shaun Meachem of Swift Current) finished tied for first with 9-2 records. Since Alberta defeated Saskatchewan in the round robin, it was placed first and advanced directly to the final.

Saskatchewan was placed second and advanced to the semifinal to meet third-place finisher Ontario (Cory Heggestad of Orillia), who eliminated New Brunswick (Sylvie Robichaud), 9-8 in a tiebreaker (for third).

Immediately prior to the event (November 14-15), the bottom four provinces/territories from the 2013 championship (Newfoundland/Labrador, Northwest Territories, Nunavut and Yukon) competed in a double knockout to qualify two of them for the national championship. Newfoundland/Labrador and Northwest Territories advanced to the main draw.

ONTARIO (Cory Heggstad of Orillia) defeated NOVA SCOTIA (Brent MacDougall of Halifax), 10-3 to win the 2013 Canadian Mixed Curling Championship in the Town of Mount Royal, Quebec.

It was the first Canadian Mixed title for skip Cory Heggstad, third Heather Graham, second Greg Balsdon and lead Amy Mackay. It was just the third Canadian Mixed Championship for Ontario, as Heggstad joined previous winning skips Dave Van Dine of Ottawa (1986) and John Epping of Oakville (2006). Alberta and Saskatchewan are tied with nine Mixed wins apiece since the championship began in 1964 in Toronto.

Ontario finished with an overall record of 11-2, after winding up second in the round robin with a 9-2 mark (tied with Nova Scotia, but placed second for its round robin loss to Nova Scotia). Ontario qualified for the final by beating third-place finisher Quebec, 9-8 in an extra end semifinal. Meanwhile, Nova Scotia, which had to play in the event pre-qualifier just to make the round robin, advanced directly to the final by finishing first.

The four players from the winning team earned two team (two-person) entries into the inaugural Canadian Mixed Doubles Trials in Leduc, Alberta, March 13-17, which determined Canada's representatives for the 2013 World Mixed Doubles Championship, April 13-20 in Fredericton, New Brunswick.

SASKATCHEWAN (Jason Ackerman of Regina), defeated ALBERTA (Kurt Balderston of Grande Prairie), 8-7 in an extra end to win the 2012 Canadian Mixed Curling Championship in Sudbury. It was the first extra end Mixed final since Nova Scotia's Paul Flemming edged Alberta's Shannon Kleibrink, 12-11 in 2003 in Abbotsford, BC.

It was the first Canadian Mixed title for skip Jason Ackerman, third Chantelle Eberle, second Dean Hicke and lead Colleen Ackerman.

It was also a record-tying ninth Mixed crown for Saskatchewan since the championship began in 1964 in Toronto, but the first since 1996, when won by Regina's Randy Bryden in Charlottetown. Alberta also has nine Mixed wins.

Saskatchewan finished with an overall record of 11-4, after winding up second in the round robin with a 9-4 mark, then advancing to the final by winning the semifinal over New Brunswick. Meanwhile, Alberta had qualified directly for the final by finishing first with an 11-2 mark.

Two players from the winning team – Dean Hicke and Chantelle Eberle - then represented Canada at the 2012 World Mixed Doubles Championship, April 23-29 in Erzurum, Turkey. Canada finished the round robin with an 8-0 mark and first place in Section B, but lost its quarter-final to Sweden and was eliminated from the playoffs, finishing sixth overall.

Alberta (Kurt Balderston of Grande Prairie) finished first with an 11-2 mark to advance directly to the final.

Saskatchewan (Jason Ackerman of Regina) and New Brunswick (Sylvie Robichaud of Moncton) finished tied for second with 9-4 records to advance to the semifinal. Saskatchewan was placed second, though, for its round robin win over New Brunswick.

Fourteen teams, representing the 10 provinces plus separate entries for Northern Ontario, Northwest Territories, Nunavut and Yukon, competed in the round robin, in order to fulfill the Equitable Opportunity to Access Canadian Championships policy adopted at the CCA's 2010 Annual General Meeting.

The bottom four provinces/territories in 2012 will now compete in a double knockout prior to the 2013 Mixed in order to qualify two of them for the national championship, which will thus become a 12-team draw in future.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND (Robert Campbell of Charlottetown), defeated MANITOBA (Terry McNamee of Hamiota), 4-3 to win the 2011 Canadian Mixed Curling Championship in Morris.

It was the second Mixed title for Campbell, who also won the 1989 renewal in Brandon, the last time the event was staged in Manitoba. It's the first Canadian Mixed title, though, for third Rebecca Jean MacPhee, second Robbie Doherty and lead Jackie Reid.

It was also the third Mixed crown for Prince Edward Island since the championship began in 1964 in Toronto. Skip Peter Gallant won in 1987, followed by Campbell in 1989.

Campbell becomes just the seventh skip to win two Canadian Mixed titles. Saskatchewan's Larry McGrath is the only three-time winning skip.

Prince Edward Island finished with an overall record of 11-1, after winning the round robin with a 10-1 mark to earn a bye to the final.

Morris, with a population of under 2,000, is the smallest community to ever host a Canadian curling championship.

Two players from the winning team - Robert Campbell and Rebecca Jean MacDonald (MacPhee) - represented Canada at the 2011 World Mixed Doubles Championship, April 17-23 in St. Paul, Minnesota. Canada finished with a 4-4 record, failing to qualify for the quarterfinals when losing a second tiebreaker to Denmark after eliminating Slovakia.

NOVA SCOTIA (Mark Dacey of Halifax) defeated ONTARIO (Mark Bice of Sarnia), 7-5, to win the 47th edition of the Canadian Mixed Curling Championship at the Burlington Golf and Country Club in Burlington, Ontario. Nova Scotia finished with an overall record of 10-2.

It was the seventh Mixed title for Nova Scotia since the championship began in 1964 in Toronto, but the first since 2003, when skip Paul Flemming won in Abbotsford, British Columbia.

It was the second Mixed title for Dacey, who won in 2002 in Halifax, but the third Mixed crown for his wife, Heather Smith-Dacey, who, in addition to playing third for Dacey this year and in 2002, was also the third for New Brunswick's Grant Odishaw, when winning in 1994 in Leduc, Alberta.

It was the first Mixed title, though, for Nova Scotia second Andrew Gibson and lead Jill Mouzar.

Mark Dacey and Heather Smith-Dacey were supposed to represent Canada at the 2010 World Mixed Doubles Championship, April 16-24 in Chelyabinsk, Russia. However, due to the world-wide cancellation of flights over Europe for a period of time prior to the event due to volcanic ash from Iceland, the Daceys were unable to arrive to compete.

MANITOBA (Sean Grassie of Winnipeg) defeated ONTARIO (Wayne Tuck of Brantford), 6-4, to win the 46th edition of the Canadian Mixed Curling Championship, presented by First Air, at the Arniatok Arena in Iqaluit, Nunavut. Manitoba finished with an overall record of 11-1.

It was the first time that a Canadian sport championship was staged in the territory of Nunavut.

It was the eighth Mixed title for Manitoba since the championship began in 1964 in Toronto. Alberta leads all provinces with nine wins, while Saskatchewan also has eight victories. However, it was the first win for Manitoba since 1991, when skip Jeff Stoughton won in Thunder Bay.

It was the first Canadian Mixed title for skip Sean Grassie, third Alli Nimik, second Ross Derksen and lead Kendra Green, who represented the Deer Lodge Curling Club. Derksen and Green were runners-up at the 2006 Canadian Mixed in Whitehorse, when playing second and lead, respectively, for skip David Hamblin, losing the final to Ontario's John Epping. Derksen is also a former Canadian and world junior champion, having played third for David Hamblin in 2002.

Grassie and Nimik then represented Canada at the 2009 world mixed doubles championship, April 17-25, 2009 in Cortina d'Ampezzo, Italy. After finishing the round robin with an 8-0 mark to lead its group (of three), Canada lost the semifinal, 7-5 to Hungary. However, Canada then defeated China, 6-5, overcoming a 5-0 deficit, to win the bronze medal game and finish with an overall record of 9-1.

Undefeated Switzerland (10-0) won its second consecutive world mixed doubles championship, defeating Hungary, 7-4 in the final.

Beginning with the 2005 renewal, the Mixed playoff format was changed from the Page System to a format whereby the first place finisher advances directly to the final, while the second and third place teams meet in a semifinal.

Manitoba (Sean Grassie of Winnipeg) finished first with a 10-1 record and advanced directly to the final.

Saskatchewan (Darrell McKee of Saskatoon), Ontario (Wayne Tuck of Brantford) and Nova Scotia (Mark Dacey of Halifax) finished tied for second with 8-3 records. Since Saskatchewan had defeated both Ontario and Nova Scotia during the round robin, it was placed second and advanced to the semifinal.

Ontario (Wayne Tuck of Brantford) and Nova Scotia (Mark Dacey of Halifax) met in a tiebreaker to determine the third place finisher, prior to the playoffs.

ALBERTA (Dean Ross of Calgary) defeated ONTARIO (Bob Turcotte of Toronto), 5-4 to win the 45th edition of the Canadian Mixed Curling Championship, held at the Calgary Curling Club in Calgary, Alberta.

It was a leading ninth Mixed title for Alberta, but first since 2004, when won by Calgary's Shannon Kleibrink, who also became the first female to skip a winning Canadian Mixed team.

It was the first Mixed win for skip Dean Ross, second Tim Krassman and lead Susan Wright, but the second Mixed title for third Susan O'Connor, who also played third for Alberta's Kevin Koe in 2000, when winning the Canadian title in Lethbridge. The Ross team represented both the Calgary and North Hill Curling Clubs in Calgary and finished with an overall record of 11-1.

Ross and O'Connor then represented Canada at the first world mixed doubles championship, March 8-15, 2008 in Vierumäki, Finland. After finishing the round robin with a 5-2 mark in its pool (one of three), Canada beat both Hungary and Czech Republic in tiebreakers, before succumbing to Finland, 9-8 in a tiebreaker for the fourth and final playoff spot. Switzerland won the inaugural event, 5-4 over host Finland.

Alberta (Shannon Kleibrink of Calgary) defeats Ontario (Heath McCormick of Cannington), 9-5 to win the 41st edition of the Canadian Mixed Curling Championship, held at the McIntyre Curling Club in Schumacher (Timmins), Ontario.

It is a record-tying eighth Mixed title for Alberta, equalling Saskatchewan, since the event began in Toronto in 1964 and the first for the province since Kevin Koe of Calgary won in 2000 in Lethbridge.

Kleibrink becomes the first woman to win the Mixed as skip, after being the first woman to skip at the Mixed last year in Abbotsford, British Columbia, where she finished as the runner-up to Nova Scotia's Paul Flemming.

It is the first Mixed win for Kleibrink, along with her husband Richard Kleibrink at third, Judy Pendergast at second and her husband Kevin Pendergast at lead, representing the Calgary Winter Club.

Nova Scotia (skip Paul Flemming of Halifax) won the 40th Canadian Mixed Curling Championship, defeating Alberta (Shannon Kleibrink of Calgary, the first woman to ever skip at the Mixed), 12-11 in an extra end in Abbotsford, British Columbia. It was one of the highest scoring finals in Mixed history.

It was the sixth Mixed title for Nova Scotia since the championship began in 1964 in Toronto and the second consecutive win for both the province and the Mayflower Curling Club, after Mark Dacey won last year in Halifax.

It was the second Canadian Mixed title for Flemming, who also skipped Nova Scotia to victory in 1999 in Victoria. It was the first Mixed win for third Kim Kelly, a four-time Scott Tournament of Hearts (1999, 2001, 2002, 2003) champion and 2001 Ford Worlds winner.

It was the third Canadian Mixed title for second Tom Fetterly, who also won in 1993 (skip Scott Saunders) and 1999 (skip Paul Flemming), but the first Mixed title for lead Cathy Donald.

Nova Scotia (Paul Flemming of Halifax) and Saskatchewan (Bryan Derbowka of Yorkton) finish tied for first with 10-1 records. Since Nova Scotia defeated Saskatchewan 7-5 during the round robin, Nova Scotia was placed first, Saskatchewan second. Alberta (Shannon Kleibrink of Calgary) finished third with a 9-2 record.

Manitoba (Kelly Robertson of Brandon), New Brunswick (Wayne Tallon of Fredericton Junction) and Ontario (Nick Rizzo of Brantford) finish tied for fourth with 6-5 records.

The results of the pre-event draw-to-the-button skills competition were used as the tie-breaking procedure for seeding only, since no team had defeated the other two in round robin competition. Manitoba was seeded first, Ontario second and New Brunswick third. Therefore, Ontario met New Brunswick in the first tiebreaker, winning 7-5. Ontario then defeated Manitoba, 8-7 in the second tiebreaker to claim fourth place prior to the start of the Page Playoffs.

Nova Scotia (Mark Dacey of Halifax) defeats Prince Edward Island (John Likely of Charlottetown), 6-4 to win the 2002 Canadian Mixed Curling Championship at the Mayflower Curling Club in Halifax.

It is the fifth Canadian Mixed title for Nova Scotia since the championship began in 1964. Nova Scotia's other wins came in 1993 (skip Scott Saunders), 1995 and 1998 (skip Steve Ogden) and 1999 (skip Paul Flemming).

It is the first Canadian Mixed win for Mayflower Curling Club skip Mark Dacey, second Rob Harris and lead Laine Peters but second for third Heather Smith-Dacey, who won in 1994 as third for New Brunswick's Grant Odishaw.

It is also only the third time that a skip has won the Canadian Mixed at his home club. The others were Kurt Balderston of Grande Prairie Curling Club in Grande Prairie, Alberta in 1992 and Bernie Yuzdepski of the Nutana Curling Club in Saskatoon in 1978.

Of note for the week was PEI skip John Likely setting records for the most Mixed appearances as skip (8) and the most wins (52).

Québec (Jean-Michel Ménard of Boucherville) wins Canadian Mixed final over Nova Scotia (Mark Dacey of Halifax), 5-4 by stealing one in the 10th end.

It is the first Mixed title for Québec since the competition began in 1964. It is also the first Mixed win for skip Jean-Michel Ménard, third Jessica Marchand, second Marco Berthelot and lead Joëlle Sabourin.

Weyburn stages the second best-attended Canadian Mixed Curling Championship in history, with an attendance of 20,340, behind only Owen Sound's 22,147 in 1998, but ahead of Kindersley's 19,910 in 1997.

There was a history-making seven-way tie for first place, as Quebec, PEI, N.S., Alberta, Ontario, B.C. and Saskatchewan finished with 7-4 records.

1. In head-to-head tie-breaking procedures plus a pre-event skill-based contest involving a team draw to the button, Quebec (Jean Michel Ménard) was placed first.
2. Prince Edward Island (John Likely) was placed second.
3. Nova Scotia (Mark Dacey) was placed third.
4. Alberta (Kurt Balderston) was placed fourth.
5. Ontario (Howard Rajala) was placed fifth.
6. British Columbia (Wes Craig) was placed sixth.
7. Saskatchewan (Scott Coghlan) was placed seventh.

Tie-breaker schedule: (4) Alberta (Kurt Balderston) vs (7) Saskatchewan (Scott Coghlan)
(5) Ontario (Howard Rajala) vs (6) British Columbia (Wes Craig)

Note: Leah Birnie replaced Kim Hodson (Saskatchewan) for tiebreakers. Hodson had to attend women's provincials. Birnie became the lead, while Laurie Secord-Humble moved to third.

The two winners then played to determine the fourth place finisher. Once that was accomplished, the Page Playoff System took effect: (1) Quebec vs (2) PEI, winner to final, loser to semifinal; 3 (NS) vs 4 (SK), winner to semifinal, loser eliminated.

HISTORY OF THE CANADIAN MIXED CURLING CHAMPIONSHIP

The Canadian Mixed Curling Championship began in 1964 in Toronto and was held at the Royal Canadian Curling Club. At that time, Carling O’Keefe Brewery was the event sponsor and remained so through the 1971 edition.

Manitoba’s Ernie Boushy won the first Canadian Mixed and would go on to win his second title two years later in 1966.

During the eight years of the O’Keefe Mixed Championship, Saskatchewan and Alberta each won three times (Manitoba took the other two), while Saskatchewan’s Larry McGrath became the event’s only three-time winning skip, in 1967, 1968 and 1971.

In 1972, the Canadian Curling Association (CCA) temporarily took over as the sponsor, but starting in 1973, Seagram Distillers came on board as the new title sponsor, after deciding to shift its existing curling sponsorship from the Senior’s men’s championship to the Mixed. Seagram would remain the event’s sponsor through 1983.

During the Seagram Mixed years, the winning skips included Manitoba’s Barry Fry (1973), Saskatchewan’s Rick Folk (1974, 1983) and Northern Ontario’s Rick Lang (1981). Fry would go on to skip Manitoba to a Brier victory in 1979. Folk won two Briers and world titles, in 1980 and 1994, while Lang won three Briers, all as third, for Bill Tetley in 1975 and for Al Hackner in 1982 and 1985, when he also took two world titles.

From 1984-1994, the CCA (renamed Curling Canada in February of 2015) once again assumed sponsorship of the Mixed, which was normally held in late March, one of the final events in the Canadian championship calendar. Among the winning skips during that era were Manitoba’s Jeff Stoughton (1988, 1991) and Prince Edward Island’s Peter Gallant (1987) and Robert Campbell (1989). Stoughton would also eventually win three Briers (1996, 1999 and 2011) and two world titles (1996 and 2011).

Other well-known curlers who won the Mixed during this time included Saskatchewan’s Jan Betker (1984), an eventual three-time world champion (1993, 1994, 1997) and 1998 Olympic gold medallist, Ontario’s Hugh Millikin (1986) and Nova Scotia’s Colleen Jones (1993).

In 1995, some significant changes took place to the Mixed, which was staged that year in Sarnia. Unitel became the title sponsor and the event, now held in January, became the first one in the new ‘Season of Champions’, a marketing concept involving all of the televised Canadian and world curling championships.

A new playoff format was also introduced, the Page Playoff system, which placed the top four finishers in a unique playoff structure. The Page system was also adopted that year for both the Labatt Brier and Scott Tournament of Hearts.

The ‘Page’ paired the first and second place teams in one game, with the winner advancing to the final, the loser to the semifinal. The third and fourth place teams met in the other game, with the winner also advancing to the semifinal, while the loser was eliminated.

Unitel sponsored the Mixed in 1995 and 1996, before its parent company, AT&T, took over for the 1997 and 1998 editions. The CCA assumed sponsorship of the national championship once again in 1999.

The Mixed continued to be the first event in the Season of Champions through 2004. Among the two-time winners during that period were Nova Scotia skips Steve Ogden (1995, 1998) and Paul Flemming (1999, 2003).

Other well-known skips to win include Alberta's Kevin Koe in 2000. Koe has since gone on to win three Briers (2010, 2014, 2016) and two world titles (2010 and 2016) while other Mixed winners such as Quebec's Jean-Michel Ménard (2001) and Nova Scotia's Mark Dacey (2002), also won the Brier...Dacey in 2004, Ménard in 2006.

Record six-time Scott Tournament of Hearts winner (1982, 1999, 2001, 2002, 2003, 2004) and two-time world champion (2001, 2004) Colleen Jones won her second Mixed title during this time, as third for Flemming in 1999.

In 2003 in Abbotsford, British Columbia, Alberta's Shannon Kleibrink of Calgary became the first woman to skip a national Mixed team. The following year, in Schumacher, Ontario, Kleibrink made history again, this time winning the Canadian Mixed.

However, beginning with the 2005 edition, the Mixed was no longer part of the televised 'Season of Champions'. The event was moved to mid-November, since many of the provincial champions were now being determined the previous spring. The 2005 Canadian Mixed was held November 21-28, 2004 at Prince Albert, Saskatchewan.

In addition, the Page Playoff system was replaced by the traditional first place team (at the conclusion of the round robin) advancing to the final while the second and third place teams play in a semifinal. The 2005 Canadian Mixed was won for the first time by Newfoundland and Labrador, skipped by Mark Nichols, a former world junior champion (2001) who would also go on to Olympic glory in 2006, as third for Canada's Brad Gushue (fourth rock thrower) when winning the gold medal in Turin, Italy. Nichols is also a two-time Brier (2017, 2018) and men's world champion (2017).

In 2008, the city of Iqaluit in Nunavut staged the 2009 Canadian Mixed. It was the first time that the territory of Nunavut had hosted a national sporting championship of any kind.

Only two provinces have gone unbeaten at The Mixed: Alberta in 1965 (10-0), 1969 (10-0) and 2016 (12-0); Saskatchewan in 1968 (10-0) and 1984 (12-0).

There's been one seven-way tie for first place - in Weyburn, Saskatchewan in 2001 - when the teams were eventually seeded for the playoffs by their won-loss records within the group plus the pre-event draw to the button results.

Prince Edward Island's John Likely holds the record for most appearances as skip (9) and most games won (55).

Alberta has won a leading 11 Canadian Mixed titles through 2016. Saskatchewan is second with 10. Every province, plus Northern Ontario, has won at least one Mixed since 1964.

The 2015 Canadian Mixed was held November 10-15, 2014 in North Bay, Ontario. Unlike the two previous years when the bottom four teams (11th-14th) from the previous Mixed played a pre-event double knockout to determine which two teams advanced for the main 12-team draw, this renewal had a new format, somewhat similar to the Canadian Juniors.

There were two seven-team pools, with the teams seeded based on their won-lost records in the last three years. The teams played a round robin within the pool. The top four in each pool then advanced to the championship round where the teams played games against the teams they did not play in the first round. At the conclusion of the championship round, two semifinals were played: 1 vs 4 and 2 vs 3. The winners advanced to the gold medal final while the losers met in a bronze medal game. This competition format, which once again consists of eight-end, not 10-end games, has been in place ever since.

Since 2008, two members of the Mixed winning team had represented Canada at the World Mixed Doubles. However, in 2013 and 2014, the winning team at the Canadian Mixed received two entries (two two-person teams) into the Canadian Mixed Doubles Curling Championship, the event that determines the duo to represent Canada at the World Mixed Doubles Curling Championship.

However, beginning with the 2015 Mixed (played in November of 2014) the winning team has instead represented Canada at the following year's World Mixed Curling Championship. Canada has won one gold at the worlds, courtesy of Ontario's Mike Anderson in 2018.
